

To the most excellent Prince, and our most redoubted foueraigne Lord Edward the fixt, by the grace of God King of England, Fraunce, and Ireland, defendour of the faith, and of the Churches of England, and Ireland, in earth the supreme head: your most faithfull and obedient subject Thomas Wilfon, wifheth long life, with most prosperous raigne.

F MY POVVER

and abilitie, were as answerable to my good will, most excellent Prince and soueraigne Lord, this token of myne humble duetie, which I now offer vnto your Maiestie, should be as great and precious, as by reason of the contrary, it is base and slender. Wherefore, I most humbly beseech your Maiestie, in no worse part to accept this little offer, then as the present of a true faithfull Subiect, which would have brought better, if his power had beene thereafter. But following the example of poore men, in the auncient histories of Plutarch, and other Writers much commended: I offer vnto your highnes, parte of such fruites, as have growen in a poore Students Garden. This fruite being of a straunge kinde (such as no English ground hath before this tyme, and in this sorte by any Tillage brought forth) may perhaps in the first tasting, seeme

THE EPISTLE.

fomewhat rough and harsh in the mouth, because of the straungenesse: but after a litle vse, and familiar accustoming thereunto, I doubt not, but the same will waxe enery one day, more pleasaunt then other. But in simple and plaine wordes, to declare vnto your Maiestie, wherein my wit and earnest endeuour, hath at this season trauailed: I have assayed through my diligence, to make Logike, as familier to the Englishman, as by divers mens industries, the most parte of other the liberall Sciences are. For, confidering the forwardnesse of this age, wherein, the very multitude are propt and ripe in all Sciences, that have by any mans diligence, beene set forth vnto them: weighing also that the capacitie of my Countrie-men, the English nation, is so pregnant, and quicke to achine any kinde, or art of knowledge, whereunto it may attaine, that they are not inferiour to any other: and farther, pondering that divers learned men of other Countries, have heretofore, for their furtherance of knowledge, not suffered any of the Sciences liberall, to be hidden in the Greeke, or Latine tongue, but have with most earnest tranaile, made enery of them familiar to their vulgar people: I thought that Logike, among all other being an Arte, as apt for the English wits, and as profitable for their knowledge. as any the other Sciences are, might with as much grace be fet forth in the English, as the other Artes, heretofore haue beene. And therefore, I have fo farre as my flender practife hath enabled me, enterprised to ioigne an acquaintaunce betweene Logike, and my Countrie-men: from the which they have beene heretofore barred, by tongues vnacquainted. Notwithstanding, I must needes confesse, that the Printer hereof your Maiesties servaunt, provoked me first herevnto, vnto whom I have ever found my felfe greatly beholding, not onely at my being in Cambridge, but also at all tymes els, when I most needed helpe. But as touching the thing it felfe, though I have not done it with fo good perfection, as the worthines of the Art requireth, or as some other better learned could do:yet I hope, that whereas now it is dedicated vnto your highnes, & so made commo to al:

THE EPISTLE.

my good will shall want no fauourers, in that I have first laboured, to bring so noble a maistresse, both of reason and judgement, acquainted with fo noble a Countrey, and here to bee made of astraunger, a free Denison. Wherein I take not vpon me so cunningly, and perfectly to have written of the favd Arte, as though none could doe it better: But because no Englishman vntill now, hath gone through with this enterprise, I have thought meete to declare, that it may be done. And yet herein I professe it to be but a Spurre, or a Whetstone, to tharpe the Pens of some other, that they may polish, and perfect, that I have rudely and groffely entered. And albeit, I doe herein take vpon me no more, but to be as a poore meane man, or a simple person, whose charge were to bee a Lodesman, to conucigh some noble Princes, into a straunge lande, where she was neuer before, leaving the entertayning, the enriching, & decking of her, to fuch as were of fubstance, and furniture according: yet if this worke may not at the first enteraunce, have the saufe conduct and protection of your most noble royall Maiestie, I trust it shall in processe appeare, and proue, that I have not altogether in vaine, taken vpon me this straunge labour, but rather to very good purpose and effect, attempted the same. I knowe your Grace, for your owne studie, little needeth any helpe, of fuch an English enterprise, being so well trauailed, both in the Greeke, and in the Latine, for the same purpose, thorowe the helpe of those right worthie men, Sir Iohn Cheke, and Sir Anthonie Cooke, your Maiesties teachers, & Scholemasters in all good literature. But to feede and satisfie the thirst and desire of such English-men, as for default of the fayd tongues, could otherwise not come to the knowledge of Logike: I have judged it labour worth, to give the precepts and rules thereof in English, that all men, according to the gift, that to every one is measured, may bee the more prouoked to followe the examples of your Maiestie, aswell in studiousnes, and desire of knowledge, as also in the exercife of all vertue, and Princely worthinesse, wherein your Grace hath made a goodly entrie. In which most godly A.111. trade.

THE EPISTLE.

trade, if your Grace shall continue together with the feare of Cod, and the most reuerent observation, of his most holy Commaundements, and Gospell (wherein at this day all England, to their incomparable loye and comfort, doth fee and finde your Maiesties chiefe delight to be ) it can not be doubted, but that the same shalbe to the wicked a terrour. to the godly a comforte, to this Realme of England, a perpetuall defence and safegarde, and to all Christian Kinges, either now living, or hereafter to come, an exaple of Kingly worthinesse, and a mirrour of Princely gouernaunce. And whereas to the most noble Kinges of Israell and Inda, the Lord for their fondrie vertues, gaue fondrie giftes of grace, (as to Dauid his dearling, puisaunce and might against his enemies: To Salomon, wisedome and riches: To Aza,innocencie of life, and purenesse of Religion : To losaphat, prudence of Kingly regiment, to set good Ministers and Officers ynder him: To good King Iofias, the advancement of Gods true seruice, and the rooting vp of Idolatrie: To Ioathan, a long and a prosperous reigne, and all good rest and quietnesse: )all these noble giftes, of Regall excellencie, shall the Lord your guide, and gouernour, vouchfafe to powre vpon your highnesse, to endue you withall, in whom are now planted such graffes, of his heavenly grace, as the fruites hereafter is most like to be incomparable. Which thing ereafter is most like to be incomparable. Which thing that it may so bee, your Maiestie hath and perpetually shall haue, the daylie, and incessaunt prayers, of all vs your most faithfull louing subjects, for the long & prosperous reigne of your highnesse, to the glory of God, & the honor and Princely dignitie of your Realmes, and Dominions,long to endure. A-

GVALTERVS HAD-

DONVS CANTABRIGIENSIS, Legum Doctor & Regius in iure Ciuili professor.

Rammatice, lingua nos est affata Britanna, Curreret vt latys lingua Britanna rotis. Nunc Logice venit, & nostris se vocibus affert, Ut ratio nostros possit habere sonos. Ante, peregrinis linguis instructa suisti, Anglia, nunc propria discere voce potes.

Grammaticen laudant omnes, quia verba polinit:
Qualis erit Logice nos ratione regens?
Attulit hanc, nostras Thomas Wilsonus ad aures, Vilis & patria sic fuit ille sua.

DEDEDEDEDEDEDE

THOMAS WILSOnus, Lectori. S. D.

S I sit amor Logices, vel honesti sit tibi cura, Qua tibi sunt vsu nota, docere decet.
Instruit ars mentem, vel disce, vel ipse doceto,
Vtere quando placet, corrige, quando libet.

FINIS.

also a constitution of the constitution of ( and planting the principle of the later OF LEW SAMOUN Selection than the A Saltine of Galactus Charles Street S. Address I to the second

EBBEBEBEBEBEBEB

The Arte of Logike.

NEVERYCAVSE that man both handle, this one leffen Chould firft be learned. Penerto enter buo any matter, not yet ence to talke without good abuifem et. Artesthere. fore were invented, wifemen are pet for the fame caufe effermet, and fane Counfaffours hab in much benour. In confideration whereof, Aristotle, in whome nature bath power her graces plentifully, teacheth by precepts, in all our voings, to take good abuife, It is alwaies right neevefull (faith he) by thefe fower especiall points, to cramine euerp matter, before we take in hand to teache it any other. Firft, to knowe whether the thing be of no, whereof we entreate. Fower quelit-Againe, what it is in Subffance, and by the owne nature. Third ons necessarie ly, what maner of thing it is. Fowerthly, wherefore, or to what to be made of any matter, beende it is : Row in talking of Logike, I neede not to question, fore we dispute whether Logike be on no. For, he that knoweth reason to be in man, and the same given by the great might of God:mull needes confesse, that Logike also is in man, and that only by God, for, there is none other difference, betwirt the one and the other, but that Logike is a Greeke word, and Reason is an English word.

And therefore, be that freaketh Logike, freaketh nothing els but reafon, pea, there be many Greeke wordes, mabe Englift, whereof all men have not the meaning. As fer example. A pong mam of Cambridge, litting in his camber, with two or three of his fellowes, and happening to fall in talke of a woman, then latelp maried to a feholer, when every one had fapo his rhantafie, afwell of the man, as of the woman, comparing the qualities of the one, with the properties of thother faying their pleasure cuetp one of them, of her beautie and her body, pro & contra : this pong man chopping in with his reason, fapt : I can not tell my mailters, but furely I for my part, take her for a catholike wo man, let other men thinke what they lifte. Wihen his felowes beard B.i.

heard this die report, they laughed apace, as knowen by their learning, what this word meant. For Catholike being a Greke word, signifieth nothing in English, but universall or common. And wee call in English a common woman, an evill woman of her bodie. Therefore, though termes be darcke, and the meaning unknowen to many, pet the tructh enclosed, is alwaies one, and gruen us of God, use what termes we lest. This then perceived, that Logike is the Rule of Reason, I thinke it as needelesse, to aske whether it be, or no, as to aske, whether any man can speake, or no. Thus pe see we must trie Logike by the seconde question, learning thereby to knowe first of all, what is the substance and nature thereof.

The definition of Logike.

What Logike is

What maner of thing Logike is.

Ogike is an Arce to reason probablie, on both parts, of al marters that be put sorth, so farre as the nature of energy thing can beare.

In vectaring what maner of thing Logike is, we must understand that all things happening, or the which doe fall in controversite, and may through reason fully be era-mined, are in this question evermore considered. It happeneth therefore to Logike, and accidentally also belongeth to the same upon all things to entreate, which commonly by wit are examined, or may through reason at all be discussed. Reither can we do any thing, without the helps of reason, to guive all our actions.

Wherefore, or so what ende Logike is. Man, by Mure hath a sparke of knowledge, and by the secret working of DD, sudgeth after a sort, and discerneth good from euill. Before the fall of Adam, this knowledge was perfect, but through offence, darkenedle folowed, and the bright light was taken away. While men therefore considering the weakenesse of many wit, at the blinductle also, wherein we are all probe ned: inachted this Arte, to helpe us the rather, by a naturall order, to finde out the tructh. For though before Adams salle, knowledge was naturall, and came without labour, yet no one man can now of himselse, attaine the trueth in all things, without helpe and disigent learning.

The

The deuision of Logike.

Dis Arte is divided in two partes. The first part fanbeth in framing of the things aptip together, and knitting words for the purpole accordingly, and in Latine is called Indicium.

Indition.

The fecond part conlitteth, in finding out matter, and fearthing fluffe, agreable to the caufe, and in Latine is called Inventio.

Ingention.

For you muste understand, that when one goeth about to prove any thing, bee mult first invent somewhat to prove his caufe, the which when he bath boen : he must ble inderment both in framing the same reason so invented, and also to see whether it ferueth for the purpofe, or not.

And now fome will fap, that I hould first fpeake of the finding out of an argument, before I thould teache the way howe to frame an arquinent. Trueth it is, that naturally wee finde a reason, or we beginne to fashion the same. And pet notwithfanbing, it is more meete that the ordering of an argument houlde be first bandled: forasmuchas it shall no more profite a man, to finde out his argument, except he be first knowne, howe to order flame, a to have it accordingly, (which he both not yet perfect-Ip knowe) then Cones of timber thall profite the Bafon, of Carpenter, which knoweth not howe to worke upon the fame. A reafon is eastier found, then fathioned, for every man can give a reafon naturally, and without arte, but how to fathion and frame the fame, according to Arte, none can boe at all, except they be learneb. Therefore, because euery mans witte , can give lightly a reason of divers things, without any learning at all, even by the inffinct of nature, and pet not bee able to fet the fame in order Scholerlike, either to moone, or to confute : I purpole first to theme the maner of making an Argument (as which is more neevefull)nert after that, the maner of finding of an Argument, and the places where all Arguments boe reft. And laft of all, the captions of deceptfull arguments, as they be in Aristotle.

B.ii.

A briefe

A briefe declaration in Meetre, of the feuen liberalt Artes, wherein Logike is comprehended as one of them.

Rammer both teache to btter woods: To fpeake beth apt and plaine. Logike by Arte, fettes forth the trueth. And both tell what is baine. Rhetorike at larges paintes wel the caufe. And make that feeme right gaie. Which Logike spake but at a word,

And taught as by the way. Musike with tunes, velites the earc: And makes ba thinke it heaven: Arithmetike by nomber can make Reckenings to be enen. Geometrie things thicke and broade, Meafures by line and fquare: Aftronomie by farres both tell: Difoule and eke of faire.

The difference betweene Logike and Sophistrie.

The difference

betweene Logike and Sophi-

Ogike, otherwise called Dialecte (for they are both one)is an Arte to trie the come frathe chaffe, the trueth from euerie fallhoode, by defining the nature of any thing, by dividing the fame, and alfo by knitting together true arguments, and buttops

ning all knottie fubtelties, that are both faile and mongfully framed together.

Sophistrie is euer occupied, either in mouing the trueth, almaies to be falle, or els that, which is falle to be true, to that euermore one part of the argument is either falle by bling fome any biquous worde, or by not well applying it to the purpole, or els not framing it, according to the rules: fo that a fkilfull artificer. man foone put the vaine Sophister to stence, by opening the fraude, and beclaring the craft of his invention, Whereas othere mile an argument, made by the rules of Logike, can not be audibed, but must needes be true, whose cuer fay nave. And so much more is Logike to be preferred before Sophistrie, ashe is the more to be efteened, that telleth a true tale, then he which telleth alve. And even as a Grammarian is better liked, that fpeaketh true and good Latine, then he is that fueaketh falfe : euen fo Logike of it felfe is good, when Sophistrie on the other five is naught. And well may wee fay, that Sophitters are like thofe, which plate with falle Dice, and would make other beleene that they are true, or els properly to terme them, they bee like those that goe for boncit men, and are none.

BIG

111

111

The difference betweene Logike and Rhetorike.

Dth thefe Artes are much like, fauing that Logike The difference betweene Lois occupied about all matters, and both plainly and gike and Rheanakedly fet footh with apt words , the fumme of torike. things, by the way of argumentation. Again of the other live, Rhetorike vieth gaie painted fentences, and fetteth forth those matters with fresh colours, and goodly oznaments, and that at large. In fo much that Zeno being af hed the bifference, betweene Logike and Rhetorike, made answere by pernonfiration of his hand, occlaring that when his hand was closed, it resembled Logike, when it was oven and Arctched out it mag like Rhetorike.

The office of Logike.

Ogike professeth to teache truely, orderly, and plain. The office of In And here wernay fee, how untuerfall this commoditie is a how largely itertenveth, not only to knowe morloly affaires, but also to knowe God, and all his heavenly workes, fo farre as nature may camprehende.

There bee foure partes of this office, or buetie, whereunto The partes of Logike je bound, Chat is: Covefine the nature of euery thing, Logikes duetic. to devide to knit true arguments, and buknit falle.

Of Questions.

Dis fame maner of knieting wordes in due order, being ane of the partes of Logike, or rather Logike it Leife, theweth the maner of Queffions , which other : mile are either propolitions of leverall wondes. A queltion 25.111.

question is either a worde or fentence put foorth, as when Jafke what such a thing is, would knowe an other mans abuse therein, as thus: What is man 'What is trueth' What is ambicion,

So cl form

fent

hen

mer

in h

and felf

mio

an

Det

be

R

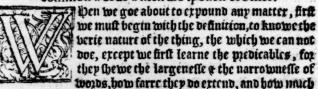

Íg

Euery question is either lingle or double. A lingle question, resteth in a lingle word, as thus. What is friendship ? What is Philolophie? A double question standeth not in one worde, tuintwo several sentences, as thus. Is the linke of Philolophie

praile worthie, or isit not's

Likewife a propolition, which is a fentence, ottered in plaine words expressly, lignifying either trueth or fallboote, is either lingle, or vouble. A lingle propolition, as thus. Which you may make a double propolition, by adding somewhat thereunto, as thus. Which you may make a lingle propolition, by adding somewhat thereunto, as thus. Which we men, not onely can they not above to reade the worde of God, but also they seeke, by all meanes possible, to overthrowe the same.

Of the fine predicables, otherwise called the fine common words which are spoken of other.

they comprehend in them. As when I see one a farre of come vato mee, first I knowe that he is a man, then when hee commeth nigher, I knowe whether he bee of mune acquaintance, of no. Likewise, when I goe about to declare what one is, and to open the nature of anything, I wie the largest wordes, and so it must needes he, that I begin with the predicables, because they shewe how much every word doth copychend in it selfe, and hawlange, of narrowe it is. They be called predicables, because some one thing, is spoken of an other. And they are (as a man would say) markes of notes of wordes that are spoken of many, shewing how and by what maner the same words are attributed to other. And even as the childe beginneth with his Crosse rowe, and the Scholer

7

Scholer with his eight parts of speach, so the Logician sirst and formost, professet to know wordes, before he purposet to knit sentences. Neither is there any one worde, which is not comprehended under one of these sine common words. And to this ende were those markes limited, that enery thing might be knowen in his kind. For if enery singular substance, of herbes, of stones, and such like, should have a severall name, neither the thing it selse, not yet the names could once be comprehended in our memorics. Therefore, as every thing is soyned by nature, one with an other, so they all being of one affinitie, are comprehended under one of these sines common wordes.

Genus.
Species.
Differentia.
The kind, or speciall.
The difference.
The propertie.
The propertie.
The thing chancing or cleaning to the substance.

Enus is a generall worde, the which is looken of Genus.
many, that differ in their kinde: as when this question is alked, what it is. As Animal, a living creature, Ars, an Arce, Virtus, Ucrtue, Gemma, a precisous stone. Drels thus: Genus, is a generall worde, bender the which, divers kindes of lottes of things are comprebended, as under a living creature, are comprehended, men and beaftes. Under Arte, are comprehended, Logike, Grammar, Rhetorike. &c. Guerp generall worde hath divers kindes, and is spoken evermore of them all. As Lapis, a stone, comprehended in it selfe, a Saphire, a Rubbie, a Christall, a Turkas: as thus. Saphirus oft lapis. A Saphire is a stone, and so of other.

Eurygenerall worde, is two mayes confidered, and commonly called the chiefe generall, in Latine, Genus summum, and the middle generall, in Latine, Genus inter medium.

The chiefe generall is so, that where as it is in the head of all and about all, it can never become inscriour, to be of any kind of so, tin things. As the substaunce, the qualitie, the quantitie, are ever ever chiefe generall words, and can not be compethender buder and other. The middle generall is the same, that being comprehended between the chiefe generall, and the lowest kind or fort in things, may be also some kinds or forme it felse, as a bodie, a living creature, a precious stone, the which three being compared with their inferiours, are generall words: being referred to their superiours, they are Species. That is to say, shapes, kindes, or sortes of things.

THEKIND

Pecies, seu forma, the kind, or sort of any thing (comprehended bed under a worde more universall) is the same of whome the generall word is spoken, when the question is asked, what it is. And when I aske: What is suffice? I aunswere a vertue. Thersore, in this Proposition (suffice is a vertue) suffice is the kinde, and vertue is the generall worde, which comprehends the sayo suffice, and is spoken of the same.

Dr thus, Species is a common worde, that is spoken of many, which differ onely in nomber, as man is spoken of Socrates, Plato, Aristotle, and of every proper name belonging to any man. As Socrates is a man, Plato is a man, Aristotle is a man, Euery Species, or kinde in things, is of two loptes. The one is called the lowest kind, which is alwaies spoken of cuery proper name, and ever is the kinde, neither can it at any time be the generall worde, although sometime it bears the name of the generall worde. The other is called Species intermedia, that is, the kinde placed betweene the highest and the lowest, which at divers times, and by divers considerations, may both be the generall worde and the kinde. Forthat which is under the generall word, that same may be called Species, or kind, that which comprehends other, may be called the generall worde.

A NOWNE Proper. A Rowne proper, is that whereof the kinde is reheatled. As Cato of homo, Cato is a man : In this Propolition Cato is the Nowne proper, which belongeth to one man onely, and man, is the kinde, which is more large, and comprehendeth all men.

This

THis Table sheweth the order of every substance & kind. as they are appointed by Nature, what the chief generall wordes are, what the middle generall are, what the lowest kinds in enery kind are, & what the kinds betwixt both are.

With bedy. \3 Sub- \ Without body: \ Ingels. Spurite. Durites. The foule is of man. The fower Clements. fire. Compouned & bodie & Without mix #pre. Water. Carth. Deauen & all the Die nets. Stones. SBeing alls 52 bobte SWithout life: Zuing thing. Zituing. 238 (Liquozes. Spauing the Sabovie Swithout fence (3 Cree. Zience of feling Liuing. 35 Shub. Without the Capon the land. gift of reason:
as beasts, birs
bes, or fish fome lining: Sendued with 53 liuing

Creature.

Sa man: CScipio. (Alexander, e euery fenerall man lining.

£3.

n

10

Ifference is the fame that is spoke of many, which The difference. Differ in forme and kinde, when the quettion is althed, what maner of thing it is, as when wee lay: Quale quid eft homo ? What maner of thing is man ! dalee muft anfmere: he is endued with rea-

fon. If the question be as ked what man is: wee must answere by his Genus, o's generall morde hers'a lining creature. If the que-C.i.

ftion be alked, what maner of thing a bentler collernay lay: he is without the gift of realon. Europidifference that is most proper to every thing, is naturally and functionally iopned to the kinde which is comprehended under the generall morde.

The Propertie.

Propertie, is a natural pronenelle, and maner of boing, which agreeth to one knive, and to the fame onely, and that evermore, And also may be spoken of the fame kinde, and by connet sion the fame kinde may be fpoken of him alfo. As to fpeake, and to have power to laugh, both onely agree to man, and to none other creature earthly. And as Imay fay: Whofoeuer is a man, bath power given bim of nature to fpeaker So may A alle fan by cotterfion backwarper whologuer hath power given bin of Jantife to fueake, that fame bodie is a man. To barke is proper to a bodie. and onely prover, and evermore prover . Ergo, whofoever hath power or rather an inclination given of Mature to barke, that fame is a bogger and againg: Zabachoever creature is a ponge. that fame hath power, or rather an inclination to barke . Co moe bysicht is proper to a man, and onely to a man, and to noue other lining creacure, Motwidstanbfing, pe muft marke one think, that although many men noe trooked, and lonie alfo can not fneake : pet borb to goe vyright, and to fpeake, are moper to all men generally and therforethes tute feruethto auopoe fuch obs iections. Kerba in definitionibus posita, non actum, fed potentiam Conficunt . Whittie as much tolay: that wordes vied in befine tion. ooe not fighiffe the very act in beed, but the power, the aut. neffe, or the inclinations of Mature thereunto : as when I fay, it is proper for every man to fpeake: I meane to bee able on to bee ant by Matureto beake, is proper to every man.

Note further, that the Propertie is not alwaics taken after one forte, but it is fower water confibered."

First the Papertic is that which agreeth to fome kinde only falthough note enery person comprehended under the same kinde. As it is proper to a man one speed be a Pose, or to be a Philition, and yet not proper to energy man.

Secondly, the Propertie is that which agreeth to enery fingular possen, and yet not onely common. As to have two feet as world

greeth to every fingular perfon, and pet wot to mat energy, 12

Thirdly, the Propertie is that which agreeth to every man. and to man onely and pet not alwaies not for duringe . As to have houre beires in the olde age agreeth to man onely; and pet not alwaies, but for the molt part men have houre beires in their old age.

Fourthly, the Propertie is that which in vecte is most autly and chiefly called Proprium, when any thur deth agree to enery man, to man onely, and alwaies to man. As to be able to fueake to laugh, to goe byright, agreeth to every man, to man onely, and

alwaies to man.

be

0=

36

b

2.

e

9

i

This Diverlitie many have made betwirt the Difference and The difference the monertie, that the difference is one parte of mans lubtrance, betwiet the proand is the parte that maketh up man, As to bauethe gitt of reas difference. fon both lignifie the minde, which is one parte of man, for made bimlelfe is compact of bodie and minder antimate . cod to arest

A Propertie both liquific a certaine thing, which is autributed to man when he is made, and as a man would fap, both come after, when man is wholly made, asto bee able to fpeake, to launt, to nee byriaht.

"al Accident (that is to fay, a thing tleauing, or thaunting, or The Accident comming to'a Substance) is that which both not france by bimlelfe, netther is the parte ofa Substannte, but rather is after fuch force in the Subftaunce, that it may both bee away and bee there fometimes more and fometimes leffe, without befruction or loffe of the fubiect, or fubitatince, as mitth, fortome, to runne. to fit to be well coloured, attabeld may bee away, and vet the men may bee on line, in whom thep were before ! So that the lacke of them in their quantitio, or it partielle, is not the loffe of the substance. And although no substance at any time both at together forfake his accidents : perthis weefer, that one and the fame Substaunce Doth Comecime pier bis Acciponts forfaking tome, and taking ather . As water beeing fet sa the fire altereth the colonelle, and taketh beare, fo that wearnay twoer by this, that colonelle in the water is not a Substannee but an Ari cident, नामामान्य अभी को श्री प्रशासी की क्ष

(0)

The devision of

In accident is two water confidered, for either it may bee fee narated out map not fome map be feparated from their fubiect. as colo may be taken from water, and knowledge from & mind. Deber are inseparable, because they cannot be taken amap altogether, as fature or broadnelle, cannot be taken from mã. Deate cannot bee taken from fire, no moufture from water, the which not withfranding they are not feparate from their fubitaunce, vet the quantitie or greatneffe is chaungeable in cuery one of theme for fornetime it is more, and fomtime it is leffe. And we fee beate in other thinges to be fevarated from the Subject. Whereupon. me judge that the heate is an other thing the the bery fubitance of fire. Therfore, this is worthie to be knowne, that the fubitance is one thing, and the accident an other thing, and meete it is to make a difference betwirt them as thus: the foule is one thing. the feare of God is an other thing. Man may bee without the feare of Bod, (as many one is at this bay, the more pitie) therefore the feare of God is an accidenc, the foule is a fubitaunce.

The vie of the Accident.

Done man could be knowne from an other, neither pet any other thing, if it were not for the Accidents which happen but o them. As when I would knowe an Hearbe, a Stone, a Beall, a Man, I mult give the proper Accidents, veclaring the same to be of this or that co-lour, separating all such by bestription from all other, as well of that kinde, as of any other sorte els.

Theyle and commoditie, which we have by these five commune wordes, called otherwife Predicables:

The first vie.

here bee fower especiall commodities. First, they shows the largeness, and the narrownesse of the most generall wordes, called otherwise Previous numes, which hereafter follower so that hereby pe may perceive how much every worke comprehense nd vic. beth in it lelle, and how fatte it may be applied. The fecond protite is, that every thing is defined by thele five commune words.

for

for alimuch as all thinges, the more narrowe thep be, are alwaies befined by wordes that are more large. As by the general word.

by the kinde, by the difference, and the movertie.

Thirdly, they are good to judge the knitting of wordes, and The third vie. to fee what thing map truely bee topned to other, for there is no Propolition, or pet topning together of any fentence (according to the common order of Mature) but they alwaies agree to thefe about rehearled Diedicables: fo that either the kinde is fpoken of the fingulare or proper name (which is eucr fome one perfon) as thus: Cicero est homo, Cicero is a man . Di els the menes rall worde, the difference, the propertie, or the Accident are all fpoken either of the kinde, or of some one person . As thus : Homo, vel Cicero, est animal ratione præditum, loquendi facultatem habens, Album, longum, latum . a man of Cicero, is a liuing creature endued with reason, having aptnelle by nature to (peake, being white, long, and broade, So that no proportion can be, but the partes of the fame are comprehended within thefe five commune wordes. Fourthly, the generall worde, the kinde, The fourth vie. the difference and propertie are topned together necessarily to that when you name one, all the other followe. Therefore, when amopolition is made from the kinde, to the generall, to his bif rence or propertie: it is evermore an undoubted true propolition. as this: Homo est animal ratione præditum, loquendi facultatem habens. A man is a living creature endued with reafon. bauing aptneffe by nature to fpeake. A man cannot be ercept be bee a living creature endued with reason, and having aptneffe of nature to fpeake. The Accident notwithftanding is not necelfarily fooken of the fubiect, but is there cafualy, and may bee chaunged as thus: Homo eft albus. Some man is white. This Diopolition may be afterward falle, for he may bee blacke, or alter his complexion fome other way, fo that the Accident is often altered and an other fucceedethin his roome.

Therefore, it is good to be knowne, when you have a Propofition, whether it be undoubted true, for cuermore, or els may be falle at any time. And al Scholers ought as biligently to know thefe five commune wordes in all their boinges , as those that C.iii.

Learne

learne to write, should viligently marke their letters. By this trade, order is best had, when every eause is brought to these sine commune wordes the generall wordes sirst considered, next after, the kindes following vyon the same well observed, and set as though they were in araie, after that the difference, the properties, yea, and the accidents also placed accordingly. As Tully in his Offices shewing what that thing is, which we call how six sixthey acknowledge next ly, next after he setteth forth the forces and kinds of honestie, parting them into sower head vertues, where byon he declareth the difference and the propertie of every one, and lastly, he toucheth things that belong unto every vertue, and sheweth things that happen in this life.

Of the Predicaments, called in English the most generall wordes.

Predicament is an ofder of fingle words, wherein thinges of one kinde are couched and comprehended under one worde, which is most generall.

A Predicament is nothing els in English , but a ficwing or rebearling what wordes may be true.

thing, and also shewing what may be truely spoken, and what not. And so, this cause Ares were invented, that the trueth might be knowne, and every thing ottered with his proper wordes. For when I say, a man is a creature, I knowe this Proposition hat his proper words, and that like as man is a substance, so in the creature, which is the generall worde unto him, which both are in the Previcament, and the order in this Proposition is observed according to the Are: for we must alwaies beginne at the lowest and give upwardes, which order agreeth also to Nature, when thinges less knowne are occlared by chinges that are more knowne, as shall more plainely bereaster appears.

Dinision of Pre-

The Predicaments are devided into the substance and the Accident.

the first is both called the substaunce, and is a substaunce in beede. The other are Accidents, as not being of the substaunce, but veclaring thereunto.

The commoditie of thefe Diedicaments is greate . Firft. m'iere as they be beuided into the fubstaunce and accident : it is a good leffonto knowe cuermoze the fubstaunce, from the thing which is accidentall, And againe, of thefe most generall wordes arifeth this profite, that if you will befine any thing or the me the nature thereof, you may knowe in which of all these froze homfeg the morde reffeth, which would expresse the nature of an o. ther.

Thirdly, if one will bestowe a little biligence berein, fearching where every morde is fettled, and knowing to which of all thefe most generall wordes he may belt referre it : be shall faithfully knowe the nature of all thinges, no man better, then the which nothing is more necellarie, and this difference is betwirt the flue commune wordes , otherwife called Predicables , and Difference of thefe moff menerall morbes, called Bredicaments, that the Bre: Predicables and nicables let forth the largenelle of words, the Predicaments Doe name the very nature of thinges, veclaring (and that fubitancia ally) what they are in very beede.

A note of certaine thinges diligently to be obferued before the rehearfall of most generall wordes.

Dufibering ambiquitie breebetherrour . moff mas reneffe ought to be vled, that the boubleneffe of no one word beceive the hearer. The cause of all controuerfie, is either the not well understanding . or els the wylie pling of wordes, that in fence have bubble meaning, Aristorle chiefe Schoolemafter to al scholers. giveth good warning to all men, bee right ware in any wife to have the right understanding of every feverall worde,

There bee mordes that under one, and the fame title.comprehende the nature of many thinges, as thefe wordes following. Therete at an appet.

Sa Crowne.
Sa Moble.
Time.
Sage.

a Crowne ligntfieth the Crowne of a mans head, & allo fignifieth a Crowne of gold, such as is current, or els such as Kings weare at the day of their Coronation. A threwde boye feeing of late daies a Priest, clarkely thauen in the Crowne, at what time French Crownes bid beare an high price here in England, says to the Priest sull unhappely in this wife: I pray you master Parson (quoth he) how goeth Crownes now with you, whereat the Priest was abashed, and would rather have lost a Crowne in deede, then that his Crowne should have beene so curstly and in fuch wife taunteb.

Mobles fienifie not onely the Peeres of a Realme, but alfo they are the good pealow Robles in a mans purfe: A Prieft had a Roble for meaching a funerall Sermon , woon the beath of a merchipfull man , the Prieft purpoling to gratifie the bead , and mith bue matte to commende his liberalitie faith: furely he was a good man, a bertuous man, pea, be was a noble Gentleman. I thinke if it had beene his hap to have had a Royall, he had called him a royall Gentleman to . Time, noteth both the fpace of hos mer, day, and yeare, and also wee call an Dearbe by that name, which groweth in Garbens , Sage allo betokeneth an Bearbe. and pet we call wife men, fage men: fo p euerp one ofthefe words baue a bubble meaning, and iopned only together by fellowfhip of name; by nature a in very beebe, boe bery much biffent. Therfore, this ought evermore to be marked that all wordes bee well noted according to their natures, that the rather we may escape errour . Those are oncly to be received and pled for the maintenaunce of all trueth, whole name, and nature is all one, on the which are evermore to be taken and buderftanded after this fort. As homo a man, fignifieth none other thing but a man. A Tree fignifieth none other thing in all the world but a Tree only and fo of other. If any worde be bled that hath a bubble meaning.refraine the largeneffe thereof, and t clare how you will have it taken, by meanes whereof the fraude fall fooner be auophed.

Wordes alowable.

The

The predicaments are in nomber. x.

1	j.	Substantia.	The substannce.
i	y.	Quantitas.	The quantitie.
1	ių.	Qualitas.	The qualitie.
1	iiij.		The relation.
j	υ.		The maner of doing.
1	vi:	Paffio.	The fuffring.
		Quando.	When.
1	vių.	Vbi.	Where.
1	ix.	Situs.	The featling.
L	x.	Habitus.	The apparelling.

Abstance, or being, which Cicero calleth Mature, is a thing, which standeth by it self, and needeth no belpe of an other, but bath his proper being and substance naturally. Drehus.

The lubitace is a thing, which hath his proper being of himself, a conceineth accidents, which happen thereunto.

The denision of the substance.

23630GE 31.

The first substance, is called every singular person, or proper name, as Socrates, Plato, Virgil, Homere.

The fecond substance, comprehendeth both the che generall word, and also the kinds of euer in fingular person. As thus. Tully, Cafar, Hanniball, with other. Likewife this word (a lining creature) being a fubliance and generall word to every proper name, conseineth all things particularly, that have life.

It is profitable to marke the order of substaunce, let forth in a Cable a little before: for wee may by the same, decide severally every substaunce, of all things in this worlde, the which, when we knowe, and remember in our mindes, we perceive evidently, the difference, betweene God and his creatures, and feeing the thing created of GDD, and the properties therewithall, we reit byon the same, and learne the vie and proper commoditie of mas

D.i.

my things here in earth. Wee may befine many things by the same Cable, as we may befine God, man, heaven, earth, beatte, flone: and any thing els, that is a substance.

The propertie of a substance.

The substance receiveth by alteration of it selfe, and at sumbre times, divers and contrarie accidents, and yet the substance is not contrarie of the owne nature.

2 Ma fubiliance can be either greater of leffer; then it is by nature, although according to the breath, of largeneffe, it appears to be otherwife.

3 120 substance can bee feene with our eyes, but onely the outwarde accidents, whereby we subge and knowe, enery severall creature.

Of quantitie.

Cantitie, is the greatnesse of athing, of the number, and proper it is to this most generall worde, to be dissipled on as greatnesse is dissided into severall parter and numbers, into every severall number.

Quantitie is two wayes confidered.

The one is called continua quantitas, that is when the question is as ked, how greate of broad any thing is. And therefore, the length, the latitude, and the drepeness of bodies artificiall, are herein obscrued: the vie whereof, is most seene in Geometric.

The other is called difereta quantitas, when the question is alked, how many things there be, and it is occupied altogether in nombring. The ple of this is perceived in Arithmetike.

The propertie of quantitie.

r The quantitie hath nothing to bee contrary unto him, for great and little are not contraries, according to their quantitie, but they are relatives, compared the one with the other.

2 Mo quantitie both receive of the owne nature any thing, eicher greater of leffer, but it is alwaies one, and althought happeneth, that one life be longer then an other, yet according to the quantitie, a thort life is almuch a life, as a longer life is.

3 By quantitie allo, one thing is coumpted either equall, or els unequall buto an other thing.

Quantitie hath no contrarie.

Quantitie neither encreaseth, as diminisheth.

Of

Of Qualitie.

Calitic is a forme, or hape of the bobie, or minde, whereof fome name is beriuch : As of Wiscoome, men are called wife : of Juflice,men are called iufle.

There be three maner of qualities, where The habite in . of the first both conteine the babite, other thingwife called the perfect having of any thing.

The other is a forwardneffe in any thing , gotten by labour The forwards and trauaile, not geuen by Matures goodneile, or els wee may in any thing. call it, the halfe atteining of that, which wee goe about to have, wanting perfection, for lacke of full time, and is called in Latine difositio. As to have meane knowledge, and not to be fully instructed in the macrife of Justice, is difositio.

Againe, to be fully learned, to have accomplished all things Due to righteoufneffe, and Juffice, is called in Latine Habitus. As who thould lay, the absolute atterning, and firong holde of The full array. the fame. The pith of this worde Habitus, can hardly be betered ning of any with one worde, in this our tongue, notwithstanding it map in thing. mo wordes bee opened, for the better understanding of it. for, cuen as ware chaufed with the handes, is made fofter, euen fo fome partes of man, are made by ple, more apte to compaffe any thing.

De that bleth oft to fpeake Frenche, that by continuaunce obtaine perfection. De that pleth much to write, at length fbal have a reabie hande, and this is called Habitus. So that no man bath knowledge, or verfert fkill in anything, except he get it by las bour, and acquainte Mature withtrauaile. Motwichlanding, I must neeves confeste, that all natures be not like apt, to receive knowledge, Some are given to one thing, and forme to another. Therefore they, which by nature baue a momptneffe, thall foner attaine perfection, then any other can boe, if by labour and earnest travaile, they will stretche to attaine that, whereunto they are apt, and with good endeuour, fillip Mature forwardes. God giveth fome one man, a passing gift, to fearch the induences of D.IL

the Starres, to an other he graunteth anaturall inclination to Mulike, and all heavenly harmonies. So that if either of these two would seeke to folowe their naturall aptnesse, it were most like they should excell. Other that doe not finde nature so fauorable, can never come to any such perfection.

The full atteining, two wayes confidered.

The full acceining of any thing by long time, is two wayes confered: for either it is of the body, or els of the minde.

Perfection gotten by helpe of the body, is, when men can by much vie, leape, wastle, or east the barre, better then any other: or els doe excell in any handy craft, about the common lost.

Che havite of the minde, that is to lay, that constant hold of any thing, which is in the minde, either consisteth in knowledge, or els in practile. In knowledge are comprehended all Artes, as Grammer, Logike, Astronomie. &c. and all other learning whereunto wit can attaine. That havite of the minde, which is in practile, and by good adultement is chosen, standeth in the will of man. As all vertue, and at vice doth. Of vertues these be in mans will, sufficient evermore, manhoode in suffering all harmes stoutly for honesties sake, and temperance of life, in sophearing luste and sitchie gluttonie. These vertues though their offpring be from God, pet time maketh them perfect in the eyes of man. Other vertues are given of God wholie and altogether, without mans labour to attaine them. As faith, hope, charitie, and all other like giftes of the holy ghost.

The fecond forme is called the power, freugth, or monelle of nature, in Latine Naturalis vis. And the contrary beceunts is called the weakenesse of nature, when the hath denied her power to any thing, in Latine is called Imbecilitas natura.

Maturall frength, is aptneffe of nature, given either to the body, of to the mind. To the mind, as aptneffe to learne, promptones of memoric: to the body in man is aptness by nature to was ffle, for a Porfe to be quicke and ffirring, for a Birde to be apt to fie: for fift, to live in the water, the which man can not doe: for an Affe to be flowe: for a flone to be hard, at. Maturally weakes neffe, is when Mature diminished her gift, as when the denicity aptneffe to learning, as we see many bulle witter for learning.

The naturall

ftrength.

and much bufte that way. Mature hath benied fome men health. of body, that they are never well at eafe: fome men are to licke in their braine, that they are never wife : fome are Capones by kinve, and fo blunt by nature, that no arte at all can whet them. An Affe will neuer be fwift , a Scone will neuer be foft of Da. ture. All qualities be inftruments of Mature, wherchy the mozketh, as beate is the inftrument of fire. Deate and cold in the tapes, of hearbes, are infruments, whereby men-either are healed, or els valt healing for this worlde.

The thirde kinde comprehendeththe pallions of man, called Pattions. in Latine Percurbationes, and alfortiofe qualities, which tarie a rood while and moue man, either this way or that way

A percurbation, or els affection, is a forame chappage of the

There be fower firrings mineinall, which are in al the mins .-

whereof all other haue their offpring.

annous and Labido fen cupidites. f. Lufte, or defire. Mirthe Ingrategon died Egritude. 100 to S Griefe. Feare, Metus.

The which are director by fome motion of the minte, either heliring any thing earneftly, or abhorring the fame.

There be fine qualities of the body, which moue the fences, and are called things offered to the sences as colours, either mhiteneffe, blackneffe, or any like, moue the eyes, all foundes & novees that be made, moue the bearing, as coughing, fpeaking, braving of a Dere, lowing of a Come, or neighing of a Dorle. Sauors moue the fmelling, as perfumes, fwere ovore, the frong finell of ordure, or of fuch filth. Sauces mour the taffe, as bitternelle, tartnelle, fourenelle, Such qualities as are touched, mone the fence of touching, as barones, foftnes, roughnelle, plainelle.

Affections permanent, called Patibiles qualitates. The qualities that tarp a good while, biffer from fodame paffions, forals much as thefe tarp not long, but forainly come and forainly go as blufbing in a mans face, fobaine feare, fobainly to chaunge colour, and ware pale. The other tary longer, agenute, ambition, D.iii.

tion, loue, continuall feare, greevineffe, with fuch other.

The fowerth comprehendeth the figure, and forme of any thing. The figure comprehendeth the shape of things that have no life, as the falbion of the Clement, of Trees, of floudes, of an house, a coace, and such like.

the forme conteineth the portrature of all living things, as the very lively Image of Man, of an Porle, of a Lion, as we call aman well fauoured,or hard fauoured.

Ceto, Docrates, Plato,

The propertie or qualitie.

There is fomewhat contrary unto Qualitie, as Mertue, is contrary unto vice, witte unto folie, manhode unto comardife.

The thing conteining, or receiving any qualitie, may bee fand to receive either more, or lefte. As one man is thought to be wifer then an other, not that wifedom it felf, is either greater or lefte, but that it may be in some man more, or in some man lefte.

3 By qualitie, things are compted either like, of unlike. Those are like, which are of like qualitie, and have properties both accordingly.

The Table of Qualities.

Me Qualitie. Sof the bodie. Df the timnbe. 2 Botten by Gubie. Giuen by Rature. as the naturall ins Carring fill with a clination to any man, and hardly go: Botte by Budy Sthing. Caig away, Boing foneaway as the affections. Carping Bill Zwith a man. Ts knowledge, which (Speculation, a by either coulleth by pas > Dreis by <the only observatio Latted fkill. Cof things naturall. Diadifee faill. Either of bertue. D; els of bice. Df bertue. 35 Juftice. foztitube. Temperance. e Temperance, or inft beating of euery fingular perfone. 35

Of Relatives.

Clatines are those, which are commehended with other or the which are named one with an other , and as a man mould fap, have a mutuall respect one to another.

The other predicaments before rehearled, were absolutely fpoken, fothat we may understand by one, and the fame worde what it meaneth, As we may perceine what a man is, although we topne nothing to him. We knowe what Juffice is, although be compare him with none other thing. But thefe relatives can not be fo well understanded except we toine some thing to them. As when I fay a father, I can not call bin except I buderfand a forme that he hath. So that every bodie is called a father, in refrect that be bath a fonne, or els not. Againe, no bodic can be called a Scholemafter ercept be haue Scholers. Ebere is no beulband, except be baue a wife.

Therefore we may fee, that Belatiues are referred euermore Romin may to an other, neither can thep be taken absolutely, without has uing respect to some other worde. There is no word but we map confider the fame to be a Relative, if we referre it to fome other thing and therfore we may goe throughout al the predicaments with this one place, and find relation of every one of them.

Those that are referred to some thing, are of two fortes. Firth Relatives pre they are properly to called, as the father and the Sonne the may perly to called fer and his feruant, neither can they bee confidered, except they be compared with fome other : for when one is called father, hee is monerly fo called, because be bath a sonne, and therefore bath be his moper being. Againe, relatives unproperly fo called, are perly fo called those feuerall words, which are knowen, and have their being, enen when they fande alone, and per confidered with other, they have bivers respectes, as Love is the love of the thing loved : or thus. Loue behaldeth the thing loued. Faith behaldeth the thing whereunto it leaneth. And therefore whereas Paul faith, we being infifier by faith, have peace before God, it is as much to fay, that we are not received for the worthines of the qualitie, but for bis fake, bisthe fonne of Godefor I prap you, wherunto leaneth faith, of what thing boeth it els behold & Sauing only our Lord Telus be in all words.

Befus, that vied freely once for all. Dreisthus, Relatiucs are fo called (and pet unproperly ) which are not according to their proper being, but according as they are fo named, whereof the fire previcaments that folowe beare the name. As he that boeth any thing, is referred to a thing boen, wherein the two places that folowe are beclared, which fignifie to boe, and to fuffer.

By the place Vbi : where, one neighbour is compared with Swould all of the control agree of bis nert neighbour.

By the place Quando: when, a childe of live pere olo, is compared with a chilo of the fame peres.

By the place Sieum effe: That is to be featled, or to be any maner of map. We that lieth byright, is compared with him that licth bowne groueling. In all thefe the proper being, is not beclared, for a chitte may be fire yeres of age, although be bee not compared with an other, and therefore it is called Relatio fecundum dici improprie. But a man can neuer be a father, fauing one. Ip in confideration of his fonne, And pet note this one thing it is proper to all Relatives alwaics to be true, even by convertion. As thus : wholoever is a father, the fame hath a fonne, who foruer is a fonne, the fame hath a father, Wholoever hath faith. the fame man leaneth to Chiff onelp. Whofoeuer leaneth to Chiff onely, that fame man hath faith. Were are two things to be marked in relation. The ground of euery thing and the ende phereunto it bath respect, or consideration. As a father is the ground, in that he boeth beget, and hath respect to his some, in that he is begotten. The fonne is the ground in that he is beriot ten, and hath respect to his father, which did beget him.

Relatines are alway true by conversion.

In relation two things are to be marked.

Ano thus likewife in all other.

The propertie of Relatives.

I Relatives receive contraries, as bertue is contrarie to bice. not that is referred to vice, as yet they two are contrary.

2. Relatives properly to called according to their naturall being, are eyer both at one and the fame time : and alfo lofe their names, both at one and the fame time : as a man is fo foone call Ico a father, as he hath a fonne, but fo foone as the chilbe bieth he is no more called a father to that child.

The Table of the Relatives.

(3s by the caufe and the effect. the father, and the Soune, are Bo nature. (coulldered.

( The Magiftrate, and the mace, Bo fome maner the Bing, and his fworde carred oz way bico. (before bim, are coparch together

By Degrees in (The Lord and his fernaunt, the calling. Bouocare and his Citent.

Relatines are (By kindered. (The baether and fifter. The fonne in lawe, the mother cempared one . Cwith an other. (By martage. Cin lawe.

> 5 The graunter of a Leafe , and ?the Cenaunt. Bo couenaunt.

> ca Boete to be a lver. & Dhifftis By accidentall to be a manqueller, ot a Lawyer happening. Cto be a theefe.

Br naturall I man,a woman. Binbe

By yeares. Z pong man, ah old mau. By condition of 53 poore man, a rich man, a free life. 2 man.a bond man.

The maner of doing in Latine called Actio.

Gere feu facere, is when we are lapo to be occupied in The maner of a matter, that is before be, or when our labor is erten doing. bed byon a weaker of leffe thing and in this place, are conterned all Aerbes actines as to buite, to difnute, to banquet, to beget, to encreale, to bininifh, or to chaunge, to freake at a worde, al thole are conteined in this place, which anfmere ta this queftion, what both he, or what both it Ercented almay berbes percepning to the lences, or affections, as to beart, to tafte to fee to enuie all which have the paffine fignification.

Euery action is either naturall, of boluntarie . That is cal Enery action et led naturall, which is done by the might of Mature, as to beget ther naturall, or m to bring forth, to encreale, or beereale, to alter by qualitir, as to be maple, onie, colde, or hot, to move from place to place. That is called voluntarie, which noth betoken any thing dene free-Iv, as toteach, to write, to reade, toplay the Parchaunt man, or to boe any other action. And hereunto may bee referred energy

Perpeffio, called in English, a suffring.

A fuffering.

Patiferi, feu accipere, to luffer to bee vone, or to take, is the effect of the action, and to make it plaine, it is a verbe patitue, cuen the lame, which the Grammarians vie, as to bee taught, to bee encreased to bee vinnithed, all thele are palliues, and are referred to this previtament.

gvbi.Where.

Where

Bris an oder, of predicament, which comprehended the pescription of places, wherein same thing is reported, either to be none, to have beene bone, of eis hereafter to bee none. As to hee at London, to be at Cambridge, to be at home, to bee in a Chamber, to bee aboue, beneath, on the right hande, lest hande, before, of behinde, and what source aunswered to this question, when I as he where any thing is, of where any thing is bone. This place serveth so confectures, either in maying, or bis paying.

Disperient quando, contapneth the difference, and divertitie of times, as nano, now, heri, petterday, noth, in the night time, interdia, in the day time. This place also giveth light to confirme causes. As to prove that one is painfull, I may say such a one audieth vay and might, so much as nature can be are therefore he is a painfull man.

Sitam effe, to be fetled.

Sieme effe, is then confidered, when a mans bodic is in any wife placed t as to lye alive, to frank upright, to fit, to feare, to fre groweling, to fre wide open.

Habitus, the araying or clothing.

Smecaliches Predicament, habitus integumentum, that is a couering of apparelling of any bodie, as to have a coace, to weare a gowne, to be harneised, to have a Tacke, a sheare of Haile, a coate Armour. Also to goe goigeously: as to weare Cheines of golde, to have Bracelets, Kinges, Browches, and Stones, to have a Scepter, of Pace in his hande. Thirdly, to vosselle posselle golde, filuer, lande, wife, and children, orto containe any thing, as the Hoggeshead path holde Mine, the Barne holderh Corne. Rc.

The vie and commoditie of these Prodicaments.

f you will befine any word, and knowe the proper nature of the same, ye must needed knowe these ten prepicaments. As for an example if ye will knowe what a man is, ye must have recourse to the place of Sub-stantia, and there ye chall learne by the same place, that man is a living creature, endued with reason. If ye will know what berene is, ye must goe to the Predicament Qualitas, and there ye thall see, that vertue is a constaunt babite of the minde, making them praise worthse, in whom it is. If ye will befine the nature of a father, seeke sop Relativa, and there ye shall tearne, that he is a father, that hath a some: he is a master, that hath a servant, and to sorth of the rest. There so, ye must needed have these Predicaments readic, that when some ye will diffue any word, or give a natural name but it, ye may come to this soc house, and take stuffe at will.

Ofa definition on 19 per el a distinitado de O.

ipere is nothing in all this whole arte of Logike, A defiation.
more necessarie for man to knowe, then to learne diligently the diffiction, a division of every matter, that by reason may bee comprehences. For the that first well onderstanders, what he both woels-bout (knowing fully the nature of enery cause propounted) that less erre in the whole discourse following, and easte that it bee for him, to anopo falle arguments, if he can learne first, to fee the perp nature, and substance all properties of enery thing.

A definition is two water confidered, for either it is a befine A definition of a morde, or of a substance. A difinition of a word, is any a worde.

maner of vectoration of a word, as a Realme is so called, because it is by a King ruled, and merrily to say it. A woman back her name so given her, because the bringeth wo unto man.

216/110

Apilinition of the lubifaunce, to a speach, which the meth be A definition of there of the ching, appearer perfect difficient of in made a fabiliance.

E.II.

pertea

perfect by the general word, and his difference towned cogether: Sachat what foeuer is befined, it is alwaies the kinde or force of fome one thing, as thus. Ban is a living creature ende med with reafon: Dan is the thing befined, and the other (that is a liuing creature, endewed with reason) is the definition. There be fower rules to bee obferued, in euerp perfect befinition . Firff that the pefinition contains no more then the thing befined, not pet that the thing befined contains any more then the befinition both, a. gaine, wee must take herve, that the befinition expecte the very nature, mid fubitaunce, of the thing befined, or elsit is no good pefinition. Thirdly we mult fee that the befinition be plaine and oven, without ambiguitie, not having any obscure of farre fetthed worder and that ag 12 . at Plate.

Rales to be obferued in a del-

MICOR.

ming two feete, and without feathers . Diogenes that fcoffing Dogge, which loued to take abuquntage boon finall occasion, feeing Plato boon a time, molt earnell in teaching his scholers. fandenly chapt into the Schoole, and letting a Cocke in the mitoveft of them , which had all his feathers pluckt off: beholde Diogenes Cock. (quoth be) here is Plato his man, whom he hath vainted out fo clerkin unto pou, Becaule this befinition was not plaine and o nen. Diogenes thus tealled as De hane heard, Porwithfranding Plato his laping was trut enough, and good enough alle, if it had pleafed win fo co onvertanto it. For Placo his meaning, was of acreature, that by nature lacketh feathers: not of one that had his feathers plucktof, and fo the befinition is without fault.

Withen Placo hab befines a man, to bee a friging creature, ba-

Fourthly, whofocuer purpofeth, either to teach, or to learne, to persmade behemently or plainly to etposto, it is for him right necessarie, alwaies to binde himselfe to a certaine appointed ofber, and particularioto grather that thing, the which he mindeth at large to expelle, for to thall be fee what he both, e not fwarue as Come Doe, but keepe his matter as he olight to boe. Wihereup both be thall teach better, and other thall learne the fooner.

What a devision is?

A Deution.

A Deution is a sentoing of that, which is more common, into thole, which are telle common As a definition therefore both

Declare

ges

of a

120

uei

CA

me

po

hi

DE

m

13

be

10

neclare what athing is, fo the deuision sheweth bow many thinmes are contained in the fame. A beuilion, is either the Deuiding A denifien of a of a worde, or of a thing. A deutlion first of a worde is, when any worde. worde that lignifying divers thinges, is benided into enery feuerall fignification that he hath: As I would beuibe this worde, Canis into a Dogge, a fifth of the Sea, and a ftarre in the Cles ment : thus might I fap, Canis is cither a Dorge that lineth be pon the earth, or a fift, or els a ftarre in the Clement.

A Deuision of the thing is three water considered, for either it A deuision of a is when the generall, is beuided into the kinde, the whole into thinghis parces, or els when the fubstaunce, is beuibed into the acribents . The generall is devided into his kinde thus as an Eles ment is devided into the fire the apre the water and the earth. A Common-weale is Denived , into the fate of the people , which A Commo beare rule, and also into that power, where the best and wifest weale denided have their gouernaunce, and thirdly into ones hand, which alone three waies. beareth the Aroke, and is chief Magiffrate.

The whole is devided into his parces, as thus. The boote is beuided into the bead, bellie, hands and feete. A manis bruided into bedie and foule, and this kinde of beuiding, is properly cafled a partition, And the very difference betweene a Deuilion, and a partitionis, that in a benision where the generall, and the kind are the generall worde is woken of the kinde it felf, as Justicia eft virtus, Justice is a bertue, where as it can not be fo, when the whole is deutoed into his parts, that the whole should be spoken of his parte, as I cannot lap, caput oft homo, the head is the man. For the head is not man, not pet the bellie neither, although they both be pares of man. Whee have evermore neede of this partis A particion. tion in all matters . The Lawe of Moles is beuided into thee partes, for either it is Morall, Judiciall, or Ceremoniall, neither The Morall is this partition necessarie for Moses Common-weate only, but hime. for all other Regiments that be . The Moralliame flendeth for euer, and is not aftered at any time, but is received from time to time, cuen as Moses received the same of God in Stonic Cables. The Individu The Judiciall law is nert, the which although we be not bound lawe. to observe, as the Israelites were, permult there be Acts of parliament

The Ceremoni-

liament made, for the reformation of thinges that bee amisse, and Pagistrates appointed to punish, such as breake the ten Commundements, called the Morall Lawe, and even so may were subge of the Ceremonial lawe, that although it appertains nothing to us, to keepe such Ceremonies, as Moses and Aaron have enacted, pet it is needefull, that there bee an order in all our doings, and that we resorte together to the Temple reverently, and that the Parents appoint their children atime, to learne at Schoole, and so, their servaunts, a tyme to doe their true service.

Substaunce deuided into his accidents.

Accidents deuided into fubflaunce.

Accidents deuided into accidents, The fubitaunce is devided into his accidents, asthus, of men, fome are free, fome are bound,

An other maner of deutoing there is, contrary to this, as when the accidents, are deutoed into their substances, as thus. Of good thinges, some are of the minde, some of the bodie, and some of fortune. Also there is a deution, when accidents are deutoed into accidents, as of good thinges, some are honest, some profitable, and some pleasaunt.

It is an olde faying, and worthie remembraunce, being as true as it is auncient , Qui bene distinguit, bene docet. De that both benive well, both teach well. And Socrates in Phedro Plas tonis, mapling much the maner of beutding, faith at length that if he knowe a man, which could well beuide, and feuerally feteuery thing in his place, he would followe him, as though he thould followe God himfelfe. In what milerable blindnes were mee, if weeknewe not the difference, betwirt the Lame, and the Sofpell, the which onely wee doe knowe, by the benefite of benifion . There bee many fond people, which have much bilpapled all temporall lawes, and civill lawes, thinking it meete, that all Common-weales , hould onely have the Gofpell , and none other lawe at all . This may feeme to fome, a gay faying, where as in occo, it is both foolish, and wicked. For there is a difference betweene polliticall lawes, and the Golpell: for the polliticall lame, both cause an outward discipline to be observed, even of the wicken: fo that they bare not offende out wardly, for feare of cor potall punishment . The Magistrate, which hathbischarne, is teament ordepucb.

The polinicall

nb

me

330

100

n

ur

P.

at

Te

n,

OF

10

0

a.

t

-

e

e

mbepned of God: and first his charge is, to let forth the ten Commaundements, given to Mofes, in ftonie Tables . and to caufe the fame to be observed universally, punishing the offenbers, for their euill beedes, corporally, After this, he must enact other particular lawes, as occation thall ferue, which doe not diffent from thefe ten, confidering thefe Lawes are generall, and therefore, particular thinges may bee drawne out of them . As where it is fapo . Thou halt doe no theft, the Dagiffrate feeing fallhood in bargapning, a much deceipt bled to fraude one an other. Graight cauleth it to be proclaimed, that all fuch as ble beceipt in bargap: ning, commit theft, and halbe atteinted thereupon as fellones: the which man in fo boing , bath fulfilled Bobe Commaunde. ment . Rowagaine, as for preaching of the Golvell, it is an o. The lawe of the ther maner of thing, for thereby finners are forgiven, the inheris Gofpell. tauace of life everlaking graunted , and an ever living Church of mankind, gatherer to be Gods chofen people, and also the true knowledge of God, perfect righteoulnelle, and the life euerla-Ring is kindled in the hearts of all the godly, through the power of Goos boly Ghoft. But there be feme, that will obeve willing. Ip, and withall their hearts, the wordes of the Gospell in such wife . Deither can any lawe bee able , violently to force the inwarde thought of man . Therefore, the outwarde Magistrate. though he can not binde mens confciences, from the thing that is cuill, pet maphe labour to withdrawe them from boing cuill, and in beede if lawes were not, men could not line . Therefore, the polliticall Regiment, and the Gofpell, are two diucrs thinges. This thout diffinction, giveth light to many weightie matters, the which thing, when men know not, they mander in great Darkneffe, and for lacke of light fall into errour.

Rules necessary to be observed in euery deuision.

If Ire it mult bee provided, that the devision, asmuch as Rules needefall map be (far it cannot alwaies be fo) ought to bee made mith two contrary differences, fully contagning in them felues, the whole compasse of widenesse of the generall morde.

worde , or that which is benided : for it is a faulte to forget any thing, or let flippe any parte.

Againe, the difference which benibe the generall word, being formed both together, must be equall to the favo generall worde. and the partes coupled together, mult be afmuch as the whole, or els the deuilion is not good , A lining creature is deuided inte his two differences, as into athing having reason, and a thing that hath no reason. Row, what soever is a living creature, the fame is a thing , that cither bath reafon , or els that lacketh reafon . And againe, cuery thing that is indued with reason and without reason, that same is a lining creature. So that in every beuilion , the members of partes that doe devide by convertion, are turned with the thing benibed, and euen like wife it is with partition as Thane froken before of Deuision. Whereas Logike bath two partes, indgement, and finding out of thinges, even as I fap, Logike is nothing els but judgement, and finding out of thinges, le of the other fide, indgement, and finding out of thins acs, is nothing els, but Logike it felfe . Whereby appeareth a plaine convertion, that whatfocuer the one is, the fame is the no ther, which thing must viligently be observed in euery benision. For if the members that Doe benibe, be either more or leffe then the thing beuided : Araight way the beuilion is not good for according to a precept that me have in Latine, Membra dividentia semper cum dinisio connerti debent . The partes that Doe benibe must alway be equall with the thing beuided, and turned by conuertion with the fame, or els the deutsion is not lawfull.

Fault in deui-

The maner of handling of a fingle question, and the readie way how to teach and set forth any thing plainly, and in order; as it should be, in Latine, Methodus.

Mhandling of any fingle question, the preceptes and rules, given before in the commune morbes, in the most generall wordes, in the definition and beuision, doe very good fervice, and helpe towardes the ordering of every such matter.

The whole nature of fuch questiones, are throughly feene

by bling of this order. Cuery lingle queftion is einft wales era. A thing whe mined, first to af he whether the thing be, or no, as thus: Is there any one man, that may be called wife ! Is there any Lawe : Is there any frendfhip bpon earth : This quellion is often proued, either by experiences, or els by authoritie of the wife. Therefore, in queffioning what the thing is, we must vectare the verit nature, as if I thall freake offrenothin, I will firft be at a point, of what frendling I must fpeake. For frendlip is of two forces. The one is true and perfect fremothin, which commeth from the bearte, for bertues fake, and is onely among good men : the o ther is feined fauour, when one for tucre, beareth a faire face outwardly, and feebeth inwardly a malicious fromache. And this is the common frenchip, whereof the wicked onely are partakers. The fecond question, is to after what a think is. And this what a thing is commeth from the octinition, which is of two lottes, either of the and how it may be called Substance of any thing, or els of the name. Df the name : as thus, A Realme is that countrep, which is ruled by a king. Df the lub-Cauce thus. A realme is a nathering of people together, being able to line, and withfrand other, for prefervation of them felies, abiding feuerall. The lawe is an optimaunce, which commaunocth things in oper, to be been , and forbibbeth the contrarie. The third question is when the partes, and every feuerall kinde How manifold is confider o , and for this queltion, the viulion and partition wided. roe much good. As the lame of the Gofpett; and the politicall lame. The fowerth queftion is to af he what are the caufes, and What be the eluccially, what is the efficient cause, and what is the final raule, cause. of the ende of any thing. The efficient caufe of all good Lawes, is God and his minifter. The finalt caufe , or theenve, is to hive unightly in the feare of Goo, and to walke all the dayes of que life, in the observation of his holy will. The fifth question is, what are the when the effect, the office, or proper working is cramined. Acthe effects or proeffect of the Lawe is , to conferne the flate of than , to continue peace univerfally, to increase wealth, and to make louc betwitt all. The firth queltion is, when things be al keb that happen als ter, of the which have create affinitie, of likelihobe together. Is if lawes bee kept and followed, wer fet our chilogens chilogen ther it be or no.

the thing is di-

griber

19

m

E.

01

to

IR

36

a=

ı

IT,

ce

ag

of 11:

18

00

n.

II

Co

14

2,

te

IC

...

3

g,

36

e

p

f.i.

mare

What happen thestupon.

What are difagrecing.

mare to mealth. The fee much neighbourhod, and good will to beine the needy, and fo forth. The feuenth is to alke what are bef. agreeing. As from the Lawe, biffenteth rebellion, flubbonneffe, pribe, with other. The eight question is to bring in witnesse and to them by whole authoritie, the Law taketh place. The Scrinture teacheth, that God gaue the Lame to Moles, and Paul with Perer allo: and Chrift himlelfe commaunded euery man . to o Wait examples. bey the higher power in all things, that are not directly repugnant from the will of Bob. Thus the queftion is eicht waves eramined, and the miner taught thereby, to frame it in due op per fo that he, which keepeth well this trade, can not faile in any caufe that be taketh in band. And becaufe they may the rather be remember I will fet them altogether.

- L.Whether it be or no.
- 2. What it is.
- 3. What the partes are. 4. What the causes are.

Astou-Lawc.

- ching the J. What are the effects or proper working
  - 6. What are next adioyning, what are like, what happen thereby. 1 10 0 .1150 to 1 1 11116
  - 7. What doe disagree, or what contrarie.
  - 8. What exaple there is, or authoritie to pue it.

12) this tellon ought viligently to be learned of all , that evermore they begin from the generall, and come to eurep fenetallpart, As in veclaring what vertue is, firff to tell the nature of it generally, and after to handle every bertue by it felfe. And this order both Tully bath followed in bis Booke De Officies, and alfo Ariftorle in his Ethikes bath boen the like. to the great admiration of all thole that be learned.

Of a Proposition.

SISU

Hen the berie oper of nature requireth, that first of aff wee thould weake of feuerall woods, and as a man woulde fape , teache one bis letters , and theme bin the maner of fpelling, before we teache bim to readefand afterwarde fonque fentences to-.1.7

gether

gether and frame Peropolitions by knitting feuerall wordes in order, for it is the verie office of the minde first to knowe, o then to knit, neither can any childe beter a fentence, before be learne to fpeak a worde. Again, when nature hath taught feueral wojbes, then the minde topned together, devideth, and afterwarde giueth a judgement, whether they be well or no. For a manne were little betterthen a brute beaft, if be coulde but onlie apprebende feuerall woodes, having no gift, or apteneffe to iopgne them in order, and fo to indee how thinges are toyned together, But feeping God hath kindled his light in manne, that he can both topgne, and tunge, we will nowe fpeake of the knitting together, and the topning of wordes in a Proposition.

What a Proposition is.

if.

0,

D

b

-

Propolition is a perfecte Sentence fohen A proposition by the Indcatine mode, fignifiting either a true thing, o, a falfe, without al ambiguitie. or doutfulnes, as thus. Guery manis a lier. ..... Illen o There be the partes in a Proposition, the Two pares in a one is called Subjettum (that is to fair that propolinon.

wherof fom what is (poken) the other is Attributum, contonlic called Predicatum, that is to faie, that bubich is fooken of any thing, as in the aboue rebearfed Propolition. Eueric ma is a liarman, is that wherof this faying (to bea lier) is fpoken, and this fame faping ( to be a lier ) is that which is fpoken of man.

Eueric Propolition is two waies beuided, either it is a lingle A propolitionfentence, fanding of one perfecte fentence, as Juffice is ber. ded, according tue or els it is a bouble fentence, having two Propositions in it, to the fubiliance. as thus. If Juftice be abertue, it is a good thing paife worthie.

That Propolition is called falfe, the whiche either naturall reason proueth either to be plain falle, or the experience of man Declareth to be butrue, as thus I done boeth feele. The foule of manne is mortall. Experience hemeth, or at the leaft fcrip. ture affirmeth, the foule to bee immortall, and nature teacherh be, that no fone bath the fence of feelyng.

enemleq.

The fecond division of a Proposition, accor- 110118 ding to the quantitiend after the tot

A proposition divided, according to the qualine.

Baine, Propolitions voe either affirme . or benie, as this Propolition: pleafure is a good thing, both affirme that pleafure is good, Againe, Bleafure is not a good thing, both beny that pleafure is good. That 19 10polition both affirme, when any thing is reported to be in any thing. Chat Propolition Doth Deny , when any thing is benied to be in any thing.

The third division of a Proposition, according to the quantitie.

A propolition divided, according to the quatitle sales A Propolition Vninerfall.

Generall fignes. . · R · LA ********** 19

Particular propolitions.

Particular figaes.

Proposition indefinite.

. 50 miles

on as thus. Every covetous man is poore. Do man both loucth. and is wife no not one. 120 man is ever more happie.

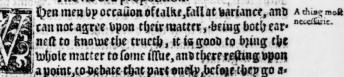

Benerall flenes arethele : Omnis, Nullus, Quilibet, Nemo. Enery body, 120 body, All the world, 32ot one in all the worlde.

Directeuler propolitions are thele, where a pareicular lique is added to the former parte of the propolition, which both not conteine all, but part, or a fewe. As thus : forne men feare Goo. Some men are to much belirous of glorie. The particular fiantes be thele: Quidam, Aliguis, Plerique, Plerunque. A certaine inan Boine boop. All men for the molt part Diten time ! at al

The propolitions are called Indefinite (that is to fap, since taine) where the former parte of the propolition, is a generall word without a figne, as thus: The foule is immortall. Danbor is a bertue, Dong men are riotous. Dlo men are couetous! And note this dilimently that those Invefinite Propolitions (whose Inft rebearled part is necestarie, and is to forken of the former parte, that it voeth alway agree to the fame, and to the whole nature of the fame ) one timport almuch as a generalt propolition, as in the about rehearled propolition. The foule is immortall. This worde (to be immortall) which is fpoken of the foule, acreeth not to one man or to certaine, but to every man lining. Miben

Taben the accidents are spoken of the former part, it implieth almuchas a particular proposition both, as: Homo homini pre-Ant,ingenio, virtute, doctrina. ( Dan is better one then an other in wicce, learning, and vertue) is no more to fap, then Quidam bome bomini preftar. Soine one man is better then an other. A fingular prepolition, is when a proper name of a man is contavned in a propolition, and is the former part of the fame, as Cicero is an Diato, Alexander ig a marriour.

The vie of a proposition.

ny further, the which is called of the Logicians a Proposition of the Rhetoricians, the state of the eaufe, which is as much to fav. as the point whereupon thep shall stand, or rest to trie their matter. Row, becaufe euery Propolition is three waten benided according to the fubftance the qualitie and also the quartie good realan it were to trie everie caule, by thefe three partesallo.

By the first me knowe, whether it be a lingle Brovolicion, or a bouble.

By the fecond we perceiue, whether it doe affirme or benie. And by the third allo we fee, how largely it both extende. the which three pointes, are right needefull to be marked.

The repugnancie of Propositions.

Epugnancie, is the divertitie of two movolities, which The repugnance have both one Subicetum ( called the former part ) and one attributum, which is the rehearled part, and in fence fuoken of the former.

There be fower in nomber, called in Latine : Contrarie, Subcontraria, Contradictoria, Subalserne.

Benerall contrary Dispolitions, are thole, whereof the one both generally affirme, and the other boeth generally benie. As thus: Oes hoies gloria ducuntur. All men are moued with alory. Nulli homines gloria ducuntur. Mamen are moued mith glorp. F.iii, garguadan tant Particular contraries, are two particulars, whereof the one both beny. Aliqui homines gloria ducuntur. Some men are mooned with glory, Aliqui homines gloria non ducuntur. Some nien are not moued with glozp.

Contradictorie propolitions, are when the one is univerfall affirmitive, and the other particulare negative, or els when the one is univerfall negative, and the other porticular affirmitive as thus: Omnes homines gloria ducuntur: All men are moved with glorie, Aliqui homines gloria non ducuntur. Some men are not moved with glorie, and likewife backeward.

Subalterna, are those which bee either minerfall affirmative, and particular affirmative, or els minerfall negative, and particular negatine.

The nature of a Proposition thre waies deuided.

Ropositio (diegorica (otherwise called a single proposition) is deutded into true of falle Propositions.
They are true proposition, which agree to y matter, a are either necessary, or els such as may be etcher true of falle caled in latin forenia of eximpiter.

Meceffarie Propolitions, are affarebly true, and knomen to bee either by nature, or els by experience.

Ofthole that necessarile be knit together are these. The proper name, the kinde, the generall worde, the difference, the propertie, the desirion, the causes the proper worke of causes and some activenes that eiter tarp. As thus: Ciero off home. Lice to is a man, Homo off animal ratione praditum, aprum ad risum. A man is a single creature, endued with reason, apt to laugh. Dies off necessario, quomam Sol exoriens off. It must neces be daie, because the sume is up. Ignis calidus off. Fire is hotte.

Chole Propolitions are chaungeable, which may be true, of chaunce to be for as fewe Preachers are ambienous. Few kings heare the trueth. And whenlower the accident is spoken of that, which contained him: enery such Propolition is called changeable, or that, which may be true, as: Water is made hot there we fee that it chaunceth to water (contrarie to her nature) to be warme, and therefore it is called chaungeable, as the which may chaunge, or be chaunged.

True propolitiblecessarie prepositions what they be. And which they Chaungeable.

The Table of repugnant Propositions.

ditt danom glezie.

contrary.

moued muth glone.

20

Some men danom ara with glosie. contrarie.

Ere we must be viligent, that in all fuch repugnauncie of Propolitions, there bee no boubtfulneffe in any word, and that alwaies there be one maner of moids that goe before, and also one maner of words that ende the fentence, plainly and without bouble bn. No doubefalm verttanding. How if I fay thus ! Wan both in the speach.

finne. Man both not finne iberein is no repugnancie: for p name of Sob, whole fpnnes are rebeemed though Chriftes beath, by the pertue of his faith, the fame man both not frome, according to Saint John. Dee that is of & D D, fpnneth not : but that man, which followeth the fleth, and bath ginen over himfelfe, to she lufte of this wallbe, bueth frame beably. Therefore, the part must not after the nature of either Proposition, the time also must be all one, the maner of boing of one sort, and the place likewise must be like.

The vie.

Dis vinerlitie of Propolitions, is verience flatie to discerne the tructh, from that which is falle, for when were in the two Propolitions that are difformant, we shall ease by tricithe Chaffe from the Corne, the which when we have doen, we may the better sticke to the tructh, with full estence, the contrarie being once disclosed and resected.

De Conuersione, of the tourning of Propositons.

Canvertion.

20

Direction is the chaunging, or altering of words in a proposition, when the former part (whereof any thing is rehearsed) and the hinder parte (which is rehearsed of the somer) are chaunged, the one into the others place.

There be three maner of Conuertions, Simplex, per Accidens, per Contrapositionem.

Plaine conuerfion.

A plaine Connersion is, when both the Propositions are like in all things, both in signes, and also in affirmation, or negation, laving onely that of the last rehearled, is made the somet part of the Sentence, and the somet part, is made the last re-bearfed part.

Such Convertion is made, when both the Propositions be either unwirfall negatives, or els perticulare affirmatives, so the first thus. Nemo timens Denm, contaminar se adulterio. Ergo nemo contaminarsse adulteriorimet Denm. Ho man that searcth God, desileth himselse with adulterie, therefore, noman that desileth himselse with adulterie, feareth God. Here we may see the convertion plame, as the rule above rehears of, teacheth, for, two particular affirmatives, this shalbe an example. Quidam Adultethonismit. Ergo, quidam boni, Anheisme. Some courtiers are honest. Ergo, some honest men are courtiers.

A convertion by accident.

a Contintioned actioent is, when the former parte of the fentence, is made the last rehearled parte; and the laste rehearfed part, made in the sommer part, both the lasto politions affire from ming

ming, or benying, fauing onely that the fignes be chaunged, that is the one being univerfall, the fecond being particular, firth a convertion is made of two affirmatives, thus, Omnis virtus ef landanda. Ergo landandum alignid, est virtus. All vertue is to be mapled, therefore, some thing to bee mapled, is a vertue. A conuction of two negatiucs, thus. Nemo malus felix igitur ( fapiens cum fit )non est malus. 120 euill man is absolutely happie. Therfore, an absolute happie man (feeing be is godly wife) cannot bee euill . This kinde of convertion, is very profitable for him that will difpute . for, where as wee reason often from the generall worde, to the kinde, wee muft needes ble this maner of conucrfion, as thus . If all exercise be good, then this kinde of exercise is nood, and lo of other.

A connection by contravolition is, whethe former part of the A conversion fentece, is turned into the laft rebearled part, and the laft rebear. by contrapofeb part, turned into the former part of the fentece, both the propolitions being universall, and affirmative, saving that in the fecond propolitio, there be certaine negatives enterlaced. As thus.

50mnis home auct aliquid videre, andire scire.

Ergo quod non auet aliquid videre, audire, feire, non est home, Euerp man delireth to fee, to heare, or to knowe fomewhat:

therefore, what focuer be is that befireth not to fee, to beare, or to knowe fomewhat, the fame bodie is not a manithis convertion is profitable, and feructh well to reason by: Thus reasoneth Christ Reasoning by by his convertion against the Jewes in the 8. Chapter of John. the conver-Qui ex Deo est, verba Dei audit: vos igitur cum non audiatis, ex Deo non eftis. De that is of God beareth the worde of God, Dou therefore, because pou heare not, be not of God. This conversion confuteth the Icwes plainely, and proueth that they are not of God. If we will reason from the generall worde to the kintery from the greater to the leffe, wee may ble this conversion bery well, Omnis homo est animal. Ergo quodcunque non est animal, id nec Home eft. Euery man is a living creature therfore whatforuer thing is not a living creature, that fame is not a man. Take away the generall worde, and there can no kenderemaine at all. From the Superiour universal to the inferiour, thus me may reafon.

From the vniuerfall fuperiour, to the inferiour, fon. All pure gold looketh pealow, therfore, what locuer lookers not pelowe, that fame is not pure gold. This convertion feructh mel to make an argument in the fecond figure, as I wil declare bereafter, the which ought biligently to be obferued. A lesson to be observed.

F finaular words, which are proper names of things, or els beterminatly doe betoken fome one certaine thing. no connection is made , because no argument is made of particular wordes, or fentences, whereunto the whole nature of convertion feructh onely, therefore, if one thould fay paro mec. ponder is a Worfemill, the convertion were amiffe to fav. ponder is a Will-horfe, for what idpote knoweth not, except he had a boile head, that here o lence is altered, and that it is two thing's to fay a Dorfemill, and a Mill-borfe, So that of fingular propofictions, Declaring the nature of one feuerall thing, no true conuerlion can be made, both in worde and fentence.

The vie.

Ira, convertion profitecth, for the enibent opening of Propolitions, asif I thould fap : there is nothing proficable, but the fame is honett, and how then canft theur make a vivoriment, betwirt honeffie and profite, as though the one could be without the other. Againe, it ferneth wellto make hou arguments, as thus . Ho Christian is an Ufurer: Ergo, no Minter is a Chuftian Some Bilhops are good: Ergo, fome good men are Bilbons . Thiroly, it the weth how to reduce the fecond and the third figure, being both unperfect, to the Moodes of the firtt figure, as I will hewe moze at large hereafter.

Propositio Hypotherica. That is to fay. a dubble Proposition,

A dubble pro position.

Ropositio Hypor herica, is a fentence with two linerle propoutions, knit together alwaies, with fome comunction. As thus Simstitia eft virens, eft landabilis. If Juffice be a bertue, it is maife worthie.

There be three maner of dubble Propositions.

true.

A Dubble propolition fanoeth of three parts, whereof the one The parts of. is a conditionall propolition, affirming a thing to bee either a dubblepropolitina.

true.o. falle, with an (if) as thus : if faith be byou the earth forme men feare Goo . If the Dorlo continueth fill as it both wallowing in molt abominable finne, God will at length punishthe offenders bery fore. All which propolitions are cuertrue, when the parts are fo knit together : that the latter part mult needes followe upon that, which goeth before. The fecond part is when a propolition bath a diffunctive, which kuitteth the fentence by. as thus . Cither it is bay, or ele it is night . Such propolitions are true, when both the parts are true, and the fame also are falle. when either of the parts are falle. The third part is, when confunctions that doe benye, are joyned together, as thus . Battell being not lawfull, is not to be befired . By all which bubble propolitions, wee may reason formally in divers causes, as thus by the first. If faith bee boon the earth fome men feare God, but no man feareth God. Therfore, faith is not upon the earth, Againe, if wee feare God, wee are in charitic, but wee are not in charitie. therefore, we feare not God. By the fecond thus. Couctous men either be f fernaunts of God or els of the beuill, but they are not the fernaunts of God: Ergo, they are fernaunts of the benill. By the third thus . Battell being not lawfull, is not to bee vled, but battell is lawfull, therefore it is to be vled.

> The vse of all those things, that have bene spoken of a Proposition.

Idill ble this Propolition for an example. All trueth purchaleth hatered. It is a fingle propolition by lubifaunce, an affirmatine by qualitie, and an univerfall by quantitie: the contradictorie is, no trueth purchaleth hatred, the which is falle. Therfore, this is true, some trueth purchaleth hatered: the conversion by the accident. The trueth purchaleth hatred. Ergo, some thing that purchaleth hatred is trueth.

Of making an argument.

List rehearled hetherto, all lingle woides what the nature is of every one, and in what generall woide, they may bee found. I have let forth the nature of a definition, and a denistion. Thave taught also, to toyne these severall wordes into a proposition.

propolition, and make the same a perfect sentence. Now thereby Gods geace, I wil shows the matter, how to sophe sentences to gether, and to proue a matter, by knitting Propositions hand-lonely in an argument, or by placing the Propositions accordingly. Therefore, there ought good difference to be vied in this behalfe, so a sunneth, as it is the clark liest part of all, and the harvest peece of works, to frame an argument aptly, and to knowe the very reason, why thinges are so knit together.

What an argument is.

A red by an other: and to howe that thing, which is doubtefull by that, which is not voubtfull.

To find out the reason that shall proue (in Latine) called Medium, in (English) the dubble repeate.

The finding out of an argument

frer this logte wer may finde the reason, whereby to prove our matter: when were have a question or sense tence, that we should either construe, or consuce, as he the cause of our selse, why, and where so, ethat thing.

which is spoken of the former parte in any sentence, should be so applied to the same. And to make the matter more plaine, I will make this question. Est ne awarm pauper? Is a concetous man poste, or not' I may thus reason with me felse, why should a concetous man bee called poore? What affinite is between them two ' Pary in this poynt they both agree, that like as the poore man, ever lacketh and destreth to have: so the coverous ma ever lacketh, wanting the use of that which he bath, and destreth still to have, being never content, though God giveth enough. Then seeing it is even so, that both do lacke, and both do desire to have, this same reason is the onely cause, whereby myne argument is the framing made perfect. For, thus I may frame myne argument aptly.

The framing of an argument.

Catholoeuer lacketh, and defireth euermoze to have, that fame man is poore.

A conetous man lacketh, and defireth encrmoze to hane? Cherefore, a conetous man is pooze.

Chus this argument is made perfect, by alking this queftion, wherefore, a conecous man is poore & Asbereafter I will Gebe it more at large, by an other example, to make the thing more plaine.

There be fower kindes of arguments.

( A perfect araument. An unperfect argument. An induction.

An example.

Perfect argument, is an abfolute gathering, or reafor ning, whereby the last fentence, which we would mouc. is confirmed by other propositions and fentences more ba niverfall, and better knowne then the thing which is proued. conterning in them felues the reason, why the last fentence is true, and why they are applied to the fame. This kinde of argument, is from the generall worde to the kinde, as thus, If I will proue theft worthie of punishment. I must first afke the question why And that thing that commeth to my mind, more univerfall then theft, comprehending the offence of theft in it, may ferue to. make the argument. As I may thus reason, that theft should be punified , because it is a vice, of a mischeeuous beebe, and then thus I knit up mone argument.

Cenery bice, og mischeeuous beebe, is to be puniffed. Theft is a bice, or a milchecuous beebe. Therefore, theft is to be punifeb.

Fre we fee the propolition, or fentences, whereof the first is called Maior, that is to far, the Propolition at large. The feconde is called Minor, that is to fay, the leffe, or feuerall propolition. The third is called Conclusio, that is the lapving by of all. And here we must note, that like asthere be three Propolitions, cuen fothere be three Dinersenbinges, called in Three termes. Latine Termini . Df the which , the one is called the terme at The first. large, inthe firt Proposition onely, and afterward is referred, to the former parte of the conclusion, called Subiectum conclusionis. The fecond terme is called the leffe, or feucrall, which is in the The fecond. fecand Proposition, and this is the morbe, whereof the question

Ø.iii.

The Arte of Logike. is made, and is fooken of in the conclution . The third is called the bubble repeace . which is twife rehearfed before the conclu-

The third.

from, and therefore it is twife rehearled, because it is the knitting together of the two Propolitions, and is the cause also, why the former part of the Propolition whereof a thing is favo, and the laft rehearled part, being attributed to the part going before, are ioned together in the conclusion. As to make the thing plaine Franno'es of by the former argument. I will proue this conclution. Theft is the in termes. to bee punished. Theft is called the former part whereof this worde (punifhed) is fooken. I and this worde (punifhed) therefore is called the laft rehearled part, because it is spoken of theft. which went before. Now to make mine argument, and to moue this fentence true, muft fecke a moroe, which is more generall then that, which is moued. And that worde that commeth to mp mind, and is perterning to the caufe, being more bninerfall: (for every thing that is proved, is proved by a thing more knowne) that fame worde, or reason, is called the bubble repeate, whose propertic is, twife to bee rebearled in an argument, and that is the first and second Proposition, never entring into the conclufon. As this. Cuery vice is to be punifhed, vice is the bubble re-

Dubble repeate.

> Cuery vice is to be punifhed. Theft is a vice.

the argument is made as followeth.

weate, which mult bee rehearled in the fecond Bropolition, for 3 fapo before, it must twife be rehearfed, becaufe it may be eutoent, that the former part of the conclusion, is in very decre comprehended under the former part of the firft Pjopolition . And then Ergotheft is to be punifhed.

Ore we fee the bubble repeate, which proueth the matter is twife rebearled , in the firft and fecond Dropolition, and entreth not into the conclusion. The terme is at large in the first Propolition, and the terme feuerall , is in the fecond Propolition.

and enter both into the conclusion . So that wee map fee that. which proueth the thing, both not enter into the conclusion, but it is twife rehearled in the two Propolitions, and fo the couclus. finn from followeth, by reason that thicke two winders, vice and thest, agree in a third aleogether, and whatsoever is sape of the one, to say of the other, and nothing can be comprehended wher the generall: but all the kinder have the same conteyned in them, which in this Proposition, are referred to the generall. (All vice is to be punished) unto vice is referred this word punished. There so be punished, and vice is referred this word punished. There so be punished, is comprehended under this word punished, as these adulterie, wrong dealing, murder: this word punished, is rehearled of them all: because agreeth to the generall, and is rehearled of the same, As I may reason thus.

Terme at large, terme feuerall.

All vice is to be punished.

Therefore Saulterie.

Areto be punifher.

Dis, if that which is generall, is to bee punished, then the Rule.

kindes and forts in things, are to be punished, according to this faying. Colhatlocuer is trucky and altogether rebearfed of the generall, that fame is also rehearled of the kind, which is included into the generall.

Seven rules especially to be observed for the making of a perfect argument, called Syllogifmus.

Irft, that in encry perfect argument called Syllogismus, the Rules for an first Proposition be universall. I call that Proposition universall, when there is Omnis, that is to say, also als Nullus, that is to say, none : in the Proposition. As so, crample. Euery vice is to be equalible, this Proposition is universall, because is hath Omnis in it, which signifies all, or every one. Likewise, I call it particular when the Proposition hath Quidam, or Aliquis, that is to say, certains or some bodie. Quidam andici sure boness.

The fecond rule. The feet and and the first

If one of the Propolitions be particular, or negative, the conclusion is particular, or negative. I call that Propolition negative. Then Nullus, or Nemosthat is to lap, none, or no bostics in the Propolition. As Nullus Correstianus est fomerator.

The

The Arce of Logike!

adi ena pote que The third Rule nalese qui de erelle and

Ma perfect argument, both the Propositions, can bee neither negatives, not per perticulars together, for even as two negatives, there followeth nothing, so of two particulars, there followeth nothing. Therefore, when any such argument is made, were map boldly sup, it is not lawfull, because it is in me Poode, as it is very plaine to see, in making of this argument following.

Some Courtiers are rich.

Donver fellowe will be a Courtier.

Therefore be thalbe rich.

Dichus Souch a one is a Bithop.

Therefore, be is a good Bithop.

Dis argument is not lawfull, firth, because of my rule, I am caught that of pure particulars, nothing outh follow, as Quidons (some) is a particular. Ego I, is a singular morde, or signifying assuch as a proper name, and agains it is in no sigure, as bereafter I shall shewe. Thirdly, it is meete that the second Proposition should be included in the first part, of the second Proposition, whereof somewhat is repeared, or els it is no good argument, in the first sigure.

Some Kings be rightuous.

Nero is a King.

Therefore Nero isrightuous.

Discission good argument, because p Nero, which is the first word in the second proposition, of whom some thing is rehearled, is not comprehended but our the sommer parte of the Proposition, which is some Kinges, for this sommer parte, some Kinges both not speake of Nero, nor comprehende such as he is, but honest, and godly dipoled governours. And pet in weightie cautes such arguments have beenevied, euen of those that mould have having us from the obedience of Gods holy mord, and persuaded somethat we were free, from the observation of any one thing, comprehended in Moses lawer, Arthus.

The

The law of Moles is abolithed from the Gentiles. The law of the ten Commaundements, is the law of Mofes.

Erro the lawe of the ten Commaundements, is as bolifbed from the Gentiles.

Wibereas this first Proposition , comprehenseth not all the Ceremoniati lawes of Moles, but the lawer Ceremoniall, which were as fis lawes abrogures orderned, in declaration of Chilles comming, and there. gaed fore the Scripture farth until John, the lame was, and the 2010phets, fignifying that in Iohns time, he was come in whom the old Ceremoniall lames, were fully berefied and fulfilled, which at his comming, began to ceafe, feeing in himfelfe, was the fulfilling of the lame , not that wee thento not obferue the Bogall Morall lawer lawes of the heavenly precepts, commaunded by God, for Chrift muft be obhimfelfe, repeateth the obfernation of them, yea, be bindeth be to ferned of all a more fraightneffe, that not onely wee fould bee no enilibut that alfo we thould confent to none entil: therefore this first mopolition is not generall, but particular, and fo though the Ceremontall lame be gone, pet the Mosall law carieth Will according to Chriftes holy will.

Medius terminus, called the bubble repeate (which is a morbe The dubble rehearled in both Propolitions (mult not enter into the conclus repeats flon, because the other two parts, called Termini, bee proued by this , and brought to the conclusion , by reason they agree with this third, the which two, otherwife could not enter into the concluffon, if this bubble repeate, were not mentioned in both 1320politions, and kept out it felf from the conclusion as is cuidently to fee by an argumentation.

The fifth rule.

I 12 a perfect argumet, called Syllogifmus, there ought not to be moe wordes in the conclution, then was before rehearled. For mo things to be in the conclusion, this example that ferue, which Antonius maketh, in the first Booke of Tulls de oratore.

Canprofitablethings are notto be taught. In Philosophie are unprofitable things. Erge Philosophie is not to be caught.

This

This argument is to bee denped, because there is more in the conclusion, then was rehearsed in the two first propositions. For this should have bene the conclusion. Some unprostrable things which be in Philosophie, are not to be learned, not that Philosophie it self is to be exercised, for els wer might make this argument like wise.

Dionkennelle is not to be allowed. An opinking is oftentimes denkennelle.

Therfore winking at any time is not to be allower.

Therefore we must frame our argument so, that nothing bee more in the conclusio, then was in the other propositions: as thus Donkeneffe is not to be allowed.

In some drinking is often times bronkennesse. Therefore some drinking is not to be allowed.

The fixt rule.

But three termes in an argument. There ought not to be mor termes in an argumentation, then three, for other wife there is no good argument.

Cuery pollificall Pagifirate ought to keepe under , bilaber bient persons, with copposally punishment.

Meter is an Apostle.

Therefore Peter thoulo punith the dilobentent.

In this argument is no topping together, of the first proposition, and the fecond: for the politicals Wagistrate, and an Apptile, are two maner of things. Cherefore it hangeth together as Germaines lippes, as we vie to tay.

The fedenth rule.

Why the dubble repeare ought to bee no doubtfull worde. Anabaptifies reason. Tipe pubble repeate, which is time mentioned in both propoficions, ought to be no voubtfull morde, for doubtfull mordes make lower feverall cermes, which fould not be, as thus.

11 Sino bonoman is free on

All chat beleruetha Gofpelltruelp, are fre, mill and Lego none that beleve the Golpel truely, are boome. This argument is false; and must bee venped at the first, because there be sower termes, so in the first proposition, freedome is taken so luch a livertie, as men doc be in Common-weales.

Freedom two waies taken.

rate 18

to make fervannes, and apprentices free : in the fecome propone tion , freedome is taken for beliuering the foule from the wath of God, from linne, and from beath euerlafting, as wee reade in the Scripture. Whom the Sonne bath made free, they are free in bery beed, not that this freedome taketh away, al orders in the Common-weale, that no man that have an apprentice, or a bondman . Foz, although the father in heauen, through Telus Chiff bath made them free from linne, and that once for euer, pet are they fill apprentices, and bond by a polliticall law, therefore we map fee, that there be tower parts of termes, confidering be freaketh of one libertie, in the first proposition, and of an other in the fecond, to that the argument is not good, a like argument there A Sophifies is, which one made to Diogenes.

realon to Diogenes,

That which 3 am, thou art not. Zama man. Ergo thou art none.

Ere is an ambiguitie in this Merbe (3 am) for if wee bu-Derstanded in the fiest proposition, that this word (3 am) is not confidered, according to the generall fubitaunce, but according to the qualitie, or rather proper being, heaking of the biucrlitie of men, as when I live . Thave mone owne body, my fleft, and mine owne bones, thou haft thine owne mover buto thee , and not that I am thou , nor pet thou art I: Then it is well fapo, that which I ain, thou are not. But if I bnperffand this worde (I am) in the first proposition, as a fubstance univerlall, or rather generall copulative to be rehearfevofthe inferiours, then it is good . For as I map fap , Diogenests & mian, Ariftotle is a man, fo I mapfay of all men, and therefore though this derbe (I am) belong not to all , for their feverall properties, or each mans beeing, pet it agreeth to the generall name, which is to bee called a man , Wibereby wee map fee bere allo fower partes, ortermes, and therefore this argument muft bee bengeb at the first, gitting this reason, that I have themed before.

Motwithflanding, Diogenes aunswered this Sophist otherwile very metily, and abathed bim at the first . For whereas he b.ii. atunodo:a

Diogenes

propouned the fame unto him, and thought therby to have given him a faile, Diogenes traight upon rehearfall of this faid argument told him thus: Thine argument is true enough fellowe, if I hould rehearse it unto thee my self, a needed then no solution at all: for the maners being naught, makes thee to be no man.

Setling or placing of an Argument.

Setling or placing of an argument.

Dw that I have let forth the precepts, which are to bee observed in an argument. I will declare how to settle and place an argument, that any body may give a reason, why every words is set in an argument, in this, or that place. First, therefore we must consider, there be there sigures, which serve sor the making of an argument, and spoodes also which teach the ordering of Propositions, whether they shalve universall, particular, assirmative, or negative: I wil befine them both after this sorte.

A figure.

The first fi-

A figure is a lawfull placing of the dubble repeate, in the two Propolitions, and euen as a dubble repeate is placed, so we may judge with ease, in what figure the argument is. The first figure is such an oppered propositions in an argument, that the dubble repeate must bee the somer part, in the first proposition, and the last rehearsed part in the second proposition, whereupon the conclusion doch follows. And the reason that it must be so, is, because that whereas in thus figure, the argument is eucrimore made from the generall, to the kinds universally. (for the first proposition evermore in these two figures, must be universall, either affirmative, or negative) and by reason of the generall, there is somewhat rehearsed of the kinds: one of the propositions must bee so placed, that it map evidently appeare, that the kinds is circluded in the generall. And therefore the generall is spaken in the second proposition of the kinds.

A moode.
Qualitie in a propolition & quantitie.
iii), Moodes
so the first figure.

Conword (C

A Property a lawfull placing of propolitions, in their verse qualitie or quantitie. I call that in the propolition a qualitie, whe it both affirme or venye. I call it a quantitie, when it is either winerfall, or particular. Into the first figure belong fower Poopers, which may be perceived by their fower worder.

Barbara,

Gelarent, College and the state of the state

Dele fower wordes lignific nothing, but feruing for notes onely and markes, whereby every propositionis knowne, either to be universall, or particular, affirmative, or negative, must not bee for gotten, if we will make an argument truely in the first sigure for euery argument, that is made in this sigure, is in one of these sower Hoodes, or els it is no argument of the sirst sigure. At the dubble repeate be the former part in the sirst Proposition, and the last rehearsed part in the second Proposition, it is in the sirst sigure, not mithstanding, except it bee in Boode also, it is no argument. Therefore, were must learne to place an argument in Hoode also, And so, the better knowledge of this thing, note that in those Hoodes, there be some bowelles to bee considered, and marked. That is to say, A, E, I, &, O. And the rather to helpe memorie, A bave framed a rule so, these some welles, in these two verses.

SA, doth affirme: E, doth denigh, which are both vniuerfale I, doth affirme: O, doth denigh, which we particular call.

For, where we see A, in Barbara thisse, we must consider, that the sea. A. A. in this one words, declare who be three universall propositions assumentive. E, declareth a proposition negative universall, as in Celwent, we see this E, whereby we are taught that the argument (if we make it in this Poods) must have two universall negatives, and one universall assumative, by reason of A, which is in the middest of Celwent. I, doth signifie a particular assumentive, O, doth signifies a particular negative, as in Ferre, the first must be a negative universall, the second an affirmative particular. Agains, the consonants, as first capitall letters, placed in the beginning of enery Poode. As B.C.D. F. and also the small consonant letters, which are included, and be within the more in curry Poode, both of the second and third sigure, as C.M. P. S. tuery one of these have their proper meaninges.

As B.in any Moobe, of the ferond and third figure, berlareth that the argument of that 90000, being not plaine for understanding. or not true in fence, or perhaps, not apt to proue a prefent caufe. the fame may bee reduced to the Boode Barbara, of the firft fis gure, which thall make the argument appeare more plaine, C. the weeth the right path to Celarent. D, openeth the grate to Dary. Funtheth faire pallage to Forio. C, that is not in the beginning of mythe Moodes, of the Coonde and third figure, but placed within the wordes, beclareth that the contradictorie of the concluffen, muft be taken (if pe will reduce the argument to the first figure ) idening thereunte, and bling as a thing graunted one of the propositions, with the conclusion, aftering the other proposis tion that remaineth , by contradiction allo : and befide ferring one of the two propositions in the other place.

B. the weth that the movolition must be altered , by conversion of the accident, S, felleth that the propolition mull be chaunged.

be plaine contection.

and markenois abatis areducion shram one.

What is a reduction.

Reduction is a right featming of an accoment, and (as a man would lay) a newe probation, by an other Boode and figure, of that thing, which was prouen before, both by the fecond and there figure: as thus

To make a thing other wife, then it was before, to reduce it, or to thing it comore plane biver danding, in the hape and forme of the first figure, is rallevresuction.

The denision of a reduction.

The denifion of a reductio.

Reduction is of two loses . The one is a bemonfire. tion, which the weeth the argument more plainly that before was couched barkly, the other is a reduction to that, which is impossible, commonly to termen because in my such afteration, the contradicrotte is bled in the other argument, when any fuch reduction is made from the facond or third figure, to the first figure . And this rule is for ever true: that two contravictories can neuer be both true. The first called a bemonstrative, of the wing reduction, is made by converfion of the propolitions , and by Dilplacing of the fame, fetting Moft true.

Demonstratipe reductió.

one in an others fleade, fauing onely, the conclusion is altimies one and keepeth his place fill . The other crooked way (called Reduction to of the Logicians, Reductio ad impossibile ) is a reduction to that, impossible. which is impossible, when the contradictorie of the propositions is bled, and brought to the first figure . So that thefe two arguments after the reduction is made, can never be both true, confibering the condradictorie. As for example, in the Boode Baroco, and the fecond figure.

Ba- Al true chiffias refule co aet anobe burobly. ro- Some Marchaunts refule not to get goods bnaodly.

co. Cherfore fome Barchaunts are no true Cini-Aliansin i field propoliticon mail i

Dere if mone aduerfarie thall fap, that the conclution followeth not well, and that though the other be true, per the cenfequent is falle. I map force bim by reduction, to graunt it to bee true. And therefore taking the contradictorie of the conclusion. and placing the fame in the fecond propolition, and altring the fecond propolition, by contradiction allo, making it the conclu-Bon & Whall force bim to graunt my first argument to bee true. As for example, I will take the contradictorie of the conclusion, which is : Guerp Marchaunt man is a true Cheiftian, and like. wife the contradictorie of the fecond propolition, putting the one in the others place, and thus I will reason. If me first argument be falle, then this argument istrate betaufe it is the contradic-Ce-120 contener of Banchen . Ardum de noit

> Call true Chiftians refule to get moods ungodip. All Marchaunts are true Chiffians.

Therefore all Marchaunts refnie to net goods odi argument marriant dibonud

Euery one feeth that this argument is falle, being the contradiction of the other : Ergo, the first reason is true. And this is the vie of Reduction by a contradictorie, violently to force the graunt of our laping . For if this realon be falle, the other muß be true, but this is falle; Ergo, the other is true.

A perfect

That

Chat thelethinges map bet more euivent to make an arenment, both in the figure and Moobe, and fo to reduce the fame. and bring it to the arguments of the first figure. I will first give eraples for enery 9000 of this first figure, that one map plainty fee the whole matter, as though it were in a glaffe, remembring almaies, that thefe Booves ferue for this figure, which figure is knowne (as I lave before) when the bubble repeate is the former part of the first proposition, and the last rehearled part of the fecond proposition. And whereas I fapt before, that certaine arguments were in no Doode, althoughthep were in the first figure, and therfore not good, because thep were not in one 90000. and figure thefe balbe to baberfrand, thep wer not in one mood, becaufe the first propolition muft bee univerfall euer , or els it is not good. Ram therefore, bere followe eramples of the firtt figure, and of the Moodes thereof.

and at it sumang at , no The first figure.

The first figure.

10 3

The first example is a perfect argument, being villerfall, and also affirmative.

all mosall Ba-All hanel things are to be embraced. Doneft.

ba All Chiltian lawes made by a Christian Magiftrate are boneft.

Therefore all Christian lames made by a Chriftian Magiffrate are to be embraced.

A perfect argument univerfall pegariue.

Ce-Mo contener of Pagifrate is a Chifflan. la- All Anabaptiffs are contemners of the 90a-Magiltrace. gillrate. Cres. Therefore no Anabaptift is a Christian.

A perfect argument particular affirmative.

Da- Mharfoener apprehendeth the favour and Apprehendeth grace of God, the fame onely both juffifie. the fauour of < ri-Faith onely apprehendeth the fauour and GOD. grace of God. Ergo faith onely both iuffifie.

A perfect

A perfect argument, pargicular negative nungat a A making the free grapping condend and the Ertogeioner. Zie Some rich mands af Ertottioner.

The first figure helpeth mott of al,in teaching or fetting forth thinges at large, which wee would have knowne. All Arts baue their general precents and therefore, the visofalle is practifed in this figure. The Philosopher fouth, Query good thing the more commutis, the better it is The Logician fithe Allthinges are made for lame end. Siripture the weth that every man is bound to loue his neighbour as himlelf. Guery one of thele general leflong, ferue well for this figure, and may with eafe bee framed for proofe of sur matter. Allo if wee mend either to confute jor confirme any caule it ferueth bery well . Beuber can impeaule bee metioned, but the laws map in this figure be fathioned, confide ring every questio hath here an apeframe, be it either briverfall. o) particular affirmative, w negative. The fecon figure is where the bubble repeate is platt rehearled part in both propolitions. after this fortfollowing: and there he fower mondes belonging to the lame figure, as it that appear the bit of alther bane thele fomer vowels in them, A.E.I.O. fo that they make the propolition to be butuerfall, or particular affirmative or negative, as it was before. Pote that the conclution is alwaies negative, for afmuch as the first, a the fecond, are alwaten repugnaunt, neither bo then agree in p public repeate coller Medius forming. And therfore the conclution is negative, by chirapolition, wherof I fpake before, whe I intreated of the coverlin, on turning of propositions IT be second figure . I no will delicate an

An argument vniuerfall negative, reduced to the first figure, by plaine conversion of the former proposition.

The fecond and saubtfull conference.

Cinquiet con- | 4- All they that truß to be inflifted by their frience. monkey have buquiet consciences.

ricagel

re. Therfore nonetrusting to his workes, is 3.1.

An

An argument valuerfal negative, reduced to the first figuremaking the second proposition altered by plaine conuersion, to bee the former and first proposition, and the first proposition to be the second: and the conclusion also to be altered by plaine conversion.

Ca- The Chaittian righteoulneffe , is the purs

Hourenefic of me- To weate a Cippee, a Cowle, a hauen the minde.

fru. Therefore the survaire attire is not the Chiffian vigite outfielle.

A particular argument reduced to the first figure altering onely the first proposition by plaine convertion.

Contern. Fe Marene Durine toncemneth Phylolophie. nev polyes fri Some English preachers concent Philolophie.
losophie. no. Ergo, fome English preachers are not true Di-

This argument is reduced to Birbira, only taking the contradictorie of the second propolition, & the conclusion and setting these two, the one in others place.

Coget goods Jes Dome Parchatis retute notto get goods ungodly.

Ceo. Therefore fome Parchars are no chinicas.

Rebating matters, which same in contranctive, were may get much helpe by this second sigure, for evermore, when we dissent from other in opinis, this sigure helpeth much for lapping by of sur argument. As if one thould say. All workes are allowed before God, that are bone of a good intent, I might answere thus, no hypocriticall workes, no propirizatoric Passing, no meritorious praying, although they be done for a good inter, are yet to be allowed before God. And is Junight replye and frame mive argument in this sigure, argins the above rehearsed sentence. The third sigure is, where the dubble repeate is the some former part in both propositions. And there bee are moodes of the fame figure . Dote alfo that the conclusion must needes bee particular in this figure, where the former part in both propolitions, is the bubble repeate, for like as weerenfon in the first figure from the generall worde, to the kinde that is from the buis uerfall, to the narticular, fa in this figure we reafontro the kind (which is leffe) to the generall wonde, misich is more univerfall. but fo not withflanding, that the conclusion bee particular, and therefore this kinde of argument is very good . For the Specia, or kinds being once put, the generall must needes followe.

Framing of the bj.figure.

This argument is reduced to Day, the second proposition being altered by convertion of the accident.

n

'n.

Da Cuery Common weale is Cods moinaunce The third rap Chery Common weale hath neede of Lames, figure. Commonand armour. meale.

Sherfore foine Lames and armour are Goos Die figure proficeth much in usamuniden icul. This argument is reduced to Fair the fecond proposition being altered onely to connection of accident de data

Fe- 130 beyone hould be elchomen to lit is to though lap- All vertue bath bermoe with berg asand mo ton. Chenefare fonte moe finula rior de efebetien.

This argument is reduced to Day, the second proposition nothing altered, but onely fer in the first place, and the first set in the second place being altered by plaine conversion,& the conclusion in like maner, and ist

Di- Percieonely forgineth finnes, to lister of Spercic. 3/4 All mercieis purchaler by faithad els mill min mis. Therfore by faith onely forginenes is obteined.

This argument is reduced to Dary, the fecond propolition, altered by plaine conversion.

C Da-Albipocrites compt wil works birth bolines. Diparties In Some hipocrites haue beene Bilbops.

Therfore fome Wilhops hane commpten will morkes high bolinelle an macros of to acros

This I.u.

roll figure.

This argument following. Is reduced to Birbirs, the conclusion first being altered by contradiction, and made the first proposition, the second standing as it doth, and keeping their owne place still the proposition at large, which was before the first,

. Halrowing storm a front by contradiction, and an (affect to the first Battell. Some battell is not to be efchewen.

Dattell. Some Guery bartell is full of much milerie.

auglio! Some fome milerie is not to be elebewen.

This argument following is reduced to Feria, the seconds a photographic being altered only by plane conjection.

beid street all form man.

Fe-120 malicious man is of God.
71- Some malicious man is a preacher,
64. Cheretore come weacher is not of God.

es Chung britished the See Triment are Coss

This figure profiteth much, in positing particular things and no gathering of condections in coules the are boubtfull, when probabilitie mely can no affered univelence, bouteth out the tructh of a matter. And because several thinges come fonest to our senees, weed fuch gathering will conditionly and by trials of particular camera jassification of the particular camera land.

Three figures necessary.

haus hewer alcade, if or in every argument, that hat the thape of a Sylogifiers, (for the induction and the example have it not, neither be then in modes and figure) ever more wer reason from the generall, to the kinde universall, in thing the conclusion universalling els wareafon from the deniether have be there is a repugnature of the terms at large, and the soverall, when they doe not agree with the dubble repeatern last of all wee forms many ranks, and many effects together, whereafts made in argument, called Series, or Concention that we to the historian argument, called Series, or Concention that we to the historian argument, called Series, or Concention that we to the historian argument, called Series, or Concention that we to the historian argument, called Series, or Concention that we to the historian argument, called Series, or Concention that we to the historian argument, called Series.

First figure.

mallbemmemakeaumyilment, and proceed from the general morde, to the kinde, it is in the first Billier, and even by our reason

me

welearne this, that if the greater be not, the leffe cannot bee. As thus, if one be not a living creature, how can be be a man, if he be a living creature, be muft either be a man, on a boure boby.

Colben wer proceede from the kinde, to the generall, making the conclution particular, the argument is in the third figure. And this is for over true, that when the kind is rehearled, the acnerall muft needes followe,

But when there is a repugnauncie in an argument of the terme at large, and the feueral, fo that they agrie not with a third morde, it is ever in the fecond figure . And this is plaine to fee, that fuch an argument mult needes bee well concluded, when we goe about to confute any thing, feing that two kindes, which are repugnaunt, muft needes be diffeured, and fothe conclution to be made byon the fame. And it is eafle to fee in the arguments of the fecond figure. Therefore it is good reason, that both there thoulabee three figures , and alfa that the argument both well moceede, being made in any of them.

T

Sometimes an argument is made , when wee couple many caufes together, and the very effects of the fame, asthus.

Duermuch gourmandife hindereth bilgeftion in the Stomacke.

By euill differtion in the ftomacke, corrupt blood, is engendered in the liver.

Man dathen euiltblood is bred in the liver, enill bumours are foren throughout all the bodie.

Guill humours fred throughout the body, caufe a di- Gourmandic feperature in the body, a after that bring the Double, caufeth drop-Therefore ouermuch gourmandife caufeth bropfie.

I.Hi.

Of any aperfect argument, called Enthymemata Donperfect argument, is an argument wanting fomt An ynperfect one pare, the whichis, when one propolition is rehearled, argument. and the conclusion fraite brought in thereopon, as thus. That is not good, which bringeth a man to milebicfe. Therefore monep is not good . The Boble teacheth a man his duetie towards God, and his neighbor. Ergo it is necessary to be knowne and read of everybody . Wleafure baiperth endleffe paine after it.

of the

it. Ergo pleasure is to be elebeted. These arguments be buperfect arguments, manting one propolition enermore, the which if we add, a perfect argumentation followeth thereupon, as thus.

Cathacloeuer bringeth endlelle paine after it , that

Hame is to be elchewed, and and and inner ods

Deleafure bringerh endlelle paine after ic.

( Ergo, pleafure is to be elchewed, 32 98 11.11 lingan

Thele inperfect arguments, called Enthymemata, confict partly of likelihoodes, and partly of infallible reasons, and partly of infallible reasons, Likelihoodes.

Likelihoodes are those, that often his the tructh, and per are not almaies so, as thus.

Such a your man talketh often, and that alone alfo,

Ereo he is in love with her.

This may bee true, and this may bee falle, for although the confecture have some probabilitie with it, yet is it not for ever true. The other called infallible reasons, or rather necessary are numerits, must be all reason be ever more true, as thus.

Infallible regions.

South a woman is brought in bed, 120137 (123146)

An other.

SThe Sunnetsrilen.

Ergo, it is bap.

Therfore in all communication, good beeve ought to be take, that likelihoodes of things, be not bled for necessary reasons.

Of an argument, called Syllogifmus expositorius.

An argument made by a noune proper

This kinds of argument hath surmore a Howne proper, to be as the dubble repeate in both propolitions: contrary to the maner of all other arguments, and it may be referred to the third figure.

( Paule both allebge godly layings of the Ethnikes.

Paule was a Preacher.

Sergo, a Preacher may alledge godly layings of the Ethnikes.

For, what source is truely gathered of particular things, the same also is proper to the thinges generall, and what source a greeth ereech to the kinde, agreeth allo to the difference, or propertie, of the fapo Mowne proper.

Inductio

Minduction, is a kinde of argument, when wee grather An Inductio, fufficiently a number of proper names , and thereupon make the conclusion univerfall, as thus.

Abraham was iuftifico by his faith . Likewife Ifaac . Like. wife Iacob. Likewife Gideon. Likewife Dauid. And all the holp men belides, without exception. Ergo, all that be iuflified before God, are iuftified by their faith.

An other example.

Dathan for disobedience against the superiour power, ended his life metchedly, Likewife Abiron.

Likewife Choran. Likewife Semei.

Meither is there any example to the contrary.

Therefore all Rebelles, and Traytours to their Prince and King hall ope wetchedly.

An other example.

Nembroth, although he mas a toyly bunter, pet he lined like a wetch in great miferie.

Laban alfo liued wietchedly. Pharao was fore plagues.

Amalech, Madian, Abimalech.

Herode, withother were fourged greenently for their wice The ende of keoneffe:neither is there any example to the contrary. the vngodly. is wicked.

Therefore the ende of wicked men is wretched.

This kinde of argument is called Inductio , because that thebeing divers proper names, it enduceth at length, and moueth the minde to make a generall conclution . Therefore necestarie it is that in fuch arguments all the examples, which are induced he like, if any bee found contrary, the argument is of no force, as Athanafius liued onmaried. Ambrofius liued bmmaried.

Bafilius hao no wife, and a great many moe. Ergo, all Bilbons berecofore were unmarico.

The

Bishops maried in the Primatine Church.

The Apostles

Socrates in-

The argument is not lawfull, foralmuch as directs have bene maried in the Primative Church, as Spiridion, Hermes, Hilarius, Policrates, Tertulian, and divers other. For it was the maner of the Primative Church, that honell maried men, were chalen to be Bishops, and had the charge of Christes flock.

The Apostles also (as Egnacius witnesseth) had wines, aswel as other men, and as I chinke beet them, as other men doe their wines, or els asked their leave, and consent to sopheare them.

Socrates bled a kind of induction, by alking many questione. the which all when they were graunted, he brought thereupon his confirmation, concerning the prefent controvertie, which kinde of argument, bath his name of Socrates himfelfe, called by the learned, Socrates Induction, as if I might reason thus, Lamenting the miferie of mankinge, wherein fo fewe are good, and fo many cuill. Alas in what flate be we mortall men, feeing in all agesthere bath none beene almost good . I prap you both many good folke were there, when all the worlde was trowners Surely not paft eight in all . Dowmany were founde good in the Citte of & Sodomites, whe the whole was burnt for abomt. nable linne, with fire and Brimftone : Dot ten, no not eicht, no not fire could be founde, as it appeareth plaine in the circhteene and nineteene Chapter of Genelis. Dow many in the lande of Bomile, when lire bundeed thouland fichting men went out of Egipt? Alas but two onely . Dow many bib fmarue from God eucrlining , and bowed to an Joell in the time of Helias? For footh all the people, fauing Helias, and feuen thoufande . Dow many tribes of the Ifractites followed God : Two onely, where as the other ten clerely forfooke him. Dow many bid the Lorde coumpt to bee his in the lande of Syria? Hone at all, fauing Naham the officer, and the widowe of Sarepta . Dow many fearch God, when Tobias was perfecuted Tobias onely. Dowmany found Chaift, when he was here himfelf voon earth? But twelne that he chole as faithfull, and pet one was a traptour afterward. Therefore, thus map I conclude, the goody people in all ages are intall in number ..

Fewe godly in all ages. The vie.

E profite much by this kinde of argument : for hereby we have the affired knowledge of thole grofids, which I nature bath graffed in bs . As where nature telleth bs. that the whole is greater then the parts , wee cannot otherwife know it, but by thewing it to be true in this fubffaunce, and that fubffaunce, and fo in all other, whereupon we conclude, that this generall faying is true, Aristotle fayth, this argument ferueth well to perswade the multitude, when we gather many like thinges, and at latt, after fuch beaping, conclude, that our argument is generally true. As I heard once a Doctor of Dininitie, which A Doffers mas not lo great in knowledge, as he was in title, a little before induction in the banifoment of the Baffe, earneftly befending his caufe, with behous of examples of fuch and fuch workipfull as dwelt there in the the Make. Countrie . Doth not fuch a man (@ he) beuoutly heare Paffe's Doth not fuch a Knight, fuch a Lorde, fuch a Ladie, and fuch a Bentleman, full reuerently come to the bleffed Balle : Then neighbours (o be)if all thefe boe fe, and none but Deretiques folowe the contrary, why thoule not you followe the best, and forfake the worft : Mith that, the people hearing fuch a patched reafon, were wonderfully perfwaded, to fay as he fayb, and if neede had beene , readie to have byed (but not with him , for he would none of that himfelfe, being come home fence gayly well ) but a. lone, and together themtelues, if fuch extreamitie had beene of fered . Againe, this kinde of argumentation profiteth much, to bilate a matter at large, that thereby the trueth may the rather be allowed, when it is found true in every fingular thing.

De Exemplo.

Merample, is a maner of argumentation, where one An argument thing is proved by an other , for the Ukeneffe that is called an exfound to be inthem both, as thus . If Marcus Atti- ample. lius Regulus, habrather lofe his life, then not keepe tilius Regupromife withhis enemie , then hould every man beeing taken gulus.

prifoner, keepe promife with his enemie. If Citics hauc bene De: Aroped, for breaking of Medlock, then Abulterers mul necdes be punifhed. If Alexander Damned a weake Solviour, when he mis almost frolen for colde, and oid let him in his owne Chaire against the are: then hould all Captaines, and men of warre, be teaper ouer their poore warriours, and bale Solotours.

Alexander.

Euermore take heeve, that this kinde of argument, the caufee bee like of both lives, or elsthe argument, proueth not. As thus.

Peter killed Ananias, taken with an open lpe. Therefore, fricituall ministers may punich open offenders, with temporali (worde.

How Peter killed Ananias.

The examples are not like . Peter bis kill Ananias with the morre, and nower of the boly Choft: therefore, Preachers muft not kill the bodie, but onely excommunicate men, accommeting them unmorthieto bee in the congregation. The funde is lamfull for the temporall Pagistrate onely, and for none other.

The vie.

C that hath flore of examples , is well able to perfuane the willing bearer, and that much velite euen the ocintie eared allo, that mad needes heare alwaics fine matters. and fraunce eramples to pleafe his fancalie withall.

Sorites, an heaping argument.

An heaping argument.

Orites, vel coacernatio, is a heaping tomether of caules, one buon an other . A kinde of argument when the laftrehear. fed worde, of the first proposition, is repeated in the first ward of the fecond propolition, necessarily acreeing thereunto and for moine fill forth in like maner, till at the length the lattrebear fed morbe be aboed unto the first worde, or former part of the first mopolition. And it is a kinde of argument much pled when mee afcende byward from the to well, to the higheit. D'els when we goe from the caufes to thenert thinges bone. Tahich thinges pone are the occasion of other thinges belives as thus.

Ca man is a living creature. A liuing creature is a lively bodie.

A lively bodie is a fubitaunce.

Lergo, a man is a lubitaunce. 2 295 sd 10,054011

Edibers

Cabere the Lawe is, thereis transcreffion, inom and I Elhere there is transgression, there is feare. Tahere there is feare, there is remorte of confcience. Therefore, where the lame is, there is remorte of confcience. An other. Julification is not without faith. Faith is not without a repentaunt heart. Therefore, Juffification is not without a repentaunt heart. Mo arguments be made negative, by this kinde of argumentation. As thus. The Gospellis not the Lawe. The Lawe teacheth bathe feare of God. Cherefore, the Gofpell doth ust. Or thus. Chailt the Sonne, is not in perfon God the father. Coothe father is euer liuing. Therefore, Chrift is not ever living. But thefe, and fuch like be as wife as this that followeth. Cfilhis no flethair a stram of this source of the fre Fleth is meate, it it & geraffar nadit . agiet agal Therefore, fifth is none. And the reason is:no arguments be made negatively by this kind of reasoning. Reither is the consequent good, when words that agree not necessarily are toyned together, delinited Of euili maners are mabe good Lawes, Charles Good Lawes are thinges worthir to be mailed. Thinges worthie praile, are to be belireb. Cobcrefore, euill maners are to be belired. This knitting is not lawful, for cuitl maners of themfelices. are not the occasion of good lames, butthe gooly minde of good Magifrates, is the very chief enule. Anthe Defeafe is unt the saufe of heating, but rather the Philition and his medicines, and mans nature, which relitteth the poplon of ficknelle, is the bery caule. Again in everybeaping op of arguments, after fach fort, learne and marke, how they proceede, and you thatteaftly fee falle packing and and analog have sured in the line of the should К.ц.

Thus merie fellowes reason when they are at ale.

he that drinkes well, steepes well.
He that steepes well, sinnes not.
He that sinnes not, shalve faucd.
Therefore, let us all drinke well and we shalve faucd.

sparke the proceeding, and pe shall easely anoped the errour, for although in sleepe were sinne not, pet by drinking wer cause sinne, and although wer sleepe soundly after, pet no one man at one time, both drinketh and sleepeth, therfore, though in sleeping be offendeth not, pet in drinking he passeth measure, and therefore, the kneeting is nothing worth.

An horned argument.

Ilemna, otherwife complexio, vel cornutus Syllogifmus, called a homed argument, is when the reason consisteth of revugnaunt members, fo that whatforuer you graunt, you fall into the fnare, and take the foyle. As if I thould afke, whether it were better to marie a faire woman, or a foule. If pour fan a faire. Then answere I, that is not good, for they common-In fay, the will bee common, and then I map fay, ye are touched with the bomed argument, if that faying bee true. If you fay, it mere good to marie a hard fausured woman , then I anfwere. the will bec lothfome, and to pe fall into an inconvenience both maies. Rotwithflanding, if either of the parts may bee turned. into the aduerfaries neck againe, or both of the, it is a faultie argument . And you may confuce the fame by inversion, that is to fap turning his tale cleane contrary, as thus. If I hall marie a faire woma, I fai haue great pleafure e comfort in berif Tina. rie a browne woman, foe fal not be comon to other, for few men mill feeke after ber. Therefore, I thall have comfort both maiey.

Christes aunfwere, being stroken on the cheeke.

Chilf himlelf, as Iohn withelleth inthe rviti. Chapter, bled the same kinde of argument against the ministers, which stood by, and smote him on the face, saying: aumsweres thou the high Priest so's Jesus aunswered him. If Thave evill spoken, beare witnesse of the evill: If I have well spoken why smittest thou mes

De confequentis.

E profiteth not a little, after the rehearfail of fuch are of briefs as guments, briefly to them the knitting of propolitions, guments, and to beclare the maner of a thort argument, bettered by two propolitions; which are layout frant byon the antecedent, at the confequent, as the Logicians ble to terme the.

The first rale.

From the univerfall gathering to the particular, the argument goeth well, as thus.

Callofficers Doe their buetie.

Ergo,this officer both his buetle.

But not contrary.

S This officer both his duetie,

Ergo, all officers Doe their duetie.

The fecond rule.

From that which by nature is in any thing, to that which happeneth califally, or commeth by lome mille euill, the realouis not good. As thus.

Cober diet is good,

A feuer caufeth fober biet.

Ergo, a feuer is good.

An other argument pled by the Romith Bithop.

Chinne both not beget man,

The worke of luft begetteth man.

Therefore luft, otherwise called Concupifcentia, is

The second Proposition is not true, for wicked concupis Nature the tence, came in by mans folly, and hath much defaced that, which rows God, nature first ordeined. Therefore, nature it felse through God, or crease weth encrease, which is much contrary to the wicked lust of concupilcence.

The third rule.

Thinges dilagreeing, are not confidered both one way, and with one respect.

K.ui.

The Gospen willeth us to make no difference of anochat. To ram in grand and forbit bathis

Ergo, the Golpell, and the Philitions, teach things

These doe not vilagree, considering their endes are divers. The Scripture forbiddeth superfiction, in the observation of dayes. The Philition hathrespect, to the state of many bodie.

The fourth rule.

The argument is good when substaunces are set, according to their proper differences. But when they are set the one against the other, according to their accidents, which are agreeing to both, the argument is not good, as thus.

St is lawfull for you, not to drinke wine.

erthere as this worde (lawfull) is common to both, alwell to brinke, as not to brinke. The argumer, which the Sophis made to Diogenes, may by this rule be confuted.

The fifth rule.

Enery thing, the more that other thinges are though it, the fame is alwaies the more it felfe. Asthus.

Secure is not thinking firet manning a ridto no Ergo, fire is more how wen there are is the control of the control of

21.24

mamely An other and town of Semeloue to mavie for groobes.

Therefoze, they laue goodes beft of all.

Some arguments made actording to this rule, are nothing true, and therefore it is good to give warning of them.

Tots wellfald, and truely, this rule holoeth in causes, that are next adiopining y and the which wholy compasse a matter not in those causes, that are fetched farre of, and being but half causes, partly and by the way, give onely the occasion. As thus,

Cherefoze, his mafter is the greater pace, and dies

The

Where it hash place, and where

-sris negel

The argument is not good in those causes, that are but halfe caules, for Quid is not a Boct, only because he learned mecents of his mafter , but alfo becaufe be had a great apinelle by nature, and a wonderfull wit to doe better then another.

Some boloe faft upon a laping of Sainet Augustine , and Sainet Augustine build wanders upon that tert. I would not beleeve the Goldel, Hines faving fatth Augustine, except the Catholike Church of perswade ine. woon the Church. And hereupon lay they.

The Golpell is beleenet for the Churches fake. Ergo, the Church is of more authoritie.

And here they beape a number of mischiues. Therefore (fap they) the Church may make Lawes, and appoint traditions. whatfocuer they be. But Janfwere thus, the antecedent is falle. For, I chiefly beleeue the Gofpell, confidering God is the ans thour: and feeing the wonders that be hath bone . I give credite to it for his fake. I graunt, wee doe beleene the Golpell for the How should. Churches lake, but pet principally, forthat God is the chiefe au Church, or thour , that pertuaded be to receive his worde , and after the which were Church (as the fecond caule ) telleth be that the Gofpell is the of the Church tructh of Bed. Therefore, if they will make this luch an argue had not the Goffell afore ment, as they feeme to fay it is, then this that followeth, is of an infruetod me good force, for in all thingesit is like.

SThis childe is a good boye, Gremercie rov. Ergo, the rad is better then the bope.

The chiefelt caule of the boyes goodnelle, is God hinfelfe. bubich fendeth his grace buto him : the fecond saufe is his good freendes, which chaften him for his offence: and laftly, the rod, as an intrument, whereby the feate is bont.

belyeth forward to bring the bope to alus et moine de loine goodnelle, en el corre anything a real the least against a beck and participated by the property

er ein mopel effice. Ingier cofee what is conteary, what Madudud adt. othurn dit 120 fei bad a antica tades cats. TOf

90f the second parte of Logike, called Innentio, that is to fay, the finding out of an argument.

Etherto wee haue treated of the former part of Logike, called in Latine Indicium, that to to fay, Jubgement, or fkil to beclare the nature of every word feuerally, to fet the fame worts in a verfect fentence, and to knitthe bp in an argument, fo that bereby we might with eafe elpie p right frame in matters, bow they agree , beeing lauention.

lapped by in order . How therefore, the other part thall bee fet forth, which is called Invention, whereby wee may finde arque ments, and reafons, meete to proue cuery matter, whereupon question map rife. This part is the store house of places, wherein arguments reft , buto the which, if wee conferre the matter, which wer entende to proue, there will appeare bivers argue fimilitude. ments to confirme the caule . Like as they therefore that bigge for golde in ground, boe fearch narrowly the vaines of the earth. and by biliment marking the nature thereof, at length finde out the Mine , which excebering founde , they Braight bring it to light for the only behous of man. So he that will reason wifely. as well for the common profite of other, as for his owne prinate gaine, must be a bery biligent labeurer, and confidering matters are put to the moofe, wherein often refleth boubt, his part muft bee cuermoze to marke the nature of his caufe, and to feeke confirmation thereof in eucry part. Fira, by the Definition, the caufe the effect and proper office. Again, to fee what is contrary, what is like , and what thinges bee incident thereunto , the which all when he hath Bone, he that fee at length that fome one argument aboue all other, ferueth belt to confirme his cause, the which whe with travaile, be harb founde out, he may bring to light, and ble according to big will.

Milbat

What a division is.

Place is, the refting corner of an argument, or els A place. a marke, which giveth warning to our memoric, what wee map freake probably, either in the one part of the other, bpon all causes that fall in quellion. Those that be good Darefinders, will fone find the hare by her forme, For when they fee the ground beated flat round about, and faire to the light: they have a narrowe geffe by or parable of all likelihood, that the pare was there a little before. Likewile hunting, the huntelman in hunting the fore, will fone efpie when he freeth a hole, whether it be the Fore borough, ornot, So be that wil take profite in this part of Logike, must bee like a hunter, and learne by labour, to knowe the bosoughes. For, thefe places bee nothing els, but coverts or boroughes, wherein if any one fearch diligently, he may find game at pleafure. And although perhaps one place faile him, per thall he find a boufen other places, to accomplith his purpole. Therefore, if any one will be good in this kind, be must go from place to place, and by fear ching cuery borough, bee thall have his purpofe unboubcedly, in most part of them, if not in all. Me fee that cuerie propolition, botheither af In all arenfirme a thing to be true, or els benieth that it is true. Therefore, ments either when any thing is collantly faid, it necbeth fomewhat cuermore we affirme or to confirme it. As for example. The Sacraments are necessarie in the Church of Gob. I map prooue this faring true, by reafoning fro p place, which is caffed the end of euery thing, as thus.

Confue teftimonie of our faith, and to noufell our Argument felfe in the pactife thereof, is berie neceffarie, The Sacraments gine tellimonie of our faith, et. of the end. Ergo, the Sacraments are berie neceffarie.

vpon refped

Miben any propolition both beny, it is needefull to have a third Sacraments worde, which map agree with one part of the propolition. As if necessarie, one hondo thus fay. Wan is not inflifted by his workes. The place of repugnant words, that both eltogether bilagree, gfucth tut matter. Andeberefore I map fap: Manie ner tuftifed by his morkes because be is indified by his faith onely. For, if mer= cie come by grace, and that freely, then morkes can not faue us. Baule

HOTEUN.

Daule proueth the first, therefore the second is for ever true.

The division of the places, which are existin in nomber.

The definition. The generall worde (Barticularlie in the The kinde. Thery lubftaunce. 35 / The propertie. The whole. The partes. The paked morde. places, called Loci (And parely incident ) Words adicined. e Some are inward The maner of boing. Lintemi, and they are (to the lubitance. Is Che thing conteined. Some are (The efficie ente caufes. In Che ende. some are The effecte. Some are outward - Cither knit places called Exterwith any at=) the firing ) appopried antie , cals ni that is not in the of the case ( for fome cub fubitance. 02 nature led cognata, fes, called Euera. 20 of the thenge , but of the which without it, and thefe Either applied to the Cheplace. thing, not beeing the . The time. caufe therof, but only Things annered caufe therof, but only giuing a name therm: Senteces of flage (D) els they bee acciden: The name of a thig Ztes, whereof there be s. Chings compares. Chings like. SD2 els they are repugs Difcorbantes. Chings Differing. C Df the Definition. The Definition.

There be feuen places, which are in the fubliaunce of nature of the thing.

The definition.
The generall words,
The ainde.
The propertie.
The whole,
The parten

The definitio

A Definition is a perfect fentence, whereby the verie nature of the thing it felfe, is fet forth, and expounded. Don may reason from this place, both affirmatively, and negatively, as thus: fortitude is a vertue, that sighteth in the quarell quarell of right, I map reason thus from the befinition, to the From the definitionto the thing befined if I will proue fortitude praife worthie. Da-Mhatfoeuer is vertue, fighting in the quarell of defined.

right, the fame is maile worthie.

fri- Fortitude is bertue, fighting in p quarel of richt.

i. Cherefore, fortitude is maile worthie.

If I will befine a good thing, and proue that money is not good, I may reason thus.

Ce- Do fuchthing is good, as is befired for respect of any other ende.

fa- All money is befired, for refpect of an other ende.

re. Therefore, no money is good.

The generall rule.

To whom the definition both agree, to the same also both the thing befined belong, And contrariwile, both affirmatuely and negatively.

The maner of reasoning.

If Socrates be a living creature, endued with reason, then is be a man, if be be a man, be is a living creature endued with reafon. If he be not a living creature, ec. The he is not a man. If he be not a man, then he is no lining creature, endued with reason.

The vie. The nature of every thing is knowen by the befinition, and therefore this place above all other is most necessarie.

Of the Generall word.

The generall word, is fpoken of many , that differ eitheir in The generall kinde, op els differ in nomber, when the quellion is alked, what worde, it is, we may reason negatively, from this place, thus.

Ce- 120 bereue may be called malfulnelle.

la- Liberalitie is a bertue.

rent. Therefore, liberalitie may not be called wattfulneffe.

The generall rule.

If the generall worde bee taken away, the kinde tarieth not. If the generall morbe doe remaine, it thall not firaight followe that the kinde that enfue. For it is no good argument, if I fee a L.ii.

tree a good way from me, to lay thus : it is a tree, therefore, it is an apple tree. But I may lay thus well negatively, it is no trees therefore, it is neither apple tree, not pet any other tree.

The maner of reasoning.

If every creature by nature love it felfe, then man both love himselfe. If every vertue be paile worthy, then in the administration of Justice, to give every man his owne it is prayle worthy.

The vie.

The generall worde declareth the lagenes of any thing, so that, where the general taketh no place, the other that be inferiour can not bee. As if there be no living creature in some one house, then there must needed be no maner of man, in the same house.

Of the kind.

be kinde being reckened among the places, is taken to be any one thing, that is lefte generall then an other, and by this thift, even proper Rownes of names of things, that lerve for the kind, and go in theede thereof. Therfore, as we reason from the kinde to the generall, so may wee reason from Rownes proper, to their kinds. From the kind to the generall, an argument is made onely affirmative, as thus: If Justice be to be desired, then beceive is to be desired, which a man is a flaunderer: Ergobe is a manghine man.

The generall rule

To whom the kinde both agree, to the same also, the generall both agree.

The maner of reasoning.

If sobjectie be praise worthie, then vertue is praise worthie. If vonkennesse be deuclish, then surfering is deuclish.

The vie. Handile

The necessarinesse of this place.

De kind is generall to every proper name, and therefore, in describing the nature of every Howne proper we have much neede of this place, to know under what kind every severall thing is comprehensed. A gain, what locuer is befined, the fame is pkind of fome one thing, fo that hereby we learne, how farre this morde aretcheth, being ordeined to fet forth the nature of every proper name.

Of the difference and propertie.

Rom the propertie, and difference, arguments are derived. both affirmative and negative. De can reason a matter artificially, therefore he is a good Logicien. Elope could not peter his minde at large, but did fammer, and fay much in his freach , therefore be was an Drator. By the propertie pet may reason thus: Such a man feareth God, putteth his whole truft in God, and loueth bis neighbour as himlelfe. Ergo, be is a right Chriffian. And like wife pe may reason by conversion. Such a one is a Chillian, Ergo, he feareth Bod.

The generall rule.

Den the propertie, or difference is graunted, then the Declarers of kinde fraight followeth, take away the fame, and king. there remaineth no kinde at all.

The maner of reasoning.

Mholoeuer is endued with reason the same is a man. The vie.

De difference and the propertie, declare natures working The whole in all things living, and therefore they helpe well to thew and the parts what every thing is, by his proper gift. The fpeake before The whole of a Dethode, of Direct ofder to be bled in all our boing:and bere- two waies tain me may well fee the vie thereof. For, betherto wee handeled thefe places, which do nothing els but compehend the nature of of a verfect befinition. Jow, whereas the place foloweth of the mbole, and his partes, it is nothing els, but the right maner of a perfect divition. The places that folome after, declare the caufes the effects, what be incident, what be difagreeing from the matter, hewing example, and testimonies of the auncient.

Of the whole, and the partes.

De whole is that fame, which consideth of his partes, and is binided two maner of waves. First. there is the whole in substance . which standeth of fuch partes, that if one be taken away, the whole becateth Braight, neither can it afterward keepe L.iff.

and propertie

his name as it vio before. For an example. I man is benibed into a body, & foule. Take away the body, who competty the foule to be the man, which before had his bodic towned thereunto : The fay the foule liveth, when the body is bead, but no man fayth the foute is the verie man, even as we called him before, when hee was compact of both.

Againe, there is the whole absolute with his partes, which feruether make the whole perfect, aboing fuch things, that although they bec away, pet the whole notwithstanding remaiweth, and bath bis name ftill, as when a man is made of boby. and foule (which are the partes of his fubitaunce, and can not be amaie) pet hath be other partes, which although they bee amaie. the whole notwithftanding keepeth his name ftill. As if a man tole his band, his arme, or one of his feete, pet he is called a man, and thefe ber called partes integrales, that is to fap, the partes. which finith the whole, and make it perfect, after that it bath thole partes, which make the fubftance.

The generall rule.

If the whole bee, the partes of the fubitance mult needes be. As if a man be a live, the boop and foule, both are alive.

The maner of reasoning.

If Philosophie be good, then it is good, to knowe the nature of things, the wate of ordering mans life, and the fkill how to reason probablie, for Philosophie it felfe, is beutoco into theis biee partes. The vie במוומנו זו, ו במנו, שומור במוומנו The vie.

Creby wer learne to examine the whole, by the parter. that if we can not obtaine our purpofe, to have the whole graunced, to examine it by the partes, and force our and ucrfarie to affent to fome member.

Partes integrales. Parts like.

The integrale partes, which make perfect the whole, and canfe the bignette thereof, are biuibed into parts like, or not like.

Bartes like, are thofe, which are alwaies like, and beuibeb euermoze inco like. As the fich, bones, finnomes, fire, mater, golde, Iron, wine, wood, flone, Euery part of all thefe, is called almuch as the whole, as a piece of field, is called field, a piece of wood, is called mood, a prop of water, is called mater affect as a gallon of water, is called water. Then be called in Latine Similares partes, because thep are named like unto the lubole, for a piece of fleth is alwel called feth, and as much hath it the name pares not of field, as a whole Drebath. The partes, which have not like names to the whole, are partly pancipall, and partly not paincipall. The mincipall partes are they, which in no wife may be as map, without the loffe of the whole it felfe : as the parts of mans body, which cotaine life, can not be away, without loffc of p man, As the head, the beaty, the heart, and the entrailes. Det not with Canding, the partes of thefe can not be called like to the whole. for no man faith that a piece of the heart, is the heart, or a piece of the bed, is the bed, and fo in the other. Those which are not mincivall partes may be away: and the whole not with fanding remapne fill, as the hands, the feete, the legges, and the armes.

Doom

The generall rule. The parties sing a hie ben the chiefe partes are taken away, the whole needes decaieth; the chiefe parces beeing brought altogeter, the whole mult necres followe. The maner of reasoning both negatively, and also affirmatively.

Acha man bath learned Daall Bhilolophie, 122 turall, and Logike, therfore be is a Philosopher. Some mieltes can neither wite well, fpeake well not pet recite authors, accordingly. Therfore, they are no Grammarians. This ma is no Rhetoricien.

because be cannot place his thinges in good order. For, whereas Five things fine things bee required in an Diatour, firft toinuent, after to required in place thinges invented, thirdly, to fet feorth the matter in good an Orator. moordes, fowerthly to remember all thefe, and lafte of all, to biter the fame diffinctly, and with a cleare boyce: If one lacke any of thefe five he can not bee called an Dratour. Therefore. I may faye: Such a one bath an euill memorie: Ergo, he is no Diatour. Di fuch a one hath no biteraunce: Erge, he may not bee called an Deatour. In the negative parte, it is enough to take one parte awaie, for the vifallowing of any thing. But if I will aftirme any thing by the partes, I must take all the partes, and not one, or two partes. For, he is not an Diator, that can invent only, or place things ingood order only, except he can bot the whole, as it is required. Againe, he is no good Diatour, that can teache onely, or delite, but he is absolute, that can both teach, delite, and also persuade.

A generall particion of an Orator.

The maner of reasoning.

The reason from the parte, to the whole, affirmatively, and negatively, thus: Such a one can neither judge the knitting of words together, nor frame them in oper, according to the arte, nor another any subtesties: Ergo, her is no Logicien.

The vie.

The partes fet forth the whole, and are a greate beautifying of the same: being severally handled, and in their natures set forth at large.

My ord no Of wordes yoked together.

Wordes yo-

Dked wordes, which being beriued of one, are chaunged in speaking. As of Supient Japientes, Japientes. A wisteman, wistedome, wistely. Here we see that of a wisteman, is derived wistedome. I may reason from this place, both affirmatively, and negatively. If one be not wiste, he hath no wistome, if one be wise, he hath no wistome, if one be wise, he hath no wistome, if one be wise, then death is not miserable. Duch a vne is a Philosephier, therefore her hath studied Philosephy. Arguments derived from hence, have great soice, if the onely yoked wordes be to pued together, without addition of an other, or els they are not strong. As thus, Preachers be cuill livers: Ergo, Preaching is evill. This argument is not good, because of the addition. For, preachers and preaching, are onely the poked wordes, and therefore, thus I should say. There are Preachers: Ergo, there is preaching.

The generall rule.

When one of the poked wordes is added, or put away the of ther alfo is added, or put away.

The

The maner of reasoning both affirmatiuely and negatively.

Och a one is a Priettly Minifter. Ergobe is a Priett. Such a man hach ferued the King nobly. Ergo, be is a noble man. The meacher handled his matter learnedly, Ergo, the meather hath learning. Dow call pe him wittie, that hath no wit at all'As there no honettie in luch a man' I maruell then, who they call bim boneft's

The vie.

TE may learne by this place, to knowe, what things are, being confidered in other. Foz, if I would knowe whether it bee good on no to bee a man of bonour, and to baue rule in the Common-weale: I may learne by them that boc rule, what it is to bee a ruler, of a man of bonour, and bow daungerous a calling thep baue that are placed in high effate . If I would knowe what bufebame is , beff it were for me to marke their boinges, that are bule men.

Of wordes adjoyned to the substaunce; and yet not of the Substaunce 37

Dibes abtomed, are called thole accidents, whereby the Wordes ade finguler morbe, or proper name, bath an other name then ioyned. of the very lubitaunce, as unto Cato (which of his lubitaunce is a man) wifebome both happen, whereby be is called wife. Unto Cicero alfo (which by his fubftaunce is a man) there havvenorth eloquence, whereby be is called eloquent. Sothat be hath an o. ther name, then his fubitaunce giveth, which is to be etoquent. and this is the boyd adiopned. Al quantities, qualities, and thefe that are comprehended, in the predicament of relation, are referred to this place, when they are confidered to bee comprebended Verrue diis a fublaunce. Tertue referred to the minde, which conteineth weifly coffide. it, is a minibe abiopped: compared with bice, it is a contrarieire red, dineilly ferren fo Juffice, it is a generall worde . Clowdes abiopned are placed. perceived either by the lences (as thole, which are lubicet to the joyned perfences on els by underftanding. As fwiftnelle may bee confide, comed eith, red to bee in a man, although me fee him lye a long. And fo wee by fence or Tap, furh a Lacquie runneth well, althaugh wee boe not then pre- ilanding. 99.t. fently aida

if

1 is

th

at

B.

rs

ot

TE

TE

0:

fently fee him runne, but wer remember that he hath runne, faying now, as we have feene before in ocede. Againe, four womes avioused, are by nature in the thing, which conceine them, as heate is naturally in fire. And because we see that the fame heat, although it never goe away, yet at all times, it is not of like thrength: but at sometime less hot, then at an other: wer lunge the fame heate to be an accident. Some worder as sopher, are not naturally cleaning, but by some other way, are some to the thing conteyning them, as heate in water set upon the fire.

The generall rule.

If one of the wordes adtopned, be in the subject, or thing contending, the other also is like to bee there, which followeth you on the first. As thus. Cato is a man worther praise, because he is ware, sober, full of experience. Hinds followeth vertue, as the shadowe both the bodie. Therefore, whosveuer both movestie, and great knowledge of things, the kine than of necessite winneth praise, and same, that cannot ove. Again, if the wordes arisoned be, the subject that contending them, with needes be also, as thus. If God be of all goodnesse, then there is a God.

Opist came into this world, bring gentle and milve. Ergo Chait came not to bestrop the lost speepe, but to saue the. Scholers be godly, berthous, and occupied in learning.

Ergo, it is a gracious beeve, to helpe such of them as have neeve.

VV & may by this place, either praile, or vilpraile, letting forth the nature of men, and funging them by their morkes.

The maner of doing or fuffring, called Allin.

1) Emaner of boing of luffring is, when we are supposed to be occupied on affected any maner of way, either in poing, of in suffring. There be as many maner of boings, as there bee adiacents of words abiopned. And of these aviacents, feare, so, to words, heate, colve, are derived these; to feare, to be so, to travaile, heate, colve, are derived these; to feare, to be so, to travaile, to rest to bee hot, to be colve. And generally of those words, that are referred unto the two webscamenes, cal-

Leo the maner of voing, and the fuffeing, are compafted within

this

The maner of doing or fuffering.

this place, if the same worder bee considered as accidents, which is cause to the substaunce, and may both be present, and also bee a way without solle of p substance. For it things done be weighed, according to their proper maner of doing, they are referred to the two places about, called the difference and the propertie. For where as we say. Such a one speaketh: Ergode is a man (for nothing els can speake naturally, but man onely) although in this case (to speake) be a maner of doing, pet it is not referred to this, but rather to the propertie, because it belongeth to man alone, and alwaies to man.

The generall rule.

If the maner of boing, or luffring be, the thing contepning is allo, and the wordes adiopned allo (whereof boing and luftering, baue their offpring) followe upon the fame.

The maner of reasoning from the place.

If one breath, the same man hath life in him. If Iulius Cafar came into England, then there was such a man called Iulius Cafar. If Richard the third played the Tyzaunt here in England, then there was such a man in England.

The vie.

This place much belpeth, either for praise or dilmaile. Some Officers bribe the poore, robbe their maller, and malle their owne; Ergo, luch are worthie death.

Of the thing conteyning.

The subied, or the thing conteyning, is a substaunce, being The thing the storehouse of accidents, and the very proppe to hold up conteyning. Deedes done for neither wisedome, strenth, bealth, not policie, can be at al, except they be excepted within some one body.

The generall rule.

Take away the thing conteyning, and there remains neither adiacent, not yet beede done.

The maner of reasoning.

There is fire: Ergo, it is hot. Chaift was a very ma: Ergo Chait byed, and luffered the panges, at his departing.

An other.

Why doct thousay, that I owe thee a Crowne, who I know 99.ii. was was never pet worth a groat? Melanchthon liveth and readeth. Cherefore there is a great learning to be had, where he is.

The vie.

By naming of a worthic person, his piacle is sufficiently set forth, even when his name is once ottered. For what learned man, hearing the name of Cicero, both not remember thereby, the full practile and the absolute skill of all eloquence: These places therefore helps alwell, for the amplifying of matters, either in praise, of in dispraise, as they do for the stedfast yraning of any cause.

Of outward places being not in the substance, but only touching the substance and without the nature of it.

The causes of thinges.

DE first are called, the causes of things, and the things comming of causes, which onely are to yned to the thing necessarie, whereas the other places following, are not coupled necessarily, but are onely to yned together, by certains aliaunce to the ynesent matter.

The deuision of causes.

Sme caules, are called the very caules of thinges, even by their owne nature: Other caules are happening caules, the which may perhaps bring forth the effect: lattly there be caules without the which, thinges cannot bee done, and yet are they not any caule to force the effect.

The very cause of shings.

The very cause of thinges, is such a one, as if it bee practiled in very deeve, and let forth with other natural causes, the effect must needes followe. And againe, if it be not put in practile, although the other be put, yet the effect that not followe. As for erample, although one have cloth, pet can be not have the vie of it, except the Taylor cut it out. And although the Willer grinde, yet wee are like to dine without bread, except the Baker doe his part also in the batch.

The happening cause, is such a one as although it bee put in practise in very deede, yet it shall not straight way so be, that the effect must needes followe. As an Ague may bee the happening cause, that some one man keepeth good diet, and yet not any forcing cause: so, then also keepeth good diet, and yet not any forcing cause: so, then also keepeth good diet, and yet not any forcing cause: so, then also keepeth good diet, and yet not any forcing cause.

The happening cause. The cause without the which things cannot be done.

The caule without the which thinges cannot bee bone, as thus The Surgion cannot heale a wound, except the Dead fleft be cut out. The wayfairer hall not (or very hardly) come to his journeies ende, except be haue some money in his purfe . Intime of warre, it is enill tranailing, without a pollepopt: a this is called in Latine, canfa fine qua non, that is to fay, the caufe without the which we cannot and pet it is not the cause of our journeying.

The definition of the very cause. A caufe in bery beede, is a meane, by whole force, some thing both follome.

There be fower fuch causes.

C The efficient caule.

The ende.

The matter.

(The Chave.

Dibe efficient caute, is the working caule, by whole mea, The efficient nes, thinges are brought to palle.

Of thole that are working caules, fome by nature king caufes. bring thinges to palle forme by aduitement, and by a fore purped two waies fee choyle. Things worke by nature (and that necestarily ) which confidered. lacke knowledge to chofe this, or that, and have no judgement, to difcerne thinges . As the Sunne the fire, hearbes , precious fones. The Sunne, euen by nature, giueth light to the Day, and cannot otherwife Doe: The fire burneth naturally. Dearbs keeve their vertue of necessitie. The Adamant Draweth Iron enen by Adamane nature. And fo the Bloodfane, floppeth blood . Some of thefe causes, work by the force and violence of nature, some by an outward power, being areigned thereunto. They work by the force Canfes warand violence of nature, whole beginning is within themselves: king by the being apped by none other outward thing, As fire burneth even force of naby the naturall force of heate . which is the fubflaunce thereof. They worke by an outward vower, which are freigned to work Caufes wor. by an other meane . As water fet byon the fire wareth hot , and king by an pet is it not hot by her owne nature, but is made bot by the nas outward poture, and might of fire, of whom the water caketh heate. In like maner bullets of lead, foc out of a gun, an arrom out of a bowe, SP.iii.

a ftone out of a fling, al thefe fipe not into the appe, by their owne power of mighe, but by force a violence of him that caffeth them.

The generall rule.

FRom the natural lwojking cause, the effect must neces follow, es thus. If the Sunne thine, the day must nedes be, which is the effect, or workmanship of the Sunne. Such a man hath eaten Hendock: Ergo, he is poisened, or in daunger of death. Fire is in the Chimnie, or in the toppe of the house, therefore it must needes burne. Cake away the cause, or the effect cannot be at alt so, if there be no fire, there can be no flame, nor burning neither.

The fecond working cause is, when thinges are bene by admilement, by chopse, not by any necessitie at all, for thinges may aswell not be done, as be done. As if there be a Shomaker, there may be shorn made, and contrary, if there be no Shomaker, there can be no Shoen at all.

The generall rule.

VV Den the voluntarie caule is put, the workmanship, or the thing bone, may followe. As if there bee a Carpenter, a bouse map bee made. If one reade good authours, and hearken to the reading of learned men, he may come to good learning.

The maner of reasoning.

Such a one hath donke poplon, Ergo, he will bye thortly. Christ hath reconciled mankind to his father, by fuffring death spon the Croffe: Ergo, such as believe in this faving health, shall live for ever.

An other deuision of causes efficient.

Commaunding causes,

Obedient

Some efficient causes are commaunting causes. Es the King is the commaunding cause to his Subject, to doe this or that. The master of workes, is the commaunding cause, to all the labourers. The other efficient causes, are obedient causes, when the servaunt worketh at his masters commaundement.

An other devision of causes efficient.

f such efficient causes as do obey, some doe their worke, as the Wason worketh upon the stone, the Carpenter uppon wood. Other efficient causes that are obscient, are but instruments of doing: As Patchets, Pammers, Pikeares,

with

mithrother . Inbattaile the Captaine is the efficient commanne Derethe Soldiour, the efficient obeier: Bunnes, Darts, Bowes, and Billes, the inftruments of boing . Good heede ought to bee Examples of bad that in al causes we make a difference not confounding one causes. with an other that the nigh caufes, and the farther caufes, be not taken all for one . A caufe farre fetched is this. Such a one fell out mith his neighbor: Ereo, he killed him. Falling out bringeth chybing, chybing bringeth hatred, hatred caufeth fighting, fials ting grueth blower, blower foone dispatch, soone dispatching, is readie beath . Therefore, I might more probablie and nigher to she purpele reason thus. Such a one gaue his neichbour a bed-In mound: Erge, he bath killed him . And thus the argument is mabe from the nigheft caufe.

An other denision.

Dine caufes are mincipall caufes , as the boly Bhoft was Caufes beine hing all-godly motions, and firring our nature, cuermore the inclinas to the belt . Dther caules, are the inclinations in man, that tion in man. are either good or euill. Thirdly, there are helping caufes, which fes. are meanes the rather to further be in all vertue. As learning, practifing of honest behaniour, acquainting our nature euermore with the best . The principall cause, that loseph forbare to loseph. company with an other mans wife: was the holy Shoft that fire The holy red his minde with the leare of God . The fecond caufe, mas his Ghoft is prinowne minde, that remembred the worde of God, and the punish cipall cause. ment due for finne. The third caufe was, that he accustomed him felfe ever to live borightly, and not onely to avoybe finne, but alfo to anopoe the occasion of unne. There be other beuistons, but A leave to rehearfe them, for feare I fould be ouer long.

The ende called Finis.

The ende is, for whole cause anything is bone, and is two The ende. water confidered. For there id an absolute ende, whereunto The ende aball other are referred, being called the perfection and chiefe mo tolute. pertie, in any thing: ag the chiefeft ende in any man is to be ver. The chiefeft fectip endued with reafon ; and to attaine euerlafting felieitie, ende in man, The chiefelt propertie in a borfe, is to be of a very good courage, and to muit no Comacke: the chiefett perfection in fire, is to bee perp bot and bery bric. There is an other ende, called a helping end, which ferueth to an higher end, and is only orbeined for this purpole, that we might atteine thereby, the perfect end of al. As meate, Dinke, apparell, and other neceffarte thinges, are belving ends for man, to atteine the chiefeft end. For without thefe ends. man could not live. To live boneffly in this life, to be boriaht in realing with all perfons, is an beiping end (as the Philosophers take it) a a tellimonie to the mord of our fatth (as the Chriftians take it ) for man to live, world without end. To marie a wife, is a briving end. for man to auopde fornication . The poore man laboureth, and wherefore' To get his liuing. Wherefore getterh he his living : That he may the better be able to ferue God. The Solviour fighteth at his Princes commaundement , chiefly becaufe God commaundeth bim, hert after for loue of the king and his countrie. thirdly and tall of all, that he might live the rather. in quiet at home with his wife & children. Sothat of one and the fame thing, there may be many entes being erberly confidered.

+11001

The generall rule.

The maner of reasoning. A Sward.

aufes beine

die inclinas COD IN MAR

> Those envis good, or enil, the fame thing is good, or enill. A fword is good, because it is good for a man, to befent bimlett. Faith in Chill Jefu is dood, for by faith we are faueb. To undoe my neighbour, with tending for gaine, is mott ungob. Ip:therfore to be an Afurer, is most ungoolp. To belire an other mans wife, is bugodly, because abulterie is bogodly. Battaile id good, because it bungeth peace. For all men thould fight, for this ende, that we imght liuc in quiet, withour neighbours . If thou milt bee effeence for a godly perfon, accompany the felfe with folke of bonelt fame, and thou thatt bee well reported, efrecially ef the boneft . It is good to learne, becaufe learning it felfe.en. creafeth good knowledge, which is the ende of our fludie.

Of the matter or substaunce, called Materia.

The matted of orfibitance. Fuery fornie ficuil.

De sublance catten mareria, to reader to be frame pof the workeman; as him leketh, by the which fubffaunce either thinges naturall, er elethinges artificiall are mave . As rurall or arti- firft a man which is a naturall thing, is made of boby and foute. An Image . uchich ig an artificiall ching, is made by the bantie

monke

booke of man, and is graven out of a ftone, or molten in golde, of in braffe. From this place are made arguments, that both boe affirme, and also deny. As thus, if a man have cloth, be may have a garment made, if it like him. But if a man haue ne cloth at al, not yet any fuch like ftuffe, that ferueth for apparell, how can be haue a goune, or a coate's Ifthe Baker lacke meale, how can be make bread . The matters conlidered two wates. Firtt, it is a Substance that tarieth still, as when a Boule is made of stone, wood, and Plaiffer, or an Image of golo, braffe, or filuer t bere the fubitance tarieth ffill, although the forme be altered. Like. wife when a boufe is taken bowne, the flone and timber remaine Aill, and keepe their fubstaunce, and ferue as thep bid before, either for erection of the fame houle againe, orels other wife as it that please him that ig the owner. Againe, the Substance is that, which chaunceth into an other nature, and cannot be the fame, that it was before : as of meale and water. Bakers make their becab : nowe they can nor refolue the fame bread againe , into meale and water, which was the former lublance. uent belote, or els telli rule The generall rule, sir to estelle une folow, and the effect map appears: die when the subsention map and in stancels caken away, there can be nothing maps at all. As if a man lacke silver, howe can be make an Anage of silver: There is no from, wood, woll after Ergo there is no house. But if I reason thus by the substance, that change th into an other nature, and cam not be chainned that it man before is spear son then amise, as thus. There is no bread; but I should say rather, there was no meale not shower, Ergo, there is no bread; but I should say rather, there was no meale not shower.

Samoland and Control of the control

De Shomaker, hach no Leather, how can be then make a Shoe : The Printer hathno Paperavaill, Ergo, he can matte in the fed and the control of the control of

The shape, or fashion manything, is a cause whereby the thing The shape. Shat is made hath his mane, and eather, when it is midde, or daying 12.i. fashioned fathisned for thee foote, is called a thome. Such a man weareth a liverie coate garoed with Cleluet, and al the peomen feruants haur but plaine coates, Ergo bee is one of the gentlemen. De hath a fluer por gilt, and mought with Golofmithes worke erco he is better then a pot wought with plaine Siluer, beeing of the fame quantitie or bigneffe.

The generall rule.

Then the hape of forme is made : the effect, or thing poen may follow, take away the flave, and the ble alfo is taken awip. A Cuppe is made, ergo a man map winke in it: breake the cup, and how that you drinke of the fame cup. The Element goeth compatte mile , becaufe it is rounde. Reafon is called the thape of man. Therefore I may fay, fuch a one lacketh the gift of realon, ergo be is a faole.

Things coming after the causes called Euenta.

caules.

The effects of Those which come of caules, are two wates confidered, for et ther they are called things, that in oue time following cause that went before, or els things ordeined to fome certaine ende.

> Those things which come after the cause I and are made of the fame are called effects that is to fay things boen. And every argument in rither merined from the effect of the matter, or the forme on of the efficient caufe quer frome flie at a fine ?.

From the effect of the matter or fub france called : 1911 one comide Materia, thus we may reason to nother E hand.

be hath a fmonte mant of Jron, erga be hath Iron, Wert is a boufe. Ergo bere is ftone, and boodrad D. audi as, allims nadi noi off ton slatin From the effect of the forme. If and : deard off al

A boule being tourned, rolleth, ergo it is rounded and and From the effect of the efficient cause

Beis bitthe Day, Ergothe Sunneig winadanto @ 30 Shor's Che Binter LabrathanagadT, Love, beren

Zahen the effect is come footh, it must neeves be , that either his proper caufe is then, or els that it hath beite before.

Themaner of reasoning. Idial co. squall occ

If flauchter be not to be bone in a common weale chen thefe. fallpieneb .i. 9£ quareL quarelpickers, thefe royfters, and fighters, are not to be fuffered to goe unpunifbed.

The thing appointed for some end. Dat which is appointed for fome certaine eng and bie is cal. The thing led deftmatum as a boufe is builded to dwell in. Armout is for fome end. proued for man to befend him felfe. Dedicines are meanes appointed for mato recour health. I the wed before that there was an end, which was an helping ende, and a meane to come to the perfect and mofte absolute ende , for , without this appointed meane and promition of God, man could never line, mich felle could be come to any perfection in this life, as touching the actions, and worthie feates required in man. Thus we may reafon from this place. Seing it is lawfull for man, to befendhimfelfe, it is lawfull for man, to weare a meapon. If warre bee lawfull, then money is necessarie, without which, no man can goe forward, og fet forth an armie.

The generall rule.

Those things that agree to that, which is appointed to the ende agree alfo to the end it felfe.

The maner of reasoning.

If a man may lawfully buy the greate Bible in English, hee may the alforenen without alking leave, reade it at his pleafure.

The vie of all the causes.

The comoditie of thefe caufes is fo great, that in fetting forth the vie of them, a man might foner lacke wordes, then want matter. First, we knowe that nothing is done without a cause, & The knowtherefore, leing this world framed as it is everything proportion ledge of cauned in his due order: we may truely gather, p there is oue aboue fes night al, pruleth al, who the chillians cal God In mailing or difprais needfull. fing, how can a man better proceed, then by repearling the end of every thing. Again, in examining & fearthing out the profite, or difprofise, by the end we knowe what is gainfull: by the efficient caule we know what may be boen. For whatforuer is profitable, thefame is profitable for some end, what soever the would have poen, we man fone perceine by fefficiet, if it map be boen. Dea,in caules of indgemer, we may indge, what wil forme one ma had to 10.ii. 304

no this or that, when we confidents whatend he oid this or that. Laft of all, we knowe hereby, that God hath ordeined nothing in paine, and that every thing is opeined for fome ende. The ende of Chailes veath, was to merite mans revemption. The ende of mans life is, to truft wholy in Chailes Pallion, and to live there by for euer.

Of things outwardly applied, called Applicita.

(bey are called things outwardly applied to a matter, which are not the cause of the fame matter, and pet give a certaine benomination toit. There be three of chis fort.

The times were ni dorintere serte doi ligant on The place.

Things annered, or knit together.

And thefe three are nothing els, then the three predicaments. of most generall places places, which Trebearled before.

> Mihere. Quando. Southen. Habitus. The araping.

> > The maner of doing.

The place.

The time.

of baudrie.

Fone lifeo reason from the place, called in Latine Locus, be map thus lav : fuch a one is in the countrep, Ergo be is not in the Citie. If I will proue that a man being accufed of murper buintly, oto not offende : I map reason both from the time and the place. The man was killed in the fields, about three of the clocke in the after none, all which time, this other man came not abroad, 120, he toked not out of his houle all that bay, Ergo. this man bionot kill him, Clodius, was accufed at Rome, that he had made'a Spople of the reliques in the temple of Bona Dea, A patronelle whereas he at the fame time, when this deede was thought to be poen, mag at Imeranna, a village in the countrep befice Rome. Quintilian faiththus. Thou ball killedan abulterer, which the lame both permit : but because thou half killed the fame man in a brothers houle, thou art worthy to die thy felfe, yea, the nature

The natures, the place and of the place and time, maketh much for increase of faultes comtime. micted. As when one is not atraced even in the Charch, and that at feruice time, to thrust his enemie though, likewife to kill a man prively by the high way, is thought worthy greater punishment, then if he thould kill him manly in the open freete, and. that in the fight of other. Alfo to murver one in the Darke night. is coumpted more benous, then to kill him in the bright bay. Dotwithftanding thefe two places are rather pled of the Rhetoriciens, then among the Logiciens : for, when a man is taken of fulvicion, we go about to proue him faultie by divers coiectures. As if he were about the fame place at the felfe fame time, when a man was flaine, and also had his sworde about him: we coniecture that he might have killed bim. Againe, if we perceive one to be a riotous felowe, readie to fight with every boop, accomvaning with naughtie packes, and evermore at one ende of all fraies, waring pale when be is apprehended, thaking for feare. or running away, when be thould be take: we sufpect such a one. that be is not altogether clere. Therefore, Dratours Doe ble, to Conicdures. markethings that goe before the fact, as whether he hated the man or no. or what gaine he might have by his beath, and alfo observe things towned with the fault, and chaunging of heme. when he is apprehended, or his fword to be bloody, or any part of his apparell, and thirdly, they note what folometh. That is, if he ran amap, if he could not tell his tale plainly, and fo they conclube, as they are led by fulpection. Some arguments are ne. Arguments ceffary, fome probable, as thus, from the confequent, Such a neceffarie. moman is brought in bed with a child, ergo, the bath had the comnany of a man. Such a man had a bloody fworde in his hande. Brainhe after the Death of his neighbour, euen in the fame fields, Arguments where his neighbour was flaine, ergo it is like this man hath probable. flaine him, All which arguments are beriued from the place calles Contingentia, as I will hewe it hereafter.

> Of wordes annexed, or knit to the substance, called Comexa.

Stouching words knit, ye may understand, that they are Words aunoiophine outwardly to the subject, and give a name unto xed.
him, according as they are. As riches are iopned to a rich man. For, where as Crassus, is called a man by his owne subRiii. stance knit word.

flaunce, pet noewithflanbing by his richeffe , he is called a rich man. So be that hath a wife, is called a houfband. De that bath Division of a a mafter, is called a feruant. De that hath a father , is called a fonne. Totobs knit, are beuided biuerfly, for fome are calles fuch as are nigh, and touching the fubftaunce, as to be full of fift, is agreeing to the water, to be full of graffe, is annexed or agree. ing to the earth, to be cloudie is annexed or agreeing to the arre. Againe words knit, are called those things that a man weareth. as to weare a coate, a Jacke, a harneis, to have thoen, to be merrie, to be buffie, and all fuch as are calualt toman. Some are called anticred, or agreeing, which are knit to man, and per not things worne boon his backe, but farther of , and rather verceis ned by binderffanding, then knowen by epe light. As nobilitie, pomer, fame authoritie. To be an Officer, a Maioz, a Sheriefe. Lorde Chauncelour, Comptroller, or any other officer in the common weale, all thefe are anneted to their inferiour . oner whome they have authoritie. In this point differ wordes knit, called annexed, from wordes adiopned, called adiacemia, that all abfacents, or words adjounce, can not bee without the fubicct, as heate : coloe , whiteneffe , or any other like can not be. except they bee comprehended within fome fubiect. for . it is proper to every accident, to be in fome one thing, contevning him. If there be nothing contepning, then the accident can not be. Potwithstanding words knit are so placed, one is mithout the other, and may be, either of them feuerally, if the one happen to periferas a houf band is without the fubitance of his bufe, and although his wife bye, yet the houseband may be on line fill fawing that he lofeth his name to be called houseband, but if a wife man bye, wifedome must becaie also, because it must neches hee in fome one fubiect, or els it can not be.

Of accidents.

Those are here called accidents, which both them felueg, and the thing alfo, may be together, the one with an other, and allo may be away, the one from the other.

There

There be b. of this fort.

main

Things chauncing. The name of a thing. Sentences of the face.

The likeneffe.

Things compared together. Things chauncing, called Contingentia.

Pose accidents are called things chasicing, which Things chailchasice about a thing, so that whether this things cing.
chaunce, or no, the thing it selse may be, or though the thing be not, these may so chaunce to be. As so example, palenesse may chaunce before sicknesse, and the fame also may chaunce, though a man be not ficke, and a man may be also licke, and yet nothing pale at all. Likewife love and feare. A man may love, although be feare not, a man may agains feare, although be love not.

The diversitie of three divers places.

Tordes adiopned, wordes knicto an other, and wordes chauncing to a thing differ thus, that in words adiopned, called Adiacentia, the cause why things are so framed is cuer in the subject, neither can the wordes adiopned continue, except The natures they be comprehended within some one substance. Words adare of fuel fort, that by meaning one, the other is fraight know, ioyned, en. As when I name a Schoolemafter, I fignifie Scholers alfo, although I boe not expellely name them. But in things chauncing, called Contingentia, wee muff at the leaft compare Words chairtwo corether, that wee map better knowe them to bee of this cing. place. Therefore, if I name this worde (craftie) by it felfe, without any further confideration, then it is an Adiacent, of a work adiopned. If I name this word (freuant) crafte is referred to the mlace called words annexed or knit, confidering craft is mencio. ned in respect of the fernant. If I fap thus (a craftie fernaunt) then thele two are confidered to be in this place called Contigenris, which is a place of words chauncing coathing, fothat whether they chaunce or no, the thing it felfe may be not withfanping. As a ferugune maphe, and pet not craftie. Againe, one map be craftie and pet not a fernanten innin and mamid a

The

The division of things chauncing.

Ome goe before the thing, some are toyned with the thing some followe after the thing.

Things chauncing before. Asthus. The fkie was red this morning : Ergo we are like to have raine, ere night.

Things topned with the matter, at the very instant. As thus. Angre is, in old men. Oft fetching of wind, declares a sicknesse of the Lungs. If the bequether of maker of any will be on line, the will taketh no place, and may be voyde. Such a one goeth gaie in his apparell, spendeth with the best, and yet hath nothing to maintaine his charges. Ergo, it is like, that he commeth by his goods naughtely.

Things happening after. Such a one is well learned. Ergo, be hath gone well to his booke heretofore.

Name of a thing. The interpretation of a word.

The name of a thing or the interpretation of a word.

The interpretation of name of a thing, is a word made by the agreement of men, to lignifie this, or that. As Philosophus is that man, what sever he be, that hath a better and a love, to the knowledge of wisdome. Therefore if ye will expound, what a Philosopher is you may reason thus; from the interpretation of the word. Whelesuer he be that hath an earnest love ophilosophic, a sceketh knowledge thereof, that man is a Philosopher.

Scato hath an earnest loue to Philosophie, and leeketh knowledge thereof.

In the interpretation of a words. As I centember a with the inan, and a worthy man also bid, who enucleding at a time against Cardinal Poole, and beeing vehement in the tause of his country, sayer thus in the intotal of his heare, Depoole, Deported of this makes me to remember an other. I have one whose name was called Pope, and being occasioned to follow the Law, concerning a matter of lande, at the first supportion of the Popes whole power, at that time in beed, straight commandement was given, not to call him by that name this man man being of the same name, and partly of kindjed, also conterming opinion (as the deuill would have it) durif not once so his life, theme his head, so feare his name thousd betrate his whole nature, and in deede having a more fearfull heart, then neede was, thought that it might infly bee coumpted offence great emough in him, that it was his euill hap, to have such an objous and euill name, the which all men as then did, every where almost, with outward looke utterly detest. And in deede (the Brouerbelayth) he is halfe hanged, that hath an euill name. The which sentence, this man I thinke, not well understanding, remembred it over well: and was rather content to lose all, then that this his peuish name should lose him, and cast his bodie quite away so ever.

Againe, the interpretation of a thing, is then thought to bee, norowed when a metaphore or translation is vied, and the meaning therof speach or taken. As when this morde Ignis (fire) betokeneth love. There, metaphore, as of the owne nature it fignifies here, as we read in Ouid, thus.

Quis enim celaverit ignem:

Lumine qui semper proditur ipse suo.

Who can keepe close the fire, or hide the burning heate, That doth betray it self alway with light of flame so great, Alberein is nothing els lignified but love, which is so hot of it selfe, that it must needen breake out into flames, and he we it felfe, at one time, or other.

The generall rule.

T D whom the interpretation of a Nowne both agree, to the lame allothe Nowne it felf agreeth.

The maner of reasoning.

S tich a chilve is called Dawlon, and he may well be lo called, for his father is but a Dawe.

Of the places called auchhoritie, otherwife named, fentences of the Sage.

A Linch tellimonies may bee called, lentences of the lage, Anatorisis which are brought to confirme any thing, either taken or fentences out of olde Aucthors, or els fuch as have beene used in this of the Sage, common life. As the lentences of Mobile men, the Lames in any

D.t. Realme,

Testimonies two wates vsed.

Aristotles mynd, as touching the world.

> Sentences graffed in man by na, ture,

Realme, quicke fayinges, Pouerbes, that either haue been blet heretofore, or bee now vied . Diftortes of wife Philosophers, the inogements of learned men, the common opinion of the muitttude, olbe cultome, auncient falbions, or any fuch like. Teffimo nies are two wates confidered. For either they are fuch as pertaine to God, or els to man. Those authorities, which come from Bod , and are fpeken by the boly Choft, are budoubtedly true, neither can they be falle: therefore, we ought most reverently to receive the worde of God, and agree to luch textes, as are witten and fpoken, euen as though we heard God himfelfe fveake, mith lively boyce bato bs . Wans aucthoritie hath no furly great force, although Jable men, learned Philosophers, and foute Captaines, have pronounced many things most wifely, for, atthough Aristotle sayth, that the world neither had beginning. not pet at any time thall have ending : I may reject this faying (if any man bring me it for his confirmation) although this great Bhilosopher did pronounce the fame. For, except I bee perfmaped by reason, it is in my chopse either to admit, or refuse such auchorities. Rotwith Randing, we fould not forfake wife mens mordes rafily, but with a modelt answere, befire the aductarie, not fo much to Ricke to his aucthoritie, as to proue the fame by good reason. In prophane thinges, ye may reason affirmatively perp well, as thus, The best thinges are first to be learned, for fo both Quintilian teach, Nufquam tuta fides. It is hard truffing any body. For fo fayth Virgill. But I cannot reason negatives Ip , when I bring mone aucthoritie out of prophane Aucthours. For I reason amille if I say. There is no such veleafe; caffed the French Bockes, becaufe Gallen the chiefe of Philitions, neucr maketh mention in all his Bookes, of any fuch befeafe, for, this euill bath crept in lince his tyme, through the naughtineffe of men. And although it were the, pet map it be that he neuer heard of it. Dereunto might be abbed all fuch fentences, as by the law of Mature are graffed in man. As thefe following. Doe as thou wouldeft be done unto. Bethankful to him that both thee a pleas fure. Donour thy father and thy mother. Knowe there is a God. De that hath not thefe opinions, naturally faftened in his heart, be may fuftly bee thought rather a beaff , then man enduch with reafon . In matters of Scripture, I may reafon bothaffirmasinely, and negatively. Chrift fayth to his Difciples, Reges Gentium dominantur, vos autem non fic. Kings beare rule ouer countries, but you mult not doe fo . Therefore, no Ministers thould haue any Temporal power, because Chill fayth fo. De may rea-Ion negatively thus, wee reade not in all the Scripture, from Genelis, to the Revelation of Sainet Iohn, that euer there was No Friers, ne Frier, Bonke, Qunne, of Chanon : Erge, let them goe from fuch mentiowhence they came. We read not in the Scripture, that worthip ned in Scripping of Images, was quer allowed to bee Laye mens Bookes: ture. therfore, take boune fuch Tools, and let them ferue for other bles.

The generall rule for prophane aucthorities. That which is allowed of all wife men, of at the leaft by the better partino man ought rally to gaine lay it, or thus . Euery cunning man muft be beleeued in his owne art.

The maner of reasoning.

Ristotle thought best, that bronkards should have dubble punithment: Cherefore, they beferue it . By texes of the Scripture, we map reafon the matter as thus. Curfed be be that both the worke of the Lord quilefully, layth the Prophet. Ergo, euill Bifhops, loptering Paltours, are accurled of God.

Of the similitude or likenesse.

Similitude is, when two thinges of more, are fo compas A fimilitude. red together, that even as in the firft, there is one propertie: So in the other there is a like propertie, according to both their natures feuerally observed. For like as water by continuaunce, weareth a Stone, fo there is nothing fo hard, but by time it may be compassed or brought to passe, As Spivers make their some Cabmeha without any other belye: fo fome good fellowes can bring up newes, and tell fraunge tales, without any hearing, when there is not one worde true. As the Walme tree beeing ouerlaged with weights , rifeth bigber, and bubberh bumarde more freshly: So anoble ftomacke bered with much abnerlitie is enermore the fouter. And this ought viligently to be D.ii. oblerued.

oblerued, that the thing, which is brought to make the fimilitude, be like unto that, which is proned.

The maner of finding out a similitude.

The miner of finding out a fimilitu.le.

12 euery caule, that we bo purpole to handle at large, me muft observe biligently, what thinges are spoken by transfations. that is from the mover liquification to a meaning that is not mover. As freaking in the maile of a thing and calling him the bright Sunne of the earth . I map wather a fimilieude by this morbe (Sunne) and make it thus. Euen as the Sunne only ais neth light to all the whole earth: fo there ought to be in a Common weale, one King that thould be ruler over all. The generalt rule.

f limilituses there is like inogement, fat is, euen as wee thinke of the one, fo may we thinke of the other.

The maner of reasoning.

A & a Dog Canding at the table live, eateth that by by and by which his mafter hath caft to him, and euer looketh for more and more : to fome when they have received a living for which they bones before, up and by they are readic, to take an other, and although they be full, pet ftill they are hungrie.

Of things compared.

Things compared,

Dings are compared together in one third worde, where unto they both ase acree, as thus . Af theft bee weathie beath, then murther is morthie no lelle . Dere pe fee, that theft and murcher are compared together, in one third warte, which is death . Comparations are beuived two maner of wa-Comparatios pes, for either they bee equall, or not equall. They are equal in this wife: if the father have aucthoricie over his fonne, be bath al-To aucthoritie ouer big banghter.

Comparatios mided.

The generall fule.

There thinges are equall, there mult neeves bee equall judgement. Comparations are unequal, when I reason either from the greater to the leffe, or els from the leffe, to the greater. From the greater to the lefte, pe may reafon thus . If a Cautaine with his whole copanie, be not able to fack a towne. much leffe one bafe Bolviour can be able to bott. The Schole-

mafter

mafter cannot underftand the Greeke , og the Debrewe tongue, neuch lette can the scholler, which never learned either of them.

From the leffe to the greater, pe may reason affirmatiucip, agthus . Chilozen can fuffer much colde, and cannot your men beare a froft ': Cultome beareth fwing, and fhall reason take no place's Comen have oped for their Countrie, therefore, may not men be albamed to feare death's Poble men are defirous to have a good Horfekeeper, that can keepe their borfes well a they frare not, to give great flivends to fuch: and thall they not much more bee ochrous, to haue a good Schoolemafter, that might godly Horfes faults bring by their children, in vertue and wifedome? If a boile be not are foone mell broken, the owner will fee that he may be made gentle, and feene, but thall not a man feeing his naturall chito evill brought by take childrens ma. paines, and fee him brought to fonte good ofder : Mice can fee a ners are ne-Symian, a Sprent, a Ring-bone, or fuch other difeafe in a borfe, and thall we not be as readie to looke, that there bee no faultes in our children, or in the teacher, to whom we give the charge, to bing them by in learning, and good maners's

The generall rule. F that which feemeth to be greater, be not added neither that that be added, which is the leffe. Againe if that which is lefte beaoded, that which is greater halbe abbed alfo.

The maner of reasoning. T be scholler understandeth Latine: Ergo, bis Schoolemaster allohath knowledge in the fame tongue . Degatively thus. A vowe. If God will not allow a vome, made by the daughter, without the knowledge of the father, although the vowe bee but for one bay : how much leffe, fall that 99 arrage take place, when yong folke make prinie contracts, without the good will, either obtep. ned to net once fourth for of their varents!

An observation for things compared. This one thing would be learned: when things are compared tagether: to knowe whether they bee in that point, either equali, of bnequall. As for example, Such a Loro is not learned, no, not wife neithericherfore, none of his men are either tearned of wife . In this point there fould bee made no comparing, be-

D.iii. twire

A rule for thinges compared.

twirt the Lopo and his fernaunt. Foz, al wittie men be not ther foze Lozoes, no, noz pet all Lozdes, be therefoze wittie men. Roz no, euen the greatest lacke sometimes, alwel as other pooze men doc. Some by inheritaunce are honozable, some by faithfull service towardes the King, and their Countrie, are highly promoted: Some againe, by bolde enhabling themselves, and some by thusting on, choppe in at a windowe, when the doore is thus by. Therefoze, thus I might reason better. Such a Lozde hath smallandes, and little substaunce, therefoze, his men being moze in number, then his landes can well maintaine, and hanging onely on his seene, living without any other trade, but only their bare wages, are better able to borrowe, then to lend, and must needes be very needie, and yet perhaps may be mozelearned, yea, and witter also then is their Lozd and master.

An other argument.

Done subiects get boyes, and shall not mightie Kings, bee able to get children. Perein is no comparing at all, such as is required. For, a King is not therfore so called, because he can get children, but because he is a man of power, and orderned of God to rule, for the punishment of vice, and maintenaunce of vertue. Therefore, thus I may reason right well. The King ruleth: Ergo, the subjects must obere.

The vie.

This place believe much to exhopt, especially when we reafon from the lette, to the greater, or contrary. Heither can any one that teacheth, want the vie hereof, if they purpose their layings thall take place.

Of repugnauncie, manage

Repugnancie

Repugnature is such a visagreeing kate of thinges; that no one thing can be the same, that the other is, by one nature of substaunce, as thus. Wan, and bettue, the one cannot be the same, that the other is.

The deuision.

Repugnancies, two wayes diuided. T hinges repugnaunt, are decided into discordants, and into wordes diffring one from an other, by any maner of meanes.

Of

Of discordances, called opposita.

Discordants are, when only one word of sentence, is contrary to an other, so that the one cannot be the same, that the other is, not yet both at one tyme, and in one place, and in one respect can be in one, and the same subject, as hot and cold, the sather and the some, sight and blindnesse, light and darknesse, cannot be at one and the same tyme, in one and the same place, of any one substaunce. For though one be blind of one eye, and see with the other, yet we cannot say, that things discordannt, are in one and the same substance. For the subject of substance of sight or blindnesse, is not properly the man, but the very place selfe, where the sight or blindnesses is so that blindnesses and sight, are not both in one place, a therefore, not both in one substance together. For the breast, the bellie, the legges or armes, are not the substance of the eye, but the vlace only, where he eye bath his natural being.

There be fower of this fort.

Scontraries.
Relatines.

Contradiction.

Outraries, are such discordaunts, as cannot bee, at one Contraries. and the same tyme, in one substaunce: notwithstanding, they may both severally bee, in two subsects, or substaunces, and the same time. As whitenesse, blacknesse, wertue, and sice, wisedome, and soolishnesse. Contraries, are two waies Contraries considered: for some be such, that if the one be not, the other must swo waies never followe, and they are called in Latine, Contraria immediata, that is to say, cotraries, where nothing commeth between as thus. A wise man, a foole. Usertue, Cice, Faith, who beliefe. All these are such, that if the one be not in a man, the other must need be see. As thus. Such a one is wise: Ergo, he is no soole. If a man be not wise, it must needed be, that he is soolish. We are say ued by saith: Ergo, we are condemned by wideliefe.

Againe, other contraries be so, that though the one be away, pet the other followeth not therefore of necessitie. For black and white, bee contrary, and pet they bee not so contrary, that if the white colour be not, the other must needes be. Foz, a man may be high coloured, or fallower foloured, and yet not blacke. Therfoze in such contraries, where some thing may be put betweene the extreames, it is no good reason to say, that if the one be not, the other must needes be, and the reason is, that but o every singular and several contraries of such sozt, there be divers other contrary but o them, as the which come between in the absence of other. As if a cloth be not white, it is no reason to call it blacke. Foz, it may bee blewe, greene, tedd, russet, tawnie, pealowe, or any other colour els, as it sall best please the Dyer. Note surther, that all viscordaunts are not contrary, accoping to their generall word, or common accidents, but accopding to their generall word, for, if we reason thus.

mbite

6.04

Sfire is an Element. Ereo, Water is none.

The argument is not good, for fire and water are not contrairy, according to their general word, which agreeth to them both, but according to their proper differences, as in that fire is hot and die, it is contrary to water, which is colde and morft. Thus some that mainteined counterfect challitie, were wont to reason against martage, taking an occasion upon that place of S. Paul, where he sayth: it is not good to couch a woman, where he meanich nothing els, but considering the Gospel then required spieries die Preachers, and that it were a clogge to be marted, and some what an hinderaunce to those that should travaile, bethought it expedient to sorbeare. Not that he condemned mariage, or yet thought women to be deuilles.

Stirginitie is good fay they: Therefore mariage is not good.

Alhere as Airginitie and Pariage, are not contrary according to being to their generall worde, which is (good) but according to their proper difference: As thus,

Sairginitie is a fingle life, without knowledge of carnall act.

Cherefore, Mariage is not fo.

Cherfore, this word (good) in the about rehearled argument, both both fignifie a thing granter of God; and allowed by his will. which both afwell commence Pariane as it both Hirginitie. therefore this argument, is of no more force; then if I thould fay. le lindineffe , is called by doop a) Subre ? ( right of force the come, who go to me some semperature of the back of Aup pet there is no man, huo will for that horb chefe the veresture hath biterip denyed, the crift of feethudish. dong ara asl Sinne id called tealund anadomental and Contraction of the Erge,poore men bauenone, allaucoon it an Whereas God bath ginen book high and tow rich and pone the fpirite that that live quer Butthin & fpeake, to fet forth more at large, the fondnesse of the other argument, concerning spa-Cucences gainlaging, are ewo propolitions, the one beinein that, which the other stimlisigen all. Cuift is tathe Da -Samvelming Cit away one of thelescontractes . where nothing commeth betweene ralles immiddatuchistaria, this ene other mill nextes followe, which is not true in thefe contraries, where Come ching commend ther werns them, exilted sind pur de alterial. Relatives are those which are contigued anient thethrelies. or ela referrento fome orberto Spa father, a fome ! Affratter, a feruaunt. A King,a fubiect #118 . 311111 hann shund safeThe generall rule. Fone of the Relatives be, the other mull necors be : if the one be not the other cannot be neither. The maner of realoning Don art my ferunant, why over thou not know me, to be thy Maffer . Thou are a Subject, and will thou take in hand to rule. Diftiation, in the ablence of that thing, fram a lubitaunes, Privation. which by nature, might haue beene there.

The babite, is the hauning of that thing, in the fubitaunce, mbich nature bath graunted to be there.

The generall rule-Clery prination, is the belleuction of that, which by Mature mentes of Aclus Chillibut the other is truciErgo,this is iffe

T.beiArte de Lodike. T

verbilignitic a thing galadier of observed Tower by his will. which both afwell comparing appliants the dealt voth Clinginitie. therefore this argument, is a bonnes of Sychit I though the

Blindnelle, is called primation, Berante it is the ablence of that thing, macheither by nature was, in might have beene in the lateral alumbal exercision and blants man earles about blind because nature hath otterly benyed, the gift of feeing toatt fonte at 23

Sinne is called mitimionibecunfele is chebeftruction, of that great goodnelle , which Bod pototes intaman . And therefore God sulkly panisher behold due hower to lakel firs grate, acont disease gainfaying other life at large, the fandueffeathiberinearinalisant, concerning Me.

Centences gainlaying, are two propolitions, the one veriting that, which the other atimiteth wether. Chrift is in the Saerament really: Chaift is not in the Sacialnem realfy 1 Accain not be but one of the le two movoficions multing ever be full. naves followe, valut lisasopped thefe contraries where Frome of the Awarrapo lations be recounted nather army the de thermust needes be graunten tobalfelie. Adeither can it be. by anymeaneguallible, that hech of them thoula either be tolle, or falle, at one and the fame tome. Almaies monives, that there bee no doubtfulneffe in the words; for if one worde fignifie diverily. then may both proportions be substitue of folds at one and the tame tyme. As thus.

S The fleth of Chrift mofftert greatip.

The fielb of Chait pratiteth nothing at all. In thele rmo propolitions, there is no contrabiction, or gain-Taying, but that they both may be true, at one and the lame time. confidering they are both ninerflutaken. Chriftea fleth eaten and thewer with ult teeth profiteen nathing. a briffes ffelb come be pon the Croffe, moffectimach, as the milit perchalethio all beleeners, life for eucr.

The matter of realoning. If we be inflifted freely, thoughthe onely merites of Jelus Chille then thes in fatte, p'me ate not tuttiteo, onelle bhoughthe merites of Jelus Chift: but the other is true: Ergo, this is talle. The Sinne.

Sentences gainfaying.

Christes flesh.

nencs . A King, and manholoogiff cone is placed among the F privation, contradiction pobeontraries diationne binele follow, conditional arguments are made, with the addition of fome one comungation, of the which, whiche one is true the other muft ncebes be falle, as thus. Either the foule is immortall. or els it is not immordal, but fürftistener Ergothe lecot is falle ola viruis Of wordes differings mora nolass ?

Den haue me the ufe of this place, when we reafon, and Wordes diffe. proue that one thing is not the fame , that the other is. ring. N as King Lud is noothe fante, that Iulius, Cafar, op Bru- King Lud. tus was: King Lud builded London of whom the Citie had his name, being called Luds towns; and afterward, by afteration of Tetters, callet London. Erze,neither Cafat pain Brums, builbed the fame . Difeopaunts callto uppofice are not the fame. that words diffring are, called differentia. For atmuch as where bilcoppants bee, one thing onely, is fet againt an other one Qs for example . Mothing can bee fer ag ainft brigheneffe as bifcor-Bant, but onely barkneffed nathing dan bee for against hence but onely colbe and forin other . Burinthis place there dientinany thinges beffer, from some one ding and what forever is not the fame, that an other is, may be called a worde wiffring, in Latine

Drea Stone a Dorfejor any other thing els 1101, Chinges differ fower males, eitherby numbing. As ruery Thinges dif-John is an other, Deber biffer in their kind, when they are com- waies. mehended under divers kindes, as Beauis of Hampton, and Arundell his horfe: Dreis Alexander, and Bucephalus For Beauis with Alexander, are commehended buder man, as their kind and speciall, but Arundell and Bucephalus, are comprehended buder this mord horfe, which is kind, or frectall boto then both. Dther differ by the generall word, when they are comprehended buder divers generall wordes: as this wood Baptilme, and Spagillrate, the one comprehending under a Sacrament of God, the other buber acertaine opinaunce of God. Lattly, wordes biffer by their most generalles, when they are placed in divers prededifferens, of differatum. Socrates is a man: Ergo, he is not an caments.

caments . A King, and manhoods, the one is placed among the Relatives the fection is in qualitie, bide alian and hallow foliolo, condicion, slur ligranegad Trabe, beit the abunen nature. man ne tota be falle, na rhus. Cabet the falle anna nature.

and the not integrating themaner of reasoninguistion et il ele

The reason from wordes differing negatively altogether.
From such as differing number, we reason thus.

Such a one is called Thomas, therefore he is not the fame, that John is, Peter is not Paule, not per Paule is Peter. Faith is not workes, not per workes are faith.

Ferfere de fram finn Eguet gound in effice ad jour mon fere for et an elnoch

From fuchas differ bythe generall wome. . amal adi did

I pie bozome plaine cloth of thee, and tobe beef thou require

From fuch as biffer in previenment, gridtoff. . signia ?? to mafteries.

Vie maketh

Gertue is a qualicie of the minu, the flope it is no fullfauller, fetr knowledge accained, efterile is molt necessary, and happie that he bor, that with fail avoich practific, for then leaving is bell confirmed, when knowledge is put in bre, and

Therefore, confinering I have fer fout the places, I thinke it necellarie after knowledge of the lame, to defer the middless by concre one of them, as they lye in orders that other may like but, when any question commerhin controverse, go through the places themselves with it, and examine curry words, by every leverally lace.

And to make this thing more plaine, I will goe through the places, with one certaine worde, and looke whit belpe I hall finde there for knowledge of the same. The worde hall bee (a King) or (a Magistrate.)

The definition.

A king decla. The definition of a Magistrate, Guerp King, or Magistrate, red by the pla is the minister of God, for a good ende, to the pimishing of naughces of Logice. tie persons, and to the comforting of godly men,

The

The generall rule.

The mode to parallely the language

The minister of God,

The kinde.

Cither a Typaunt, of a godly King, the one rulethaccording to his luft, the other according to right and Juffice.

Wordesyoked.

The Officer, the Office, to beare an Office, if the Office can not be fpared, the Officer cannot be fpared.

Adjacents necessarily joyned.

of warre and peace, thefe al must needes be in every Pagistrate.

Adiacents adioyned casually.

Co be liberall, to be frugall, to be of a temperate life, al thefe happen to be in good Magistrates.

Deedes necessary.

To defende Religion, to enact godly Lawes, to punith offenpers, to defend the oppressed: all these are necessarie in a King, and are neuer found in a Typaunt.

The thing conteyning.

Mofes, Dauid, Salomon, Ezechias, Iofias, Charles the Emperour, Edward the firt of that name King of England.

The efficient cause.

Bob himlelfe, or els the sydinaunce of Gob, and main

The fecond efficient cause.

Unquiet fibicets, rebelles, bilobebient people, are the raufe why Magistrates are ordeined, that the rather they may bee ruled, and kept in good order.

The ende of a Magistrate.

This ende he mult needes observe, that alwaies the people live in quietnelle, & in boneft convertation palle their whole life.

The effect, or els the things done by a Magistrate.

Beace is made, the Realme enriched, all thinges plenteous, but where a Typaune ruleth, all thinges are contrary.

The aucthoritie gran or term

The rillito the Ramaines, let enerpfoule bee labicet to the powers, i. Peter.il. Be lubiert to the King.

ERVOS

P.iii.

Things

Things incidental

The Scepter is a token of Julice, even as alwordels e figne of revengement, or whath, paying of Sublidies, Cares, Cributes, Rent, or any such like, Peomen of the Garde, and alother waiters, Soldiours in warre, the devience of the subjects, the honour given with him, triumphes made, running at the Cite, fighting at the Barriers, fighting at the Courney. All these are contingentiate a King, that is, although these thinges bee not in a Common wealth, yet may there be a King, pea, and although there be no king, in some Common weale, yet these things may be every ech one of them, as it was in Athens, where the people had the rule of the Common weale, and al was referred to their indigement.

Similitudes, 168 noon in od or naggar

Gouernance.

That which the Sheepeheard is to the Sheepe, the same is the Pagistrate to his Subjects. That which the master of the Shippe, is to the Shippe, or the master of an houshold, to his house, or the head to the whole body the same is the Pagistrate to his Subjects.

Thinges comparing.

Straunes muft bee obedient, and lubiect to their Palters with all reuerence, as we read in the Scripture: how much more then flould the labiects be obedient to their king and loueraigne Lord, which by the ordinaunce of God, is appointed to tule, and to have note that manner over them.

Obedience.

Gathering of arguments.

ministereth arguments plentifully. For, if ye will prove a Maggistrate necessarie, ye may reason from the definition, from the causes, from the authoritie, from the thing conteyning, from the adiacents, from the limititude, and make good reasons for the purpose. Notwithstanding, I thinke it not necessary, that ye search at the places at every time, and sor every matter but that ye search wost part of them. And although were cannot finde a good argument in every one of them, yet it is well, if were may gither burthive or sower good arguments? As when were goe into a garden, wee shall not since all hearbes growing there, although though the fearch enery comer: fo when weelooke in all the plaees of invention for the proofe of our matter, weethall not knoe in cucry place, a good argument for our purpole . Motwithfrait ping , it is most necessarie, either when wee will move a matter our felfe, or els trie an others labour, which is fet forth at large most elequently : to bring the whole forme of his long tale, to thele places, and make an argument in three lines of that, which be bilateth into thee Beetes.

Matethuitothiee beeces. And for our leffe, if we will reason a matter earnell y, it had bee mofftable to fee our owne arguments before hande , berined out of the places, the which thall make us more boloe to fpeake, when we shall enidently perceive our own reasens surcly grousbed. And the better able we thatbe, to confirme our owne caufe. and to attopbe all objections, when we knowe furely by this are, whereunto we map leane. For although other hall impeach our Doings, and wreft our wordes, pet wee thall be able evermore to heeve our owne, when wee plainely perceive, whereof our armument hath his ground . Wanp fpeake wifely, which never read The vie of Logike, but to fpeake wifely with a jungement, and to know the Logike. India bery fountaine of thinges : that can none doe, except they have fome fkill in this art.

Therefore, what divertitie there is betwirt a blind man, and him that feeth the fame bifference is betwirt a wifeman unlearned, and a wifeman learned . De have feene the commoditie of this art, by this one monde (Magistrate) which I bid applye to enerp place that might give any light, for the making of an argument . How pe thall have a quettion fet forth, and both the parts of a propolition, referred to the places of invention, that thereby pe may knowe, wherein the places boe agree, and wherein they Doe not. For whereas the places agree (that is to fap, all things are referred to the one, that are referred to the other ) there the propolition is good, and the latter part of the propolition, is truely thoken of the first . But where the places doe not agree (that to to lay, lamethings are referred to the one wonde, that are not referred to the other) there the things them felues cannot agree. I will ble this queltion for an example, whether it be lawfull for a Prieff a Prieft to marry a wife, or no . And firtt of all, I will erattine & Brieft, and applye him to allebe places. Mert after that, we will referre a wife to al the places, and fee when we have bone, where in thele two bor agree, and wherein thep boe not agree.

The Marriage of Prieftes, proued by Logika.

From the definition.

A Preacher is a Clerke or Sheepehears , which will gine his life for his Sheepe, intructed to fet foorth the hingbome of God, and belirous to line bertuouffp:a faithfull anda wife Seeward, whom the Lord both let ouer his houfe, that he may give the houshold fernamnts meate, in due time.

From the generall worde.

Minifter, a feruaunt of God, a boly man, a Golpeller, the ininifter of Goo, thouso bee upright in his lining faithfully beflowing the morves of trueth.

From the kinde.

D Eter, Paule, John Baptift, Efay, Efdras, and Stephen-Ambrole being a temporall man, was after that a minister of the Chrifoftome. Church. Chrifoftome became of a Latuper, an earneft Breacher of Gobs worde. Dea, Peter and Andrewe, both were fifthers. therefore temporall men may bee called, if they bee worthie, and pefire this fpirituall function.

From the propertie.

T D be meete to teach, to be gooly wife, to boe, and to teach all thinges, that they are commaunded by Gods booke. Saing Hierome in his Epiffle to Nepotianus, as touching the life of Dreachers, fapth thus, I will not have thee pleade caufes, and to be a brabling tangler without all reason, but I will have thee to bee a faithfull minifter of the Sacraments, and very fkilfull in the Lawes of the Lord,

The whole.

T D be brought up in the Scriptures, even from his pourlis to be godly in convertation, and wholy to be infructed with al thinges; necellariefo, a Preacher: whofoener is thus armen is morthie to be a minifter in the Church of God. This argumens is derived from the whole.

The

S.Hierome.

A SHEET

The partes.on sent in the strait should do To invent matter out of the Scripture, according to the aptnelle of his hearing to beck his boings handlomely, to place his fentences in order, to remember what he fpeaketh, and to beter bis wordes diffinctly, plainly, and with louve voyce.

Things voked together.

A Preaching a Preacher to boc the worke of a foreacher. Timoth,itii. De that by bis Breaching ediffeth, the fame man i. Timouin. is a Breacher.

Things cleaning or adioyned to the substaunce.

Labour, biligence, wit, knowledge, fobrietie, gentlenelle bertue, Pariage, an earneft belire to bung by bis Chiloren well with other fuch. A Billow must be without fault, the boulebande of one wife, matchfull, lober, modelt, herberous, apt to teach, no great winker of wine, no fighter, not given to filthy lucre ; but bplight bopbe from babiling from couctoufnelle de, i . Tim it i Timo it

The maner of doing. sent si adusologius d s

To feebe Chiffes flocke , to put bis life in baunger for the flor ke committed to his charge, to bring by his flocke, and fami-Ip in the feare of God, in the knowledge of his more, and in Due observation of the same.

The thing conteyning.

Hierome in the first booke of the commentaries, whichbee Hierome. mabe byon the Galathians. 1. Let be not thinke, that the Gofpell refleth in wordes of Scripture, but in the fence, not in the outward rinde, but in the perie beart, not in the leaves, but in the perie roote of reason. Let the wordes of Christ owel plenteously in pout with all wifebome. Col. 3 .- marine and poor la rollin sell

Thematter. a small on as application multiplicate laca

The word of God, the old Teffament, and the newe, Iero. r. Behold, I have geven my morbes into thy mouth.

The shape or forme.

The Chape may be taken of the conversation fvench, spirit, c) the maner of Dreachers living.

The efficient cause.

D.i.

The Arte of Dogike. T

i. Corin.ii.

Actes.iii.

God himfelfe, the Scripture, good Dieachers, Cuangelikes. the Lorde will gine his worde, to those that preach plentifully. Pfaltrie Levii I haue planted, Apollo hath watered, but 600 mittethenereale. bis mogore bullinerty, riamin, cabine adquar nopre.

The ende of Preaching is, that the wicked might be converted to repetitaunce, and the lateman kept in his oppight lining. oby bis Breathing council, the faith ord in the Things doen by vertue of the cause. This said to at

To winne men to Cheift, to make mens conferences quiete, to moue them to praier. Mhen Deter made a Sermon out of hande there was about three thoulande conversed, to the fatth of the Bufuell that felle fame batel a line in sandalual a What is appointed to him, and dank ratio that on washed to proper to this reasoning.

Tuble earnettly, and fearth the feriptures, that he male mount prout acreeminister of God, to line a dood life, and felt to he've a boufholde, that he maie be herberous. Cofeene Chaires dacke, sould sitt life in baunger for the Iohn.xviii.

. The church the pulpit, the belliarie, the chauncell. I fpake open win the Suragoge, faith Christe, and in the Church to all the Temes that came thether, and I fpake nothing in comers. ethinesmitshine.

A pong man, an elverly man, an olde man co preach earlie and latel Tirriothelili. Letno man contenme thy pouth. office your and and Thinges annexed.

To have fome Ripense for his Pleaching. Worthie is the labourerito hauebis mages. Math.x.

The other places folowing; because they are not absolutely confidered, but referred to fome other, and eurr have refpect to the nere words, which is behearled in the question of that, which ment before, they can not feverally be handeled in one manne: and therefore, pe muft marke the whole queffion, and in one argument comprehende afwellthe wife, as the minifer. Maw therefore, pe thall have this worde vivor (a wife) veftribed thoughout the places.

The

of an him felfe, the & equiting bed Than bee the boulf ban A mife, is a poquanthat is lawfully recenued autothe fellam. Dip of his, in the chareale, or desting of children, and to succee A wise. ther, and the man her in like wife : in God The generall worde, north and distant A wife, is awoman. ment Both make up all the matter. The kinden and . A chafte wife; a fedinte wife, a manesty wife, ogele pe maie ble the proper names of women, for the kinde it lette . I lete. tia, Cornelia, Portia, Hipsieratea, &c. The propertie, minimum usidid Co picale ber houlevand, politicale distribution and olar produce the produce the produce the produce the contract of the produce the prod leste pronibe things The whole woman her felte alcogether. The partes. The head, the brette, the armes, the batke, the thinh, the barte, the vaines, bloud, fich. mont, and monte, or an elicity of detay, atthement and a monte. The monte of the content of the sann i.what very of a good wife Eryl the is a wife, She bandlith althings foodd marfoul wifely: Ergothe is a good houtewife. smin and a and a Wordes adjoined." The lone in marige, care ouer the familie, keping of ber felfe Royes beget to one housebands, to be obeying bare burn, tout of bet thilden boyes. loffe of her effilozen. emob to ranking Tra, no man soubterb, but To be obevient, to be fine welhaken, to be knappilli, to biring bu ber chilbren well, to time in marriage with ber boufebande, both at bed, and at borde, according to the will of Bot. no at bottle, the thing conteining. . Che moman Ber fette. caule fhebech a hamidi bha Wilkift Sallaup noman be called a The bodie, and foule, of the worthan, and the man, are the matter of that lage, the continection it fette, is the found of it. doction our chat med sine blanching aft allo. dus

i.Timo.iti. Genefe.i.

Bob himfelfe, the Seripture, fet a man bee the houfeband of one wife. They will betwo in one felb. The caufe that one wamantis dimeteb to a feuer all perlone, and liketh bim before all other, and the man ber in likewife : is God bimfelfe firft. that kinpeleth fuch affections; nert'after, their confent, and full acres ment, both make by all the matter.

The ende

To bring foorth Children, and to keepe them fante and to a-Horde frame.

The effect.

Chiloren godly inftructed, the houfe well ordered. Things appointed for some end.

To pleafe ber houleband, to live a good life, to prouide things necestarie, for the furniture of her boulhold, and onder 19

The place. The house, the chamber of wedlocke, the hall, or parlour. The time.

Aristotles mind, what time men & maidens fhould marry.

Boyes beget boyes.

Q pong woman, or an old, Aristotle faith, it is meete for men to marrie at provide maidens to marrie at eighteene, but then mas then and now is now, all things in this world, are ripe her fore their time. I meane, not that honeffie it felfe is fo, for I nes uer kneme it rive as pet, but euer rame. But thus pe fee the time of mariage, was not to hattely looked for as it is nome. In this motive a childe that feant be out of the fhell, but he fhabe fure to one, or other, p which Tooube, whether it map be called a marriage, or no: for, thole that be of ripe peres, no man boubteth, but if they can acree both, and have their friendes good will (forthat our bt to be fought for, and allo obteined) the mariane is abtomed before Gob. Words annexed or knit together.

Bariage is referreb to this place, for wifeis le called bes cause the bach a houseband, neither can any woman be called a wife, except the have a bouleband, therefore, the is placed among the words annexed, that is, where one thing is knicto an other for that the one can not be, except the other be allo.

Home, that mee have brawen thele wordes, the Preacher,

anb

and the wife, after this lost, throughout the places, to farre as we could: wee thould compare them together, and fee wherein they doe agree, and wherein they varie. Let us compare the definitions together, and we that timbe fomewhat even there, where these words bee (desiring to live vertuously) which that geve light for an argument, as thus.

Cathofoeuer belireth to live vertuoully, must marrie a wife.

Tuery true Preacher of Gods worde, delireth to live vertuoully.

( Ergo, euery true Preacher must marrie a tuile.

Mow, if mone advertarie will beny the proposition at large, ralled the Maior, then can I doe no good with it, except I sind somewhat in the besinition of a wife, which is agreeing to this above rehearled proposition. I finde in this word (wife) that the is married for the increase of Children, to avoyde fornication. Then I reason thus, for the confirmation of my purpose by the accument, called Sorites.

Althologuet veliceth to live vertuonly, delircth to a-

Colhosoever destreth to anopde fornication, and can not obtaine it by praier, or otherwise (as to all men it is not given) the same persone destreth marriage.

Ergo, whosoever destreth to live pertuously, destreth marriage.

Againe, the generall word of both thefe definitions, giveth light for an argument. Every wife is a woman, every Preacher is a man, and nature hath orderned, that man and woman may live in marriage (if they be so disposed) of what degree, condition, or state, so ever they be, nothing in all the Scriptures to the contrary. Therefore, I may reason thus.

-Chat fo ever is man, that fame may marry a woman

Euery Breacher is a man.

3 010

Ergo, euery Breacher may marry a woman by Gods

D.iii.

Euen

From the de-

Euch as I have doen, in thefe places, comparing one to an other, fo we may poe in the relidue, and where we fee any thing ferueth for your purpole, that they agree together on both para ties, ve may use the same if they boe not agree in some places, ve may refuse them, or els so mollific the thing, that such repuga Incommodi- naunces, may not harme pour cause at all. As where it is in the mordes abromed, that a moman is often times offerthwarte. fromard, bifobebient, careleffe ouer berichilden, for afgluch as thefe be no catifes of maringe, they hall not hinder mariage, for a godly man will beare all abuerfity, and fuffer fuch euill hav. and not therefore efchue mariage, becaufe thefe incommodities channe in marrage. Row, I will enter into the other places, which doe not feverally handle one werde, but have refried ener more to an other dand to by knitting together of the things or ferting the one against the other, the trueth of our purpole is efvied and the caufe confirmed.

From the similitude.

Similitude of marage.

ties of ma-

riage mittiga

Ashe is not to be computed a good Gardiner, or a good or there keper that is content with fich fruit as be bath alreadie. onely cherifing his olde trees, and bath no care, neither to cut boune the olde, not pet to fet newe graffes: lo that man is to be roumpred no biligent member in the common meale, which bepng content with the prefent company of men, both no minde to encreafe the number of people, and annulodar, ones From aucthoritie.

thor of mariage.

God the auc- in Afthe great worke man of thinges, God almightie bintele, after the floud, being reconciled to man, made this lame (as me reade in the feriptures ) that men thould not line fingle, but encreafe and multiplie, that the earth might be fileb: and feing allothat Chifthinfeife fince that time, bath allowed mariae e by a miracle, by chaunging of water into wine, which miracle mas the first that be bid by pon the earth and feing Baule also biddeth enery man that can not line chall, to marry, and that it is better to marry, then to burne in filchie belires, and before this willeth a Biftop thould bethe houseband of one wife : it mult needs be, 'p Dicachers may lawfully marry alwell as any Curs. Diit. oth: E other temporall ment and the

From comparison of the lesse, to the greater.

It is afhame to fee brute beattes, obey the Lawe of Mature, and man, checially a learned man, and a preacher, like a floute Giant to firme with nature, and to be contrary to her bidding.

From the greater to the lesse.

Mi the daughters of kot doubted nothing at the matter, to lie with their owne father, when he was dronk, thinking it better to Lois daugh-provide for encreale by fifthie luff, then that mankinds thould desters.

cap: thall not then a preacher, which thould have regards for the encreale of mankinds, and also a better to audide fornication, marry, if he be dilyoled, or otherwise cannot live chaft:

National America de Of discordantes.

De may reason from the contrarie, thus: If virginity be a thing genento Angelies, and almost about mans reach, then martage is at hing proper to man.

From the prination.

If the lack of children, be aching hatefull to man, then the having of children, is aching foifull to man.

From the relation,

If a Bishop be allowed by the scriptures, to be a housebande, then is he allowed to have a wife, the house Scriptures we reade, that he is allowed to be a houseband, for Paule saich: Leta Bishop be the houseband of one wife. Ergo he is allowed to have a wife.

From wordes differing.

That word is called a differing word, what sever it is, which is not the same, that an other is As thus: A Preacher is a man. Ergo he is no God. Priestes be men, as other men be, an that some married men cre no we, have well knowen. Therefore, he map marry a woman, if he can not live chaste, considering there is nothing in all the scriptures, to the contrarie.

As I have doen for the office of a Prince, and the mariage of a Pricet, so may I also goe throughout the places, with any other matter, that is nowe in controuerfie.

As Maith, worken, Penaunce, the Sacrifice of the maffe,

Baptiline, the Lawe, the Golpell, fynne, flounder, rule, Preaching, and every other thing, that man is bound to knowe.

Faith defined

telhat is faith's Faith is a trust and full persualion, where by onely we doe assure us, that our sinnes be forgiven us, and we accepted as suff before God, through the merites of Chist.

Or thus.

Paule in the Episse to the Hebrewes. Faith is a sure confibence of things, which are hoped for, and a certaintie of things, which are not seen.

The generall word.

A fure confidence, and a certaintic of things-

The kinde.

A faith which is occupied about things, both corporal, and also foirituall, believing that Chill was both God and man, by whome faluation is attained.

The difference.

Things, which are hoped for, and the which are feen.
The propertie.

To believe affuredly, and cruff the promifes of God. The partes of faith.

The true faith hath no parts. Albeit faith is divertly taken in the Scripture, for, there is an historicall faith. As I doe be leeve that William Conquerour was a king of England.

Faith diverfly taken in Scripture.

There is also a fullifying faith, whereby I looke affuredly to be faued. There is a faith, when one man faithfully promifeth an other, to be this or that, and will frand to his worde. There is also a faith of miracles, whereby the Apolles did caft out denils, and helped the diseased persons.

Things adioyning to faith, and also things annexed to faith.

Hope, Charitie, to be good to the poone, to forbeare from wice ked attemptes, to speake well of all, and to eschue excesse.

The thing conteining.

The mind of man, or the foule of man.

The efficient cause.

The words of & DD, or the holy gholf, flirring the heart of man, man, and comforting him in the merites of Chriffes pallion.

The end of faith.

Life everlafting, which is given freely to every beleever that confelleth in his heart, Jefus to be Chift, and affuredly truffeth to be faued by the onely merites of his vallion.

Contraries.

Unbeleefe, Defperation, whereby man falleth from God, to his beter bannation for euer.

Thus we fee how large the ble is of thefe places, for not on-Ip thall any one bee able to fpeake right aptly , and bery well to the purpole, when locuer be that letke out the trueth of any caufe by diligent fearch, and raunging in thefe corners, but alle bee Chall largely fet out his matter, with much belite, and orderly tel bis tale, with lingular profite, and valling gaine . And therefore I would with, that Logike were alwaies the fquare to rule our talke, and made the very touch frome to trie our reasons, such as in weightie matters, ful oft are allebged, and then I would not boubt, but that folly thould the fooner bee efpied, and wife mens fayinges the better efeemeb.

Of disputation, or reasoning, what it is.

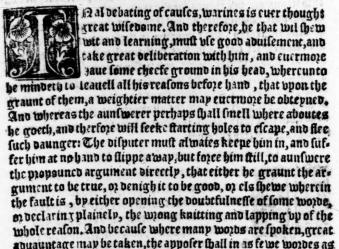

2001

Dat is called a bisputatio. or reasoning of matters , when certaine perfons bebate a caufe together, and one taketh part contrary buto an o. ther, the one aunswering, and benying, and the other fill appoling, and confirming the caufe fo earneftly, as he can, whereupon after harbe holde, and long bebating, the trueth either appeareth, or els they reft both byon one point, leaving the matter to bee abindged of the hearers, byon the knowledge of both their mindes fully had. and perceived. In all which matching, and tugging together, this would bee observed, that every of them keepe their owne fanding, that is to lay, the aumwerer mult ftill ble flat benying, and thake of fuch light realons as are alledged, by the helpe of inderement, which is the first part of Lonike, wherein are biners sules and leffons fet forth, efpecially for that purpofe: the appo-R.i. fer fer mult fight with weapon of his wit, and kill builde by that, which the auniwerer both ouerthrome, never leaving to follow, and confirme his cause, till he have brought the other to some such point, as he shall not well be able to audyde. And the rather to excell in this behalfe, he must be the second part of Logike, which is called Juvention, where he may have arguments at will, if he search the places, which are none other thing, but the sore house of reason, and the sountains of all wisedome.

The office and duetie of the appofer.

wife, that opon his open and manifest auniwere, a fresh reason may out of hand be framed, and so one opon an other, gathering reasons from place to place, so long, and so often, till at length be bee wought to some one thing, which he shall not bee able by reason to denigh. And this would alwaies bee knowne, that the same reason which proucth, should alwaies be either more large he can possible, comprehend his whole reason, and framing it in good opper, shall some the adversary, to make aunswere unto the parts, plainely, and without cloke, or doubtfull dealing in any then is that thing, which is proued, or els of like weight & largenelle with it. And so wee reason from the generall to that, which is inferiour to it: and also from the effects of thinges, to the caules: from the definition, to the thing that is defined, and likewise from all other places of invention, after the same sort.

The office or duetie of the aunswerer.

HE aunswerer also must be as ware, and as wille, as the apposer is, sicking by al subtile meanes, to cleape such trappes and ginnes, as the crastiness of the apposer hath layed out for him. And therefore, whom re-bearfall of the argument, it is needefull and expedient for bim. to repeate it buts himfelf, in the felf fame oper, as it is fet forth and froken by the appoler, and after a little paule, to make fuch an aunswere, that the appoler may take little abununtage thereby, and at no hand to graut any fuch thing, that may afterwards turne to his owne harme, the which full oft both happen, when wee graunt that, as a trueth, which is plaine falfhoode, or benye that to be true, which is molt true, or alle we things abfurd, to be coumpted as lawfull . And pet where as things in outward avparaunce may feeme true, which are nothing to, but have onely the outward thave and colour of certaintie: the auniwerer muft earneftly take beede, that then be bee not deceived. For if one inconvenience be graunted, a thouland milhaps boe followe byon the fame, and a wide cappe is made oven to enter into al errors. Therefore, the aunimerer must at the first hearing of his argument, marke whether it be made according to rules of Logike, or otherwife. For the matter and enery part of the argument, may be true in fence, when the framing of it together is full bab, and therefore in fuch cales, the argument mutt be refuled, because it is not well proportioned, neither pet thaped in order, according as the rules of making arguments, done everinore require. But if the argument have his due forme and hape, then must the aunfivered marke the trueth of his argument, and if the allegations beene either doubtfull, orbntrue in fence or bnderftanding: the fame mult be refuled out of hand as bula wfull, and of no force, to R.ii. confirme confirme the cause. And so, the better anopoing of euil arguments, the one of these two waies must alwaies be vied, that either we denigh some part of the argument, if the matter be altogether falle and ontrue: D, els that wee open the doubtfulnesse, of euill knitting of some worde of sentence, by making a distinction (as the Logiciens terme it) and severally sorting such thinges, as then were thought, to be evill set together. And thus the aunswerer being ware in his boinges, may give his ivogement, without great dawnger, and socethe apposer, to give over his tackling, without any advantage gotten. But so, this whole matter of aunswering to an argument, I doe the we my minde at large, next and immediatly before the rehearfall, of faile conclutions, or deceiptfull arguments, which doe followe in the next page, where I spake of confunction, and therefore I surcease to talke as my surther in this matter, least that with bubble inculcation of one thing, I may bring teds fine samen. 11

The

se in the nin ne heras the stock a chillent at 2 kind outs.

The places of falle conclusions, or deceiptfull reasons.

Dwthat Thane beclared, what an argument is , what the places of inuention bee how they ferne for the confirmatio of any matter, bow euery thing is made, in his due mood & figure, and allo thewed the observation of mage things, whereby any one, shall both be affired, that his argument is true (if it be made according to the rules ) and allo may know that it is falle, if it be not made according to the fame rules: I will from henfforth fet out the maner of veceintful arguments called in Latine, Reprabenfiones, og fallaces conclusi- Deceiptfull uncula, euen as Aristotle bath let them forth . Albeit, there is no arguments, argument lo beceiptfull, but they may eafely bee anopoed, if the clusions. rules bee marked that are rehearled before concerning the true making of an argument. For according to the old faving, Contrarierum eadem eft doctrina. That is to fap, of contraries, there is one maner of bectrine, for he, which can handlomely fet forth a Lyon in his thave and portraiture, may judge with reason a Lyon euill fauoured painted, & can with little difficultie. thewe the faultes in every place: So in like maner, if one can make an argument, according to frules about rehearled, in his due forme and mood he can tell allo, when an argument is otherwise made then the rules can beare. To some men, these places of craft that followe, may feeme fraunge, and pet even in weightie matters. the micked baue berined their lubtile defences from thele deceitfull corners. Therefore, because such places, may the rather bee auopoed, and better knowne, I will both fet forth at large, and alfo ceach, afwell as I am able, how to confute them . And firft to confute, is nothing els but to judge falle packing, and to bro Tole by reason, thinges knit together by craft. Therefore the Logicien, if he will voe his part, muft not onely fence himfelfe, for confirmation of his owne caufe, but mult there with al overthow the affertion of other, and also by reason move their sayinges to R.iii.

be falle, which by beceipt would enneigle the weake. The maner of confutation, two waies considered.

Confutation two waies Vfed. An aunswere three waies.

DR the first, either we purpose by elsputation, to aunswere fully to the matter, or els fecondly (if power want to compaffe that) we feeke forme other meanes, to fatiffic the man. mate to fatif- and that three maner of waies, either by making the objection fie the perion feeme leffe then it is, or by bunging fome other example against it, or ele by fecking fome meanes, to goe from the matter.

The make the argument appeare flender, when we receive it laughingip, and beclare by wordes, euen at the first, that it is nothing to the purpole, and fo abath the epponent.

Again, we turne an other argument in our adverfaries neck. when me bring an other example againft him. Dr els when wee charge him, with a like fault, and lay fome greater matter in his pith. Laftly, wee hift away from the violence of our abuerfarie. by making some vigression , or giving occasion of some other talke, whereby the aduerfarie, either is dituen to forget his arque ment, or els being blinded with too much matter, is forced either to goe no further, or els to thinke himfelf content. In all which maner of confutation, when we purpofe to put a man to Glence, T would with great moderation to be bled, and as little aduauntage taken by fuch meanes, as map bee possible. For although it be a poore helpe (as in beebe it is none other) pet many a man los feel his estimation, by much bling of fuch fashions. It is a world to fee the fubtile braine, of many bragging bodies, which with bold countenaunce, beare an outward hadowe of mifebome, hauing onely the Walking bilage, and lacking the naturall face. They will Cande Courly in mainteinaunce of an bntrueth , and with countenaunce feeme to thewe it; pea, and by their bold bearing it out, almost perimade the hearers, that they onely have the true part, and that other are altogether beceineb. They will fap. that no wifeman would once thinke that for hame, which the ans nerfarie betereth wirhout all thame : yea, they will far, be frea. keth to to blabilly, and fo ball him out of countenaunce, that he thall not well knows what to fay , and laft of all, they will triffe and top merely, and fo with imputent laughing, make the other paft patt freaking. I wil not put aup in this memento, as though thep were quiltie: but their owne doinges, shall put in themselves, on Boos name for me. Porwithfansing, I would gladly with as If (100 befage) that there were a meafure weed, and then fuch bo. inges,might beter be boine.

Toles aunswere to the matter, two waies, cither generally, of Aunswere particularly. A generall aunimere is made three maies. firft made to the when the fault is in the matter, that is to fap, in the wordes of cis matter two ther propolition, when they lignifie diners things, or be dinerfly waies. applied to the we it plainly: and either benight as foolil, og els aunt ereit. Diffolue it as boubtfull. As thus, the Libertines reafon.

Cahatfoeuer is naturall, that fame is not cuill. To finns is a thing naturall.

Ergo, to finne is not euill.

Libertines errour.

The feuerall or fecond proposition, is not true. And therefore the argument is falle in the matter it felfe . For God Did create the nature of man, pare and cleane, and fapt, that all was good, which he made, at the first creation . Reither was it Godo will. that man fould alter his commaundement, and I warue from the nath of his appointed Lames, but rather the fuggettion of the bewill, and the weakenelle of our fleth, brought man to hell, beath. and damnation.

Againe, when the fault appeareth in the forme, and maner of The fault in making an argument, wee must beclare that it is not framed ac. the forme, or cording to the rules, which require that every argument, fould making of an both be in moode and figure, as I have before fufficiently beclaerb. As thus.

Call Mariffrates doe reuenge.

Euery bold bardie man both reuende. Ergo, cucry bolo bardie man, is a Magiffrate.

This argument being made in the fecond figure is of no force. conflorring it is no moode of the fame figure. For in this figure all the propolitions, one not affirme altogether, but one of them ever both benich as it appeareth plainly, to him that lift to fee.

Thirdly, when the fault is both in the matter, and in the ma. Fault both in ner of making, wee must refuse the arguments, and shewe the the matter faultes & forme alfa faultes plainly. As thus.

Cuery flauchter.is finne. Euerp abulterie is finne.

Ergo, enerpabulterie is flaughter.

Firft, the fault is, that flaughter is not well befined . For in warre time, it is lawfull to kill, and cuery man may fand in his owne befence, against biolent robbers, and rather kill, then bee killed. Thirdly, the argument is in no moode, although it bee in the fecond figure. The particular auopoing of an argument, is fine maies bled, either by beclaring, in what Deceiptfull fubritie it is conteined . De from which of the places, it is wonafully beriued. De to thewe the wrong framing in every moode and fiiii, gure . Deto make an argument, with a like reafon, and fo to a. iii). novoc the caufe. Da laft of all, to ble the ftraunge Deceintful pla-V. ces, which thall be latt rehearleb.

And now will I tell particularly enery bereiptful argument. that when fuch a fubtile argument halbe bled, either in diffutation. or private talke: any one may efpie the fault out of hand, and thewe in which of thefe capcione realons, the fubtiltie refleth.

And first a faile conclusion, is a deceipt bled in an argument. whereby one under the colour of trueth, goeth about to enueigle the bearer, or thus, a falle conclusion is an argument appearing to the ianozaunt, as though it were true, and pet is nothing true at all. Aristotle both beuide them into two parts. Some bee cal-Falle conclus led decciptfull arguments, when a boubtfull word is bled. or the kinde of fpeach is fraunge, and may bee taken two waies, and that the fault is rather in the kinde, and maner of fpeaking, then in the matter or very thing it felfe. Therefore, those that be good Grammarians , and knowe the moperties of mordes , and are fkilfull in the tongues, can gaplie well folute fuch errours as be made by the mitaking of wordes, or by falle understanding of phales, whereof in very beebe many herefies, and much falle caufed errors Doctrine haue had their first beginning. There bee againe some craftic fubtilties, which are not in the worde, but rather fpring either of the euill knitting together of the propolitions, or els of the confusion of the thinges, that is to fay, when one thing is falilp fions, two waies deuided.

A particular aunfivering five wates.

A falle conclusion.

Phrales not knowne, haue

fally appointed for an other , as in this propolition a men map talely elpic falle packing, which is in the fecond propolition.

Fe-120 Conc both beget a man. Concupilcence. Chi- Concupilcence Doth bemet sman. na. Ergo concupifcence is no finue.

The fecond propolitional dough it map becrive a man that is not ware, pet it is altogether falle, because nature, whichis a thing ordeined of God, both beget man, not the withed impotent cie, or rather the betteuction of nature, which afterward folomen. Pere it is plaine, that mingle mangleris made of thinges, when generation, which thould bee attributed to nature, is referred to concupilcence, becauleit is in nature, a nert adiopning unto it.

120w, for the number and beuiding of thefe Deceipefull argu. The number ments, it is to understand, that there be 13. whereof 6, are called of falle confubtilities, in the word of maner of fpeaking, and the other 7. are the deution salled lubeilties without the morbe, when thinges are confount of deceiptfull Deb, when the knitting is altered, and one taken for an other, arguments.

Deceiptfull arguments. In the morbe are thele following, and, dard a tres, and a

Ti. The deshefulreffe of worder. hingit it io , min

ij. The dubble meaning of a sentence.

iij. The ioming of wordes that should be parted. isig. The parting of wondes that should be in ned.

v. The maner of freachie 110

Evisat be accentail quan oed ar da

LL thek names be comprehender binder this one worde (Deubefull) not with Raving Aristotle letteth forth Diversitie of maies, that he map theme the Difference of thele boubtfull fubulues, thinges. For fome arguments hauethe boubt in a worde, fignifring diverily fome in the propercie of the phateitime in the ion. ning together of morbes, and fome other in the boutoing and Difplacing of the fame , as it thall appeare more plainely , with handling of thefe places feueratip.

The doubtfulneffe of a worde.

Comonymia, which map be called in Englil, the boubtfillnelle The doubeof one worde, when it liquifieth diverly, is a maner of a fub worde. tilite

Law ers

effere, when the vereiptis in a word, that hath mor figintarations then one . Ametherealon is diat fuch at riment sare not eroop. hecause there are fower termes in the two propositions, for the puble revents i Ganifieth one think in the first propolition, and an other in the fecono proposition. Therefore nothing is moned in the conclution , when fuch southful! to roes lare officed in a propolition, And therefore when litell fubellete is efvied a man may benigh the confequent, quing this realon, that it is a fubtit. tic. oramize from this place of voubtfulneffe! Our it is plant, that mingle mentales mabe of theners, which ble vnderflanding.

Anne of dub- Da-Guery armeis a fubli aunce made of fleth, blood, ble under-and the cris Bod the father hachtharine!

And Eigh, Oo golichet is one that hath a fribitance of field, blood, bones, fine wes, and veines, auxlwererthis knittling (& wot godb, and thertole, I bentat the whole . The reason is, because wis a subtilite; of a boubfull mord, for in the first proposition, the arme is considered to be such a one as man hath, but in the leconde propolition, it is not fo ment , for it lignifizthbua metaphate, the pomery frenath. 02 might of God. sons of a fe granom stouch ad T

Fuill two waies taken. He- There is none enill in the Citie lauth the 1910 phet, which the Laros beth not vone.

ri- There bee many finnes and Borrible euflles in Li thefenaines he comprehind odinver this one worte atonic in Contered Erger God is the autchaur of line, and)

Min & Denighthe confequent : Becaufe there is voubtfulnelle in this made emillater on the first proposition wuill outh firmile the enill of punillime , as weeicaltrammento attalamie euite and all punish mententil, which are not finne, and in the foroth mopolition enill ooch Canificioffine, auv all tanidheinelle that is committed. Therefore, the fedond mountaining not acreeing with the first, and therfore the argument is not good. Dino one thing rifeth formuch controverte, as of the boubefulneffe, and bubble taking of a worde. Scholars bispute wife men fall out. Lawpers

The miltes ofwordes haue blinded all our bliffe.

Lawyers agree not, Preachers ware bot, Gentlemen friu: the Deoule mutter, good men que counfaile, women bahe their he of Des this man affirmeth, the other benieth, and pet at length, the bubble meaning being once knowne (when alshings are quiet) endesthe whole matter . Therefore, this good, firft to bee well arounded, and furely to flavour felues woon fome one affered knowledge before we talke of things boulefull wherein reflech ertour. Belt learnest of all other, is that man onely in my mind. which feeing repugnaunt fentences, can by reasoninge the trueth, Salomon fauth in his Prouerbes. Con the father from the beginning created wifedome. The bulearned, the wicked or the lepicious Libertine map take here an occasion to prone that Chiff was man onely, and realow thus, a remain setting of the

Soo the father, from the beginning created wife-

Chill the Sonne of God is the wifetome of his father.

913 7

Erge. Chift the Sonne of God bagrerated from the beginning and ton dining Ilil's

Therefore, it much auailethto knowethe bubble meaning of every boubtfull worde. In the first proposition, wifebome fignifirth the morde reuealed, or preached by the mouth of man . In the fecond mopolition, wiledome is taken for the fecond perfor in Trinitie according to Sainet Johns Golpell. Inthe beginning was the worde, and the word was with God, and God was the morbe. Euery one knoweth, that every worders not ODD. and perthis morbe which paffeth all wordes) is God the fonne, which otherwife is called the wifereme of bes father. A certaine perfon, that is no imall foole, as all men full well knowe, that knowehim at all, being earneft at a time, in commending a 2 ihop of his acquaintaince, beclared to a noble perfonage, that William Sothis Dithor had a goodly bale boice, and made at one time (q be) mer. as bale a Sermon , ashe neuer heard the like in att bis life before, and therefore, worthie to be coumpted a great Clerke, in lis foolish judgement . Who will not fay that this Bilhop was ! afely prailed.

Ambi-

sell, wieffermenten Ambiguitie!

The ambi-

The ambiguitie is, when the construction bringeth error, having viners unversandings in it, as when the words be placed doubtfully, as thus. Crass Halim penetrans magna percenter apum vine. Crass going over the flood Halim, shal overthow a great Empire. Here is not metioned, whether he shal overthow his owne, or an other mans. By the which Dracle in veel, he being veceived, lost his owne Kingdome, when he thought to substitute his enemies, and bring them under subjection. Therefore, when senemies, and bring them under subjection. Therefore, when senemies be spoken doubtfully, that the image be construct two maner of wates, and the parts diversly pointed, make contrary understanding they are referred to this place. And the rather to make it more open, I have made two English verses, which bean diversly read, have two contrary meaninges.

A robberie doe not fearesthy God, thy maker, Etill punish not one: God spareth, be thousand.

Otherwise.

Tarobberie boe not: feare thy God, the maker 7 22111 minish, not one God fraveth be thou fure.

There are two beries allo in Latine, which because they bee very pretie, and may be two water taken, I chinke it not amisse, to let them forth here among the other.

Laus tha non the fram virtus non copia rerum.

In English thus.

Morthinelle, not wilinelle, godlinelle, not goodes.

brought thee thereunto.

Richelle great, and much authoritie, will world'y honour to come to.

Chefe verfes being read backward, either in English, of in Latine, beginning at the last worde, have a cleane contrary unverstanding, as thus.

To come to honour worldly, with authoritie much, and greatricheile.

Percunce, brought thee, goodes, not godlineffe, wie

Thele

Verses sent to

These two bretes were witten to the Pope, as worthis such a one, and set upon Pasquillus in Rome, cuesto very love, as A take it: not of the Pope, but of Gods holy words.

An example of fuch doubtfull writing, which by reason of pointing, may have dubble sence, and contrary meaning, taken out of an Enterlude, made by Nicolas Vdall.

Mete miltreffe, whereas I love you nothing at all. Regarding your richelle and fubitaunce chiefe of all. For pour perfonage, beautie, benteanour, and wit, I commend me bnto pou neuera whith and all Socie to heare reporte of your good welfare was del For (as Theare lap) fuch your conditions are, and fam) That pe be worthis favour of no living man. To be abborred of every honest man. To be take for a woman enclined to vice. Nothing at all to vertue giving her due price. Talberefore concerning mariage, neare thought a mariage Such a fine paragonas nere boneft manbought. And now by the comelents A voe you admertile. That I am minded to marrie you in no wife. For your goodes and substaunce I could be content To take you as pe are. If ne will be my wife. De fhall be affured for the time of um life ite daring of !! I will keepe you right well from roopstainent and fare. De fhall not be kept but in forome and care. De hall in no wife live at your owne libertie. Doe and fay what pe lift pe thall never pleafe me. But when ve are merie I will be all fab. Mhen ve are forie I will be very glading ? .... Mihen ve feeke pour beartseale, 3 milt be bukinde. At no tyme in me thall you much gentleneffe finde. But all thinges contrary to your will and minde Shall be bone, other wife I will not be behinde. To speakerand as for all them that would one nou wrome. S.iit. Ihar

3-201 any foolish note that comber pourbut I
3 (who ere lay nay) well flicke by pountill 3
Thus good mittreffe Cuftaunce the Lozo ;	ou faue and krepe,
From Royfterbopfter whether I make of f	cepe.
Then this letter purporteth which re haue	unfold.
The contrary sence of the same, in the	ne same words.
Caterte miltrelle, whereas I loue pou	nothingat all
Regarding pourricheffcand fubitann	ceschiefe of all
Forpour perfonage, beautie, venicano
I commend me buto you, neuera whit 34	I commend ne bute
Sopie to heare reporte bi pour good welfat	Socie to beare repo
For (as Theare lap) fuch pour constituis a	For (de 3 heart land
That we be worthis fauour: of no lining me	militant od og isiler
To be abheared: of every honest man	Cobe at house of ev
To be take for a woman, ondinevco vice	Come talks last a moi
Mothing at all: to nectue grung beraut	Rothing at all com
Tatherefore concorning mariagementering	and detectors constitution
Such a fine paragon as mer hone it manbi	to be the party of the same of
And now by thele prefents I doe you abtief	ale lads do arou ales
That I am minded fo marrie pour in no bo	ferdminima E in D
For your goodes and fubitatiece 3 could i	e content lung to
To take you as ye ore: Tope will be mip wil	To cake pou as pe, a
De hall be affured for the time of mylife's	ge foull be affired fo
I will keepe youright welt, from good ra	iment and fare
De thall not be kept: butin forome and cate	वे अपुत्रमें इते अलगा माली न्यू
De hall in no wifeline: hi pour owne liber	rtiend on manuals G
Doe and lay what pe tift: pe thall never pl	ealeme salamasoci
But when ye are merie: I mill beialt fab	ामा अपर अवस्तानक मन्द्र
Withen pe are forie: I will be perp glad	E attor are ad unulpg
When pe lecke pointheartiseale. I will be	binkinde
At no tyme; in me halbpou much gentlen	elle finde, Holland
But all thinges commerce your will and	minde, semiliary ho
Shall be cone otherwise: Twill not be beh	inbelo, woo ad his los
To lyeake and as topally hom, that would	dee post wrong, 100
Dute dive	3 will

A will so beloe and maintening of hall not line tone 1202 any footish ool to stall comben you that Ter company I (who ere fapmay) will flicke by pout till I ope. Thus good mi treffe Cultaunce the Lord you fauc and keene. From me Rouferdoufter, whether Awake on fleene Tal to fauoureth pou no lette we man be bolbe a line and and Then this letter purposeth mhich pe baue infolo. 3 fin dans al and another The three deceiptfull arguments, and that a sec Quiundia distrabendarum , a topning together of those The toyning thinges, which fould be diffcuered, and are either to bee of wordes applied to the things that goe before, or to the things that that should followe affered and and doubling ander, offen dring ad ted ing den be parted. of and a C Parallhathoeuer knoweth letters now hath bear ned a vegt feith, a feith michout umschoon bieb failbibe Deart adolio di nia a Grammarian knoweth letters!

Ergo a Grammarian now hath learned them. Dere this Apuerbe (now) if it has beene referred to the firth point, which is an pefee in this worde (letters) and the point af wardemade i when this worde (now ) hath beene put to it, all had beene well: but because the morbe (now) is otherwise placed, and referred to the next fentence, which is (now hath learned them) it is a falle argument, because this worde (now) thould be referred to the first point, as thus.

Miboloever knoweth letters now hath learned the. duri ad alargal Grammarian knoweth letters ubim. Has minanat / Ergoja Granumarian bath Icarned them.

And forthis argument is good, being thus placed, but though this lubtitte feeme childift, pet olde babes have blet it, euen in the ancienticit cause of our redescription, and chought therein to foilathe goody reasoning in tell after this fort, and pet meaning Free the matter of Cab. is two biners Aspass 2000

meide slong fraith mithous worker doth fuffitte aung sitter

our ant a Kakaishionbanchunikes, is a bead faith and a this and out workes. and als or Carro a dead faith outh tulliffe, of good and

Derenempferafalfeparking, for, in the first monofition. faith framing alateris few mally referren to the last word, of the milis

Faith with-fame propolition, which is (both tuffifte) in the fecono propolitio. faith is referred to the two mordes (without workes) fo that the fame faith, is not meant tu the ferond propolition, that is meant in the first, we the reason is that words are to be together which thould not be fo topned, for now there are fower termes, wheras by the rules of Logike, there thould bee butthire (faith) is one (both iuffific) is the fecond (faith without werkes) is the thirte beid faith) is the fourth terme . And the reason that there bec for mer. is, that faith is first feuerally confidered, which neuer wanteth workes following her, as fruite veclaring what the tree is: not that the fruite both purchace inflification, but rather giveth a token, that by faith it felfe, whereof fuch workes ooe fming infiacation is attainted. Inthefecond propolition thert is mentioned a bead faith, a faith without workes, which faith the Deuill himfelf bath, whereas if the argument were true, there thould be none other faith, confidered in the fecond propolition, then was rehearled , and mentioned in the first proposition . Thaue labous cen the rather at large, to make this mattermore plaine to elit ignoraunt, not that it fo much neeved (for the enation is cafe of it felfe) but to the me that this bulearneb argument is of greater weight, then the other aboue rehearled were.

Of parting wordes that should be soyned together.

The parting of wordes that should be soyned.

Ifunctio conunctorum, is a beniving of thinges, which thould be iopned together, and a making of wordes lenerall, or els a diffenering of two parts, which thould be but one: for, like as by the other place, wordes are impred together, which thould be denived: so now by this place, that thing is benived, which thould be all one.

The law and the Gospell. The lawe and the Golpell, are two divers thinges.
The worde of God, is the lawe and the Golpell.

Eres, the worde of God, is two divers thinges.

In this argument (the worve of GDD) being a whole thing of it felf, is beuthed, and where respect should bee had, to the two partes toyntly considered together, which are nothing els but the whole; partes are severally understanded, and referred to the whole, not both together as they should bee, but severally

with

with their properties, as they Mould not bee. For the word of God is not the Lame only, on the Golvell oncly, although it fant of thefe two, but is the Lame and the Gofpell both topned together: for whereas a man is made of bobie and foule, the bo-Die is not man, not pet the foule neither, and pet they both iopned together, make up a perfect man. Againe, not sperefore, are the Lawe and the Golpell Gods word, because they are two bis vers thinges, but because they doe both properly belong unto Gods worde . And therefore the Lawe and the Gofpell, are o. therwife taken in the first proposition, then they are in the feconde propolition, whereupon there are fower termes, contrary to the rules about rehearled and produced by all around and me and and Japan Another example. The Articlesof our faith are twelue in nomber. Co beleque in God the father, and Jefus Christ his onely fonne, are in the Articles of our faith.

Ergoto beleue in God thefather, and in Jefus Chut his quely Tonne, are twelve in nomber.

This argument is to be denied because the boubtfuinelle rifeth of Divilian, for to beleeve in God the father, and in Telus Chil his onely fonne, arethe Articles of our faith, and per they two are not the whole rit in nomber. Therefore, they two bepig of the xii, are mongly placed, if they be devided into xii, Againe there be fower parces oftermes, for in the first propose tion, this parte the Articles of our faith) commehenced the ris. in nomber, but in the feconde propolition, the bouble repeate, that is (the Articles of our faith) Doe not comprehende all the Articles but two onely therefore it is an entil argument.

This kinde of argument is bledaftentimes of those, which by reporting an other mans labour, and his well downg beprace the fame rither by adding or diminishing the fame, as by taking a peece of a fentence out of fome boctor, and applying it for their purpole or by adding more then they finde as both beuines and Lawiers oftentimes full angodly have been, not regerbing the whole comfrand expendithe thing, but taking out parties and perces to ferue their bigodly pru poles, which in Faith is a worke.

of nelset

beebe un We hothing for their neither thep themfelues boe tin. berffande what they bling, when they one not marke the whole courfe of the matter. The Romiff reafon thus.

Afthou mile enter to beauen, kepe the comauderiets. an die Det fefore, kerbing the commaunbeimentes, purcha-

A Romish ann acot prett Heaurhill reason for iu-Stification.

68

Workes are good, not becaule God alloweth them.

This artitument is falle, by leaving the belt out, for the bortrine of the Bolpell muft firft be hav, our faith muft be fattened, and Chieff inutt lanctifie our boynges, before they can be good. 12tribet is any thing good, because we obe it, but because it canfe men do plemeth Son to accept it. Dets true, he that boeth well . Matt the w, but be- baue well, but who is he ! Guen the fame bodb, which first beleueth in Christ, and apprehendethmerey by faith, whose workes Bob accepteth for mood, otherwife he Mill neuer come where Godis. Cheretore, efpie the fibtilties of the unganty, and flie their fraude. Ergote beleschie sief einer, and in Jelus Chichies.

The maner of speache. Confession.

forma derionis, taifen othet wife in nood Latine, forma orations, the mante of theach, is when the phiate beorthertout, and the plopertie of the toungue not well knowen engenbieth ambittettvas in the ciefe Chaiter of Mathew. When Chiff bas thole, which were heates of the lepios fit: got, and the we themlelues to the detell, our fathers applies this faipht to confellion, thinking that every one was bounde in confcience baber Dame of Daimnation to confeste his finnes to the Prieft, every peare once where as Chailtes meaning was nothing fo, and thereforether were much beceite, in the manner of weaking. This order was ni the old lawe, as wee may reade in Leneticus, that Lepers came not into the towne, but if any hapnes to be whote and amended he wis fiell commanded. to theme himfelfe to the 19 feet, that the 19 feet fenne his benie cleane, might be a wienelle tothe congregation, of his amenbement, and fo the man after this, might the rather be fufferen to goe abroad, and be in company with other men, a dia amil

But even as they have forrold melled this placeto confelliin, each femight light woinen, impeaill dispoten wines, abute their their boulchandes fonoly, repoinding fainst Pavies lunds in the fearenth of the first to the Corinthians, where he faieth, The wife is boude cothe lawe, as long as her househand linceb. but ither houseband fleepe, the is at liverip to marry with whom the will. But God forbie, that women hould take this aduauntage of their housebandes fleeping, as the Romith folke have as buled all men waking, Sierpe in this tert, lignifieth nothingistere what is but beath: and pet might monren, alwell abule this terties other fignifieth. men baue abufen Chriften fairing, for the maintenaunce of coufillion. Therefore, the moverty of curry weach, and the maner of speaking, ought alwaies to be observed : we say in English forme, time, to some one, with whom we are offended, ab firha, pe are an bonell man in beed, and pet we doe not meane, that be is honest in deed but thinke that he is a naughty felowe. So likebule, Christ when he thouse be taken of the Jewes, laten to Christ taken his Apolites, dormite e requiefite, flerpe on fire and take pour, of the lewes. reff, not that he would thep should to doe, but to their rebuke & hame bec fpakent, because they were carefelle, and tooketheir reft. So Panle rebuking the Corinthians, becaufe the pmade paule rebue Deathen menthen Junges, and pleadenthen caules under the king the Colaide, if there bee no bodie among you, to heare pour owne caus, inchians. fes, make vile perfore and abicets, to bee Judges, among you. Dot that he woulder Gould be fo but to their Chanc, be lyake if Hebrue phra as be latech himselfe. Also untothis place maie be referred, the feet kinde of phale proper to every tengue. As where it is ut the Math. v. Colpell. Serec with thine adversary quickly, whiles they ext in the wate with him, leaft that adversary beliver speeto p flugge, and the Judge beliver thee to the minister, and then thou he salt. into pilon. Gerely I faie onto thee thou halt not come out thence, till thou half paico the accessoft farthing. The which matter, Saint Luke rehearting, hatbebele morbes up lattende. I tell thee thou benartell not thence, till thou have made good tuke vit the betermos Bite. Wiba baeth not fee that this las fentence. nacthuot lignific a condition, but rather noteth that be that ne wer come at all. fo (the furitual meaning confidered, bew can than through finne condened to a fire othell, beliner himitile, or pay his raunfome to God for his faluation. Anaine I reade this in the first of Mach. Joseph affene as he awoke out of fleeve bib as the Angell of the Loto bab him, and tooke his wife bute him. and knewe her not, till the had brought forth ber firft fonne, and called his name Jelus. Dowthen, Did Toleph knowe her afters ward, that is , vio he the act of nature with her: 129 verely he bit not companie with her carnally at all but the lived fiff a birging fe bate the name onely of an houleband, or married man. As me trad also that James & John were called the brethren of Christ. and yet were they not in bloud his naturall bethen. But fome not experte in fonques, may wonder much at this exposition. normithitanopna if they would writh other blaces, that are in fike maner mitten, they fould have no neroeto marneill at al East tend in the biti! Chapter of Genel Julian Nochar fent a Crowe out of the Athe to bring tooings againe, be fasto that the Crowe came not till the earth was bite, and pet wee trade not firthe litipture, that the Crowe came to the Arke awaine at all but bio tather fleeleane awate. And pet the text fairth butil the earth m is orie the Crowe camenat. The Propher fareth of Bou: Chou art from worlde to worlde, and per bere is no betere trinace trine thenetones for GDD's a levinit lubitance for t' uer. Dea, I thinke me haue the like phiate alfo, euen in our Enalifhe tonque. The fiffe necken fay thus: I will beare no meaching till all men be agreed, And when is that . Warre neuer I thinke. Therefore, those that bee ignerant in the torngues are enfely beceined. Likewife we reade in the twelve Chapiter of Saint Mathew Qui dixerit verbam adverfus foiritum lentium non remittetur et neque in hoe feculo neque in futuro! De that fpeaketh a morde anainffche bolie Bhoft, thall not be forgiven neither in this world, not per in the world to come that is to face. be thall never be forgeven, for proofe whereof, and full confire mation, that this meaning is true, and our benot other wife to be taken . Same Markoaffo lieaking of the lame matter, bath thefe wordes. Gerely Itay bott pout, all finnes thall be forming white mens children, and braftherny where with they blaftheme. Burbe that blaiphemeth the halp Ghoff, thalf meuer bane for geueneffe

genenelle

Marke iii.

civeneffer but hall be quittie of eternall Damnation. Thus we fee, that the maner of fpeach bled in Mathew, is plainly over ned here in Marko , Sainct Luke in like maner, wholoener Luke xii. freaketh a worde against the sonne of man, it shall be forginen him. But unto bien that blafthemeth the boly Bhoft, it hall not be foratuen. And pet notwithflanding all this the weake learned, referre this place to Purgatorie, most bainly and without all reason. The maner of weach causeth ambiquitie, by reason of the affinitie in wordes, and when one hath loft all the money in his purfe, and for tacke of come is fainc to beloe the candella An other man when be feeth the fame bodie doe his duety with his cap of to his better might fap merilie by the wate of a furte. cothe worther perfor: I pray you fir, let this good fellowe be Bare, two coueren, hais bare, where as bare fignificth a bare purfe, af mel as a bare head; and is mourtly to faipe. Againe and most apelia this fubriltie taketh place, when fentences bec euill poinced. and the fence thereby Depraued, as fome that maintaine Inftifis cation by worker have frauncely abufed a tert of Sainct Augustine, making the point plaine; whereas it hould be an internogathe, and hath been office peaces to founde in an old wife. Augustines ten hand. The fentence inthis Qui fecute fine te, non poteft fer- praued. were to frie te: De that made thee, without thee, can not be faue thee : Where as making it a plaine povot in Latine, it hath a eleane contrary buderstanding, a maketh asmuch for the maincenaunce offalle religion. For it is almutch, as who should faie: Words spoke be that made thee mithout thee can not fave thee, without thee, Dozeonen, wordes Cooken by imitacion, that is to faie, when one reberfeth that, which an other man fateth, muft biligently be obferued. Paule witerhto the Collossians, the werb the naughti neffer of fome men, that will keeps fumple, folke in subjection mith their thad is ing and grouble the conficiences of the weake. farnat boenot couch beenot call boe not handle meate, which Baule reckerban rebuke to the hipocritemand obitinate labari. fies, and per forme not withflanding, fondly have milconfrued the same, personaning themselves that Paule gave such commauhdement. Therefore those thinges, which are spoken ky imitation finication, following an other mans fpench? mult offerwite been biberthanben, then those wordes, which a man fpenkeitsef hum felfe, and grueth infrietion certainty therby, Chusfarer hane I handled thefe lubeile arguments, which are in the worder: nome will I rehearle all fuch falle conclutions as are in the matter. And freft this is to bee noted, that the faultes of enerie atyument, are cether in the wong or fining, and not well fete: find forth the nature of any thing; or els not apt ly benibing, or lattly, not abuitedly webug the cautes of thinges but beaping: them by without order or realin. The other fubilities about rehearled, may either bee auopbed, by well marking the true Definition, or els bourne respect to the biuision, by beclaring feuerally howe large enery worse may be taken, and what errour mate rife by the falle unberlanving of fonce one worde, the fub. tilries folowing containe frieh ablurofries, and rife not buonthe nature of fome one worde, but take their grounde of the matter, andthing it felfe. कार दर्भव विस्तर प्रतास्त्र के एक प्रतास्त्र में विस्तर प्रतास in 132 There be feaven in number a four 9d notes gulline making the pansadionellinory out his eld en indera resta ana Plerhyar andia poets moral fermos and on wiferea band. Chealyaladar and most or six of sea poets for-

iii. The millaking of lentences gainlaying.

chan sit of the the cause that is not purso therause. I the control of the contro

The first deceipt. to and

The accident

by imitation.

Affacia accidencis, the decemptfulnes of the accident, in one of the other diverse things are copied togethed, in one of the individual to the interest of the individual to the interest of the individual to the a man cafually, and pronounce the fame, to be the bery proper. caufe why, and wherefore, this or that is fo. Of the first, this map be an example.

That fame whichefieft is fich is not.

Fleth & fith.

flefh is forde.

Therefore fift is none.

In the first proposition, I unberftande the fubstaunce of fleth, and in the feconopiopolition. I meane the accident of propertie. which is in them both, and therefore mine argument is not lawfull, because I referred beth the substaunce and the accident, to one and to the fame fubiect. For although fich and fift, be not all one in lubffaunce, becaule fleth is one thinx, & fift is another. and either of them bath their mayer being, & billinet lubitauce, per they agree both in their accident, that is to fan, in foode, to fcrue for the fuftenaunce, of man,

C Mofinne map be committed.

Micked men enen when they execute inflice, bo finne, Wicked men Therefore wickes men may boe no tuffice being fet in finne, euen in Caucthority.

divid

executing Iu-

The first proposition is true, and the fecond allo , for what focuer is not of faish, the fame is finne. Meither can any thing bee well, how focuer it feemethin our eyes, except our faith be firft faftened byon the free mercy of Chaft. Therfore the Jewes how focuer they live kening order observing tames, forbearing riot, vet all their boings, are nothing but limie, whatfurner they doe, feemest never to boneft, or godly, to the light of mar. And yet this argument is not truely last by . For in the first movolitian (finne) is confidered by binfeffe, and therefore it is truely faico, that no linne may be committed. In the fecond propolicion, where execution of inflice is revorted to bee finne, it is not lo of it lelfe, but becauft the perfon is euil finnette, which erecuteth the law, o therefore the offence commeth cafually, and as the Logicians fay, per accident, where as finne before was confidered, according to the substaunce. And therefore, though the officer being naughty, offenbeth when be minittreth inflice, (because faith maketh all workes good) per must he doe futtice, because becaule it lo commiaunged, euen as he muft affureolp beleue, that Befus is the Mellias, and the promifes faufour fent of BDD. And though the downg bec eutil to bim, pecitis good to other. Againe, thus reafon fome.

The Articles of our faith.

By faith we are infified. Faith is a worke.

Ergo by workes we are inflified.

This propolicion is falle, conflorring that faith in the first propolition, is the fame, through which we are inftified, not be the worthineffe of our beleeuping, but throughthe free merep of Chiff, the which wee apprehend throughfaith. And therefore me mult in this faying confider that fatth is referred by relation to Chail, through whom onely, all mercy is attained, a that grace commreth, not becaufe faith is a worke, but becaufe mercie goeth before, and receiveth freely all beleuers, without worthineffe eis ther of beleuing, or els of boying any other worke. Therefore in the first proposition, faith berng not fo taken, as in the frond. we may faie well, it fpringeth from this beeciptfull plate, and is so fa therefore noclawfull.

An other arguittent perpagage Infiel

Chismanis a wittie fellome. 10 1

This man is lame. 3 1113

Ergothis fame man hath a fame wie.

This is entoently falle, becaufe the accidentes of the bobie are referred to the lublaunce ofthe mynoc, as by this latt armument, be may feethe lamenelle, which of the boby, is atributed to the minue, whereby the teafon is baine.

The third vectipt is, when many thinges are referred to one fubicit, me make that to be the perp nert and chiefe caufe, which is a calliall thing, and contect by bay buto any boby, as thus.

Dauroisa blelleb mait. Daum is an abulterer.
Elgo abulterers are bleffeb men.

I beny the cantequence, becaufe itis a beceitfull argument. by that, which is the accident. For when many thinges chaunce to one man, we must fee what the berte caufes are of chething which which we attribute to the lubiect. Danid is a bleffed man. And wherefore : 120t because he was an abulterer, for, that happenes to him calually, but because he was chosen of God, and had the feare of God before his eyes, and although this happened by the inftinct of the Dewill, pet be callen for grace revented fore, and trutted in Gods mercie, as the Halalmes phentituity beare wit nelle, and this was the cause why he was bleffed, so that in the first propolition, David is other wife confidered, then he is in the fecond propolicion , feeing an accident calually bappening . is mentioned in the fecond part, whereas in the first proposition, a naturall power of God, and his especiali grace are both together rehearled and comprehended. and therfore, ve must obferue that in fuch beceiptfull arguments, although many thinges are referred to one fubiect, pet are they not after one foife , comprebended in the fame lubiect, but diverfly confidered, as when I toyne accidents, both of body and mynd together, as thus.

This fellome is a Golpeller.

This fellowe is blinde.

Ergo, this fellows is a blind Golpeller.

bere ve may fee the accidents of the minbe and body, formen together, which should not bee fo . And as for men blinde by nature. I have knowne luch that might more worthely have beene Bilbonnes, then other with all the enes they have for though their light fayled, pet their tongue ferued to fet forth the glorie of Gob . But fome of our patiours fee ouer well for their plane profite, and over little for our faufe conduite.

The Anabaptistes reason thus.

That which is nothing, belerueth no punifoment. Sinne is no-

Sinne is nothing.

Ereo, finne beferueth no punifbment.

In the first propolition, that thing is meant, which is notat all but is cleane cone from nature, or els neuer was within the nature of thinges . In the feeond propolition (linne) is reported to bee nothing, because it felfe being nothing worth, sporteth a man of his other bertues, and fo overthoweth nature, afinuch as it can. Mice maplees man blinde, we junge chache bath loft his light, STILL thing.

Aght, herein we eleenie the light, to bee a gift given of God, and blindnes to be the taker away of that, which was given of God. In like cale, linne is the veltruction of that, which was being of it less eaching. And so withis case, to voe well, is a thing, the want whereof, is working, the which, is linne. And thus, wer see that this word (nothing) is two waies taken, first, when a thing is mothing at all, neither per ever was, againe, when a thing is nothing, which before was some thing? As before sinne, was grace, which since s here called nothing, and per before nothing which is mentioned in the first proposition? Was never per any thing, the one is called in Latine, Wind printers, the other is named, Wind negation.

Moses lawe encreaseth Charloellerencrealeth finne, is not to be taugite.

Ergo, the Lawe of Moles is not to be taught.

Jaunswere, the Lawe encreasers not some, by the owne nature, but casually. For when man himself, is corrupted with vice then the Law makes his some appears hainous, and encreaseth the knowledge of some in him. Bo that in the first proposition, the nature of encreasing some, is considered in the ferond proposition, the casuall happening is rehearsed, and the knowledge thereof mentioned when thinges are more open once our eyes, and the techniq of some embent so die hearts, which before so want of skill, was not seene, not pet sindupe at all. All such arguments must be anopoed by distinction, that is, he must declare the dubble meaning in the two propositions, and then he have soluted the subcitie.

The fecond 1010 813

From the part to the whole.

Romthat, which is partly, and after a fort to to bee full, and wholly to, and by colour of the part, to give tudgement of the whole.

Of this deceipt there be fower kindes.

11. Cathen the fencence propouned, repugneth to that, which fol-and Theavhoide litel in the oleh. Erge, it tha boite. Dury hoffes were good to be let for hire, when men runne away with them. It is rather called the carrion, or careale of a horse. Cotho called his a bead man, luch a one as he was before?

Unriah-

it. Again, when fantalic frameth fome wonder in a mane head, and a thing is conceived by imagination, which is not at all.

Santiques or gargailles are beuiled by Painters.

Zergo, there are luch creatures in deede.

til, Thirdly, when a thing may bee, and is alreadie in power to fay threight, it is, we consported to make it would be dead to be a fair

Saragged Colt may proue a good horfe, same ad Euen in weighte matters of religion, this reason hath beene blenjas pe that lec hereafter. diagone and a more than a constant of the mole of the part is taken for the whole, represented the part is taken for the whole, when the part is taken for the whole who the part is taken for the whole who taken for the whole whole whole who taken for the whole whole

S Mine is cuill for those that be ficke of an Agewe.

This argument is from the particular, to the universall, the which is easle to be approved. Therfore, errors doe often chance, when we comprehend the whole, speaking onely of the parte, or when we make the ligne, to be the very lefte thing, and although ye have had chilotheramples before, onely to make the matter plaine, pe that see that in weightie matters, this deceiptfull argument bath been vied.

Colec heave many now a vales crie out, and tay the Lawyers Lawyers, are naught, they meane no criveth, but only leeke to lince, wheras no man I thinke, convenieth all Lawyers, about the pauce inflictuate, to accuse fome whetched Lawyers, whome tay against that Priekes, wow a vales for out the being poken intential markager law fome spacements a lawyars, warment this erten fome spacements a lawyar that they have made an operation of the securit and all: Party Gov subjectionall Priekes hours to very many the securit and all: Party Gov subjectionall Priekes hours to very ment to be an operation of the sample of this falls conclusion. Thus reason the Anabaptistes, and any all the trade.

170

Ti.ii.

Varighteoufneffe in euery kingdome. Inrightnouinelle is altogether reproner.

In enery kingbonte is much burightnouinelle blev.

Ergo, enery kingbome is altogether reprones.

By this meanes we thall have no kingbome, no lame, no pole ticall order, no trade, no discipline, no tudgement for offenders. But this argument is to bee refected, because it is to be beriued from the part to the whole . For, although many thinges bee as miffe, in a politicall body, peethe whole therefore muft not bee Diffolued, the lawes muft not be abrogated, nor yet good order as handones: for the chief thing that is in every Enwire, is a thing. ordeined of God, and a rightuous thing, as for an erample, Politicallower lawes, flatutes, inderement, erecution, and pupilbe ment of offenbers, beene altogether omeined of God, and there fore , they reason amille; that soy there is an abuse in a policicall order, therefore, wee Challbaue no order at all, in any Commonweale, and againe pe thall perceive, that there is more in the conclusion, then was repearled in the two propolitions: for in the feconvergention, the vices generally are rehearled, but in the conclution, the Realme felfe is altogether names. Therfore, me ought siligently to note the circumftaunce of the thing, if wee will anopbe this fubrilitie, and when a thing is fooken in part. we muft northereby inver the whole: of meafure the butuerfall, by that which is comprehended under the generall.

A man may forfake an abulterous wife.

This is from the inferiour, to the universall, which is not well gathered, as it flandeth here: for, although a man may for lake his wife, being naught of her body, permay he not for lake an honest moman, when it liketh him to chaunge . If w, this wope (wife) in the first proposition, is bedged with here circumstance, that is to lay, abulterie, which cause though extrement. Acideries this argument good, the King may put to death every man. Againe; if we will reason negatively, as weed to before affirmatively, wee shall frame our argument amisses, as thus, daiming.

LErgo, neither a naughore wife thould be put away, A knower Core that man sainn his war.

Cherefore, man gara na tree bulliur at anim offe?

Ergo, no mingten wine iseuilliandin assault of at

This is from the univerfall to that which is inferiour and as pe mould fap hedged with his circumstante and compassed with that, which before was neither in wife, not not in wine, for, a wife fo long ag the keepeth her felfe to her buf band buchy their na as buitreffe. Cline that winkerh of it felf, is not ming leb. and therforcathe argument is not good, because that thing is in the lesse. or inferiour, which was not in the generalle There is a frente in Rhetorike, called blyperbole diatistofap, when aching is from ken beyond meglure buerebibly, and pet in not la largely meant? As when I will maile a man for his frength. I will far be pas feth Hercules in manboode, meaning that be excelleth in man Things fooke hoode and valiauntneffe. If wee knowe one that runneth well; about meaeither bogge man or hole we ble to lay, be is an fwift agafmal meafure. lowe, he flieth like an arroweout of a bowe : mediting one lythes amofficie he is exceeding fwife. Therefore me mult bilimently take beene when fuch fpeaches are bleb, that wee take not them as they bee Spoken but as they are ment neither take the whole for the part. when the whole is expressed in wordes, and the part mentin bnberffanding. And almaies bee wife in our mounting that afeens bing over high weebee not commounded to come bound as fooles . A noble man had a childe, which was bern toward in learming, and partly for fuch worthinelle as was in the childe and partly to get favour of fuch a Peere, as the father was bivers commended the childe wonderfully well, and one about all other, thinking to fan the most , not content with right excellent. o, marueilous wittie, o, too toward, fapo thus after other mens jubgemene, and report given. Surely in my mynd, the childe is even a bery moufter. Which that the noble man laughed to heare A monfler. his folly, and all the other likewife that were there. Therefore. it is good in bling fuch palling reports, diferetely to weigh them before band alwaies.

hating.

Batons Gy.

V.iii.

Hieremie fapth. .. . nawa bug of clued shirt of ?? Seed Dominit and wood work to the printer of the good &

I knowe Lord that man bath pot his way.

Therefore, man bath no free will at atl, no abuite, no chovce. Free will. to beliberate either this way outhat wapin on og

This confequen cold not glood fot, Hiere mias faying muft be Hieremie. beneritande err bulbering the way of many that is to fap, the tali ling of minne in mercon character worked by elie power, dreinicht of force of many houses wan the mode and thank of himfelf, along with Sennacherib, autthe helpe ougrave of God & Sennacherib that wicked Rine. thought by his owne vower and wifevome to winne his funres against lerufalech but becommitte formuch to himfelfe, and his some miletome dut be lothis boodes and all, at length of the chiefenny principall cause of all goody actions ; proceeds from Condethour whom altohording es are that I but to nothing Ranging boc they mocceo that man hath thoyce will and liber Things speks cit an dar mood thinger being affiled with the grate of Gob. As Dinitali Ghriff matfeth eine Labourer ant lauth. Whith etjat bath finathe princed and Christoftome tapch very well God diameth tinto Chrisostome bins somethe gramerijehe will time i Fort God will have dur root million beinened with his calling There Wie Plato in bis fourth Platoes fay-Booke, where he frameth his Common-weale, both well mitt ing of Gods grate this Hyperbole in this fentence, which feemeth incredible

f Bab poch all things and orders every action Having Too mell altone dissentence, that God vetufeth all chinges, but fo not michimmerine of allowers, wide oce well under mind a for it mere belt confinunciales that mains will tabour, and diligence, muff hee towner thereunto, as wer fer in fapling bon the Sen Shinmen called Boo for helpe vant Boo will belie them, but fo notwithtransing if they helperhonele lies a deed, bille wiferentie thereiginthe Falles of Blops, a care of one, whole Care frome fait inithe more winel mum freme his Cartelable fad Crock to Herobleston beine and praced that he might tome from beaven: aumforre was made, thathe thould first belbe bimfelfe, and then call imon Herciales, or elabis Carte were like to ticke fatt fiff.

Propes fable of a cart that flucke falt.

his faying.

doing.

Hieremie

.in. Y

An

petoje gand simales.

nicare of Claim Englanguage and amage of our Law non erad Che Church both not erreaide. I mo et ilegration 22, notice K The Phariftes are the Church la redio na ar med Parel ar Ergo, the Bharifies boe not erreulu E an anional

The Church doth not ene.

The pegeipeis, from the particular to the universall. As who Chanto Cap. Some Do not cree in the Chunchy Engo, no both wood erre at allithat is of the Church: which is falle forthe Church is as well of the entil, as of the good, The good months dectrage ned in the trueth of God, and taught the true love of God, by oft reading and following his worde, have the cruelighe, and erre not. Other that be flathfull careleffe promied inambition, and all worldly late, both constructed bootroes from themeto thing. Therefore, whereas I lay, the Church both not erregiris chites Synechdoche, that is to fay, when the part is vieo for the whole.

An other argument made by the Anabaptiftes. of monif Tothe iuft, there igno lame fet.

The ryotous fonne after his connertion, is fulf.

moden No Segenahimthereistalbe fet Jian ei t?

The just is free from the lawe.

This argument is from the part to the whole he is beliuered from the law for fo much as pertainerb to bis convernation but be is not free, for fo much as belongeth to the due obedience. which be ometh into Bon : for, this order fan bett for euer moff feofally, that every creature be obedient to Boo the creatour. Againe, foralinuobas every tult man, that is converted from his euill waies, there remaineth a wicked includation, the fame muff al water be briveled and kept it, even with the terrour of the lam. as though it were a mouferoll. isaman,

The ligns is often opmen turned pinto the thing it felfe, as I eleving and pe that percene that it ent. smiddled alreader.

p.

į,

o

b

n

A Carrien (Dereis Sainer Benge byentft windowe. 11.12 Ergostis Saintt Georgehimleffe, to wind

This argument men have bled; when they have feene a man painted on a wall orgranen in a ffone, but afwell they might call the picture of the horfe Daint Wrongs, auche picture ofthe mair. Images taken This is Sainco Christopher. This is Saince Love. This is the for Sainces.

picture

picetre of Chilit: Ergaicis Chili. This is an Image of our Labic: Ergo, it is our Labic; and here the will worke wonders, more then in an other place; as the did at Mallingham, at Boston, at Lincolne, at Iplwich, and I cannot tell where, when Priestes gathered maney, and propesolves were mocked. Here he must benigh the consequency because the signs is not the thing lights whicher is Godbound in any place, to the which he bath not bound hunselsed his worde, not per any Bainet neither. This rule overthoweth all maner of Ivolles, which have beene in all ages, from tyme to tyme. In this kinde of substititie, he must distingently observe sower excumitaunces, the person, the tyme, the place, and the maner of comparing thinges together, all, which are false, and acceptful reasons.

An Officer appointed by the King, may fende an offender to ward, by authoritie. Ergo, eutry man may.

Din to dofference and The cymel a many see in

The iuff is five been the

.27151

31111116

It is not lawfull to walke in the Areates of London after the watch is fet.

and most of Ergoit is not lawfull to walke in London at all.

non rous Sicis notiabilite gine a blowe within the Court

Ergo it is not lawfull at all in mone obme befence, entaine . Sit is the Image of a man, and all rein ad solute is Ergo, it is a man, . In a solute a soul is in a described Compare thefe two weether, and marke the accident adjopned to a man, and pe thall perceive that it taketh away all liveflaunce, and leaveth only the that weether, this word painted, refiral neith the other, and compaffeth him within his boundes, so that a painted man, can no more be called a man, then an adulterous wife, can be ealled a wife: for so long is a woman called a wife, as the keepesh her felf, within the boundes of Aparrimonic, otherwise the is no wife, although men ble to call them wives.

The

The three deceiptfull.

Secundum non causam, vi causam, that is, when a cause that is not able to proue the matter, is brought in, as though it A cause that were of some, and strength, but the grounde being constitution for a cause.

Donkeneffe is euill:

310

at es

ıff

ii-

ot

ÉS

H

Ne.

lie

tb

f

n

toline is not to be reproued altogether, although fome aome the fame, for it is a good thing ordeined of God, for the fuffe-naunce of man.

An other argument,

Some young men when they come to the landes fall to buthiftenes.

Ergo riches are not good.

In all such arguments, wherein good thinges are reproued, because each bodies abuse the same, the early will and the naughtie enclination of the man, which abused, such thinges is to bee rebuked: and therefore when it is otherwise, it may be said, that a cause which is not, is put for a cause. As some abuse Paules meaning, when they goe about to deprace Philosophie.

C Paul warned that we thould not be desciued by phi-losophp.

Ergo Philosophie is naught, fay some. .

Philosophie.

The argument voeth not followe, is, a good thing may bee much abuled, and pet the thing it felfe map not be altogether refected as naught: therefore Paul voeth not condemne demonstrations, and principles, which are assured trueths, taught by setting, as in Arithmetike. iiii. and. iiii. make. viii. In Philosophie, the whole is greater then the parte, voe as thou wouldest bee wen unto, but he reproued the abuse of setences, when there is made a mingle mangle of them, a one consorted with an other, as some have saich that Philosophy will teach a Chissian, as sinch for his profession, as the Prophetes, and the whole Bible besides will noe; this made Paul bid men take heed that they be not deceived by Philosophie.

Now a vales they will fay, I cannot tell, here is much mea, chees & cuill.

X.i. ching livers.

ching, much teaching of Gods word, but Afec fewe folowers of it, it was a better worlde; when we had not halfe to many Preschers, Perelies were never more ripe, naughtinesse never work abounded, therefore geue us the old learning again, and take pouthe newe.

This reason is not worth a strawe. The wickednesse of the Preachers cometh not of their learning, but of their vicious natures, and naughtie desires: so, out of one and the same flower the Bre sucketh Pony, and the Spiver draweth poplon. By these and such other examples, be may easely espic, wherefore the argument is not good, if he marke whether the true cause be in the sommer proposition, or some counterfait reason, which seemeth to prove, and pet in deep daeth not prove the matter at all, so, if Freason thus.

C Jobson and Robson looken through an henge, and the one fame the other.

Ergo they two are both nigh of kindred.

That man feeth not, that doeth fee any lot at all, that this meare hangeth together like a broken pot shearde, and that the Antecedent doeth nothing at all, prove the Consequent; and pet the other arguments about rehearset (if they be narrowly marked) are as soolish and as worthy to be laughed at, as is this foolish fond reason, and madly invented argument.

An other argument, 200111111222000

Sfeare not the lignes of the Eliment, Ergo thep liquide none evill to come.

The confequent is falle, for Chill voeth forbir his disciples, to feare the fignes, not because they fignifie none entil to come, but because that where as they fignifie harme, and punishment to the wollo, whicked persones: yet be will be a present succour to his church, and never leave it comfortlesse. As when the god-lie heare this (feare not veath) it voeth not foldowe, but that veath is an harrise thing, and much reput naunt to mans nature.

This veripefull argument is much bled in this our life, made abuckler for divers matters. As whe I am lost to be of a quel, of that any furh bufineffe thoulve trobute me, being fent for & Riche man. faine my feife ficke, becaule I would not gladly come. Dy when Bithop. one that is rich fould belpe a poore man, to fay: God belpe you fir I have a great charge my felf, I can not doe for you. Dy whe Lavier a Bifhon thouls be belired to teach or preach, to fap, be is ficke. Dy when a Lawier being befired to helpe a poore man and profered there byon, a little money, even fo much as the poore man can not well spare, a pernot halfe so much as the Lawier would haue: Areight to fap. I am forp, I can not boc for pou, if I were not called boon other wife by diucrfe men . I would not faile to Doe you good, that is as they fay in English, better a bab ercufe, then none at all, in Latine it is called Non caufa pro caufa pofita. And the bang of fuch excules emong the Rhetoricians, is called translatio, that is to lay a fhifting of the fault from one to an o ther. As we reade that Demades bled a wonderfull good thiff, Demade, when it was laied fore to his charge , that he had witten a bery naughtie becree and bubonett, for the obterning of the peace at Alexanders band. We answered that the same becree was not witte with his owne writing venne but with Alexanders warring speare, which is almuch to fay, feare Did Drine him to take fuch a fuch condicions of peace. The reade a notable Difforie of a rong child in Kome, called Papirius, which because both it is Papirius. pleafaint, and much to be wondered at, and allo ferueth for this purpole right aptly, I thinke it meete to be rehearled in this place, This Papirius being a yong lab, of ten or twelue perce ald, and fonne to one of the Senatours in Rome ( which were then, as noble men be now in Englande, Lords of the counfaill) ment every day with his father, to the parliament house, and heard frotime to time, all matters that were bebated there. Dis father cuermoze charged him, that he thould not beter any thing. which he heard, to any body lining. It happened afterward, that byon begent causes and weightie affaires, the counsail did so fit much longer, then they were went, and cotinued fo, for the frace of leven nights. Every body marveled, what this matter fould be. This childe Papiring knewe all. Die mother being molt of Woman deffall belirous to know what it fould be, when the could not attein things.

Bad excules.

the knowledge thereof, by her husbande, the called the boye to confession , and bauing the Instrument of absolution by her. that is, a very good birchen robbe, charged her fonne, truck to tell her every whitte that was bebated in the Warliament house. or els be fould fmart for it furely: For, what with thy ferrete. nelle of the thing, and what with the filence of her forme, the was wonderfully with childe, till the had gotten fonie what of the boy The boy himfelfe, first remembring his fathers commaunde. ment, and confidering how he thould be paied at his hand, if he tolo all things in beede, as they were: and againe on the other fibe, fecing mefent paine befoze him, the robbe at hande, his mos ther with childe, till the were fomewhat fatiffied, thought it better, metrly, and by the way to mocke his mother, and foto frome her mouth, with forme forged tale : then fallely to bemay his fas ther, his frends, and all his countrie. And therefore thus he began craftely to fape his tale: Dother, if you will promife mee to keeve that close, which I fall disclose onto you, and tell it no body lining, you fort beare the whole matter, even as it is. She aufwered, fhe would not tell it again, whatfoeuer it mere. Then fair be, mother the matter wholy concernethmariage, and the counfaill have long bebated, whether it were better, for one man to have two wives, or one woman to have two hulbandes and as pet, the matter hangeth in fufpence. When the heard this, her heart burned, and her Romache was overcharged wonderfully. that except thee had layout, in one of her neighbours lappes it Wome hard- was like the would have bratt. Dut the goeth, and maketh much ly keope cou- fpeede with her tongue, as the booth with her feete, and telleth it im mediatly to her next neighbour, & from one to another, till at length a number knewe it, where been they agreed whole, to go altegether to the counfaill boule, to entreate the Senatours. to fit no longer byon this matter, but clerely to betermine with one affent and confent, that it were beft and mott expedient for euerp woman to have two housebands, and not otherwise, for no mailes good any thing heretofore to the contravie norwithflanbing. By this example pe may fee the fubtiltie of this beceint. For when the mother alked per foune, what the eaufe was of their

Papirius anfeere to his ajother.

Caill.

their folong fitting he told her a cleane contrarie thing, which the countail never thought, non pet once minded, this is, non causa pro causa pro causa profia, A cause that is not put for a cause.

The fowerth deceipt.

Alacia consequentis, when the consequent, that is to lay, The consethe latter proposition is endly gathered by the antecedent, quene, which goeth before. And the wip to know the faulte, of this decemptfull argument, is so cramine the argument, with the precepts of Logike, above rehearsed.

Serga good beedes purchale beathquing at an and

This argument is not good, first considering, we can not full out faith are fill the Lawe, by our selves. Agains, workes are wicked, that wicked are voen without saithe, so that sirst were used bee in the state of grace by saith, and allured through saith, to live ener, before our workes shalve accepted for good, neither can our doings be perfect, in any part, to suffill Sads will, and his commandements, and therefore, though cuil veedes vessure death, pet good veedes can never purchase life, so long as we be not able, to suffill the Lawe, as GDD knoweth we shall never be: Scripture, our consciences, the worlde, and all, bearing witnesse against bs: Of signes that be not proper, neither tary longer, no strong argument is made, as thus,

Sibe is pale in countenaunce.

Zergo be is in love.

Palenelle may come of flubie, or care, and thought, of abilinence, of watching, of fome offenperature in the body, and many other wayes befides.

Againe, there is another rule, Aposse adose, non oft bona, confequencia. Brause a thing may be it shall not therefore follow that it is. As the Catholikes have served up, so the Sacrament saying that because Godisopratipotent, and may be in the Sacrament, by his power really: ergo he is there really. For so may I say, Gad may feede every Christian, both in body and soule, with the might of his worde. Ergo her doch so. The Prophete saith I never sawe a tust man solaken of GDD, not his seede faith I never sawe a tust man solaken of GDD, not his seede

The facrament of Chri fles bodie

Bertama his blead, And ver Gob borth not feebrall & Briftians. will his worde enelp, bue weth bis appointed will generally. Likewife in the Sacrament, Gotfeebeth be fpiritually bicaufe the fieth eaten, profiteth nothing, and they that eate the Sacrament in faith, tarp in God, and God in them fpiritually, and haue life cuctlatting, whereas other that eate it without fauth, have it not at all for tacke of faieb, confidering Gobis no wicken man. But in the ofo worlde, many wonders were wought, and becaufe things might be affithings thould be, sether wento baue it, and pet I cannot be perfugbed to thinke that, breaufe all victes may be boneft therefore they all be bonett. Worker with.

from the generalt, to the interiout, affirmatiurly, is no good argunient mabe.

We'ls aman of power.

Eres be is a good man of power.

Good men be hard to come by.

our faith are

De may not withtanding, be an cuill man, pea, and fonce euil. then good, for mone tan cell almost now a bates, where the room men bog owell. Di if thep bine bibelling places till, vet fewe can finde them achome. Againe, to make an argument, from those things, which happen to a man, and may be away : the reas fon can not ofneceffitte foffowe?

Sehis olo man goeth gaffp, and like a poung man.

Ereabeis in four with fome women.

In this realon, a likelihobe is made neceffarte, as though it could not other wife be; but that he were in foue, because be was in fred apparell, your man like. Buefortis thole capcious trufe, I chinke it bell, that pe marke the rufes, aboue rebearfee. and pe final not faile to efpie the fault, for the Deceipt is fone feen if ve call the argument to accompt.

The fifth deceiped dienne i anali, a may &

mesmond

ons.

Queffions afked two way es.

Many quelli- "Lures interogheiones, many quelliens, that is, when I go as bout to receive one, afking him this, and that, and he thinking not to what ende he af ke bein, attengeh is brought to an inconvenience, by his former graunting , ofthings particutarly, and it is it wayes confrored, first when we alke of many chings, one, and again when we alke of oucebing many things! us de la de la compania del compania de la compania de la compania del compania de la compania del compania de la compania de la compania de la compania del la compania del compania del and pur fath divers questions, before we come to the purpose.

Is water and wine hotte or no':

The question is asked to that he must answere to them both, which he cannot doe at one time, and gene one resolute answere birectly, according to the demanders will. But this is a trifle, and one that bath but a sponefull of wie, may answere to this question, bling a difference, and severally specially the qualities of both Coline and water, otherwise he cannot be able, to make any reasonable answere, as the question is propounce.

Is morthipping of Saintes, and praying to God himlelte, allawed among Chillians of no.

Dire ye fee, that for two binerte things, one certain question to directly required, where as no man can infly and were a words and therefore the question being twans made toyntly, must be-uerally be foluted.

0

1-

I will merelpadde another, which agreeth to the fecond mas ner of afking and I will abbe the fame, rather to geue matter of A horfe prolaughing, then that there is any greate weight in it. I Lawier mifed to a latooke pawes in a matter of Lame, togacertain gentleman, that wier. was louie finte a leboler. The gentleman momileo bim a boile for his labour, the Lawier after paines taken, required his boile, the gentleman benighed his debt, although the Lawier had witnelle. And thus the gentleman reasoned merily for hunfeligs fir quoth be all harles bee not of one colour, but of dinerle colours fome blacke, fome white, fame bave, fome baple : if I owe pourant by praintle, I ome poune more of one colour, then I oce of another, convering, I dia promile you no more of one colour, then I bit of another, and I may be allebarged of my promile, afwell in belivering one certain coloured borfe, as an other. Therefore, either Tome you boiles of all colours, on els Towe you none at al: but I doe not ome you beles of all colours (confivering Appointed you but one) therfore, Tome you wone Dea, ferue you me la quoth a Lamica, Warie this fchole point, much paffeth al our Lame poputes. Mell fir, ag it pleafeth pou, quoth he if you be at that point. When the gentleman fame hom fo realm differing reafonable, and heard him fay fo , he gave him , according to his promife, confloering, he referred the whole marter to gently, to bis pleafurc.

For this lecond maner of alking, when of one thing , many are alked one may eafely be enueigled and brought to an inconurmence, before be ve ware, and of this kinde of arming chere is atto another example in Tulli, where beefpeakethin his booke De inventione, of this figure inductio, which is by things not boubtfulf.to propue that thene true, which is poubtfull. Socrates the weth that Aspasia had this talke with Zenophon, and bis wife, in maner and forme following, after other communis cation had before. And tell mee in fayth ( quod Afpafia ) if thy neighbour had more precious Tewels, then thou nowe haft. whether wouldest thou with to have hers or thone owne & She answered. I would have hers. What if the had more coffly garments, more fine apparell, wouldeft thou not haue it alfo 'Dea Marie would I (quot the. ) Ah well I fap, what if thoneighbour had a better houseband, then thou nowe haft, whether hatt thou rather heepe thine owne fill, or haue hers mith that thee bluther. Then Afpafia, when opportunite ferued, fpake to Zenophon tike wife, and lapbe merily bino him, be not knowing of this that was spoken before. I pray theetell me Zenophon: what if the neighbour had a better hoife then thine is , habbett thou rather have thine owne, o) thy neighbours? I would have his farth bee. What if he had better land theurthou hatt, wouls belf thon have his, or chine owne, I would have his layerly bee. ZOthat if he had a better wife the thou haff, wouldeft thou chauce or no ! Dere Zenophon fapte neuer a mort. Then fpake Afpafia. Foralmuch as both of you, onely have not auniwered nice , in that point , which I mott belire to knowe: Imp leffe will theme what both you thinke. For you beeing a woman, fire veliced a very honel man co your houseband, and Zenophon becing a man belieth to have a right honell woman. Therefore, execut you both that to behave your feluce, that there may be found, neither man, nor woman, more boneff byon earth then you twoo bee, unpoubtedly you both will evermore most 244 earneftly.

Socrates,

Zenophon.

earneally defire that , which you thinke principall and betrof affi both that thou beeing a bufbande, anigt ceft haueariche beart wife, and you also being a woman; might bee married to a right honeft hul band. ..

The fixt deceipt. Epetitio principi, the Cuckowes long, that is, repeating of The Cles that wholy in the conclusion, which before was onely fuos Lowes long. ken in the first movelition: or els bythinges bombefull, to proue thinges that are as doubtfull.

Euery flaunderer muft be banifhed the Obiat.

Corry than may feet retendent is month am men upot

Ergeneuern Cannerer mutt be bamilhevebe Court The conclution is not well wathered, for it thould not be but deriall, but particular and therefore, freing the fame is repeated that was fooken before without any good probation in my ining it may be called the Euchowes fong Self willed folke that fol tome luft, and forfake realon, bleoftithe Curkoines fonn, As being af ked why they will bothis and that they answere freight Bany, because I will boe it, of because it pleaseth me belt to co Doe. The poore men being thus auniwered of the wealthie thall barply escape baunger: For though it be a plaine beceipe, and by A reason reason should be overthrowne per so long as might bearethrule, without reaand right is fet a libe, realon is out of realon , and beth but Hitele fon. belpe. Some women gre fichiected this aun frete, Which in wit Doe ercell, though in the eight parter of veafon, fewe Schollers can hardly finderhem. Wielk Wood armune all our willes, to frank euer with his will , and then Jaoube nor , bur this barine fhall with eafe be anopped, and alloeseint for ever fer apart; Againe, hiben an buknolung thing is moned tip adlang, that is alliniel baknowne, as the other is.

-Molda Sandouegeroeit, finnen be forginen to the bears Erge, wemuft fay Maffethilbforthe beating

This hils reason fond Pheachersherstofare have made that therefore, we mult have Maffe for the bear, becaute in Burgarerie, finnes be forgiuen the bead . And pet woubt & afinuch of this place of Purgatorie, and mittentthis footifs Walling , and to fap 257 fan trueth it is finne to like either of them both, and as for 39 me gratorie, I thinke there was never any fuch, but only invented to feare the fimple, as chilmen haue been made afraide with a Clifarb, or els found out to picke mens purles. An other.

Purgatorie.

Praying to Smacks.

Cultome,

Nurce vnto

Thus many hundred yeres have men bled to may to Saincte beparteb.

Eres, they boe not amille, that pray to the bear fill. Taunfwere, whosedome hath been pled thefe many hundres peares : Ergo,it is lawfull, both to baue Stemes, and to que to the Stewes Rill.

Euery man may fee, bow foolish this argument is, and pet it is as good as the other, energinely ofthe For although men have maien,men haue mon ou Pitgriniage Chute long, and thus long: vet it is not therefore true that the people bis well therein, for me Englif men knowe (not onelp by beare fay but alfo by good ernerience) that cuftome is the mother, and the fuckgiver burg all errour. And therefore, when such arguments are made, wee naughtinelle. Sap. Dubium per id quad aque dubium eft , confirmatur . That which is bou'stfull is proued by that which is as doubtfull, and fo we por not allowe the argument, and mind

Thirdly, when that thing is taken to mour, as though it were impoubted, and every body agreed thereunts, where as pet it is in controuerficara, molent fo tuo et no art, acil a tala Anabaptifts.

C She Anabaptifteshaub die boly Bhoff, the teacher hour his the cinte paragond that our

Eresthep neede notes beare the Golpell , nor vet

Edibo knoweth not, that hath any knowledge of the trueth. that the first may bestamfully bombted, and rather britico, then graunteb.

Fowerthly, this vecespe is then blev, when this which followeth, moueth char, which goeth before, as though the Cart went before the borfe : for, often times that thing which is product, is more affured then that, which both mone, as thus.

rie, finnes be forgricen et orac din dintamentantament sin arms, at Erge thep muft be Bautifen, a nioragrucif to coalg Infants.

41.

Che

The confequent is undoubted true for almuch as we finde to To in the Scripture, that in the Primative Church, whole families were Baptifed, children, and all: for, we reade not that they were excepted, pet some boubt, and that of the greatest Clerks. whether chilozen baue faith, or no.

The fixt deceipt.

Gnoratio elenchi (that is the mistaking of contradictorie pro Mistaking of politions) is a deccipeful argument, which comprehendeth in contradictoit felle all other aboue rehearled fubtilties . The occasion of rie proposthis errour rifeth. for not knowing what is contradiction. Contradiction therefore, is a repugnauncie of one and the fame not Substaunce onely , nor per name onely, but of the Substaunce, and name both together. Aristotle notwithflanding bath compassed this deceipt within his boundes. First, when respect is not made to one and the fame thing, but dinerfly applied.

Co eate flefh, is good for bralth fake.

To cate fich is not good, when offence may follow. Ergo, to cate fielb is good, and not good

Truthit is, and per Gall tonot followe, that pholocifer cateth, the fame man both offende : confidering to cate is lawfull. and is none offence to God at al, being once allowed by the Ba. giffrate, in whole hand lieth the whole ordring of this mattery :

Againe, this beceipt is wied, when contradiction is made ac cording to divers respects, as thus, and and an retride and

The Lawe is to be followed in Morall precentes. and not in Ceremonialles, not yet almaies in in-Dicialles neither.

Ergo, the law is to be folomed, a not to be folomed. It is even fo, and pet not true neither that the law is alwaics to be refected, and to be followed, ag it pleaferbour phantafies.

Thirdly, this lubrilitie is fallioned, when a contradiction is bled, and net not bled of like force, to that the latter part, both not benpe the former, in one maner of unberftanding asebus.

I'l knowe the worde of God .... mary git en ited ded

I and I doe not knowe it. in grand and the configuration Thole that line licenciously, and feare not the generall refur-D.if. rection.

rection, may willy be here included, and the two lentences, which freme to gainfay, map both be true in them: for, fome knowe that the Scriptures are of God,or at leaft thei know, that the Scriptures are commonly taken for the worde of &DD, and pet they themselves, knowe not one worde of Gods will, nor per passe a whit for it. Dr we may fap, that those poore foules in the Hopes remie, knowe the worde of God onely by hearefay, when they heard the Solvell read in Latine, and could not tell one worde what it meant

Fourthip, the tyme may after thinges, and make two viners thinges to be both true. As thus.

To worke won the Sabbotles forbioden , and yet not to worke boon other baies, is allo forbisden. / Ergo, to worke, and not to worke, are both forbitben.

It is an eafie matter to anopoe all furb beceives. Eberefore. there is a rule in Logike, that two contradictions can never bee both either falle of true, at one and the fame time, and that in one Telpect, as thus pou ons, don a at diff 115 say mingle & Allerue beleevers Hiall accoine fatuacion.

Some true beleeners hatt not atraine fahration. Thefe two propolitions can mener bee both together, either true m falle . Mom, the other which were mabe before; may bee both true, at one and the fame tonie, and therefore, they are not contradictories, because thep we not confroered in refuect of one anothe fame thene the one and the fame tyme, but binertly apwhich and confluences as thus.

To meach in the Controvation to meete for a man.

of of a clame not for a worthant.

and a probye, to preathes meete, and not meete.

. All chiese brue being biverety confloered, fieft a thoman map mos oreach and peca man may and to the fentence is true, and it man well bee fablite preach is meete, and nor meete, mithout a. ny contradiction at all because of the biners reforcts, which bie had both to the man, and to the woman. If the rule of contradictorie propolitions before rehearles bee mell marked, all thele becentres man enfelo be ausybed. . 19011337

Of particular anoyding falle arguments, and on which are deriued from the place.

Then I fee an argument berined , from thefe fubrile places , orels from the places of invention , which a auoyding haue before at large occlared: Fonghtto obferne bill: falle argugently, the generall rules and precepts there given : for, if one ments. realouthus from the general word, fuch a manfollowed naughtineffe: Gree beis a threfe, the argument is not good, and the ercour ameageth the rather, by this generall rule. Frain the generall to the kinde, the argument is not good. For, though one bee naught otherwife, pet niay be line naughtely long enough, and pet been o theefe at all as be may bee an abulterer, afwearer, or we but ficuder, per to nereater matters, the fame to ceribail doul.

Fallereafons made through the will a male the framingiofan argumenting ap min in simis DE wong framing, map wichealebet efvied if the rit. Faffe reafons les be once learned, that are before fee forth for the famire framing. rules especiall, and proper to themselves, whereby the true orde. ring of an argument, is better knowne ainel m admod and and

Of obiections made to an argument.

Biections are then bled , when wee doenot beffalue the Obiections. argument by the rules of Logike, ordirectly anovoe the baunger, butbritg an other thing as an example, to ouerthome that, which was woken before, and this maner is tober true, accepting ca the roles : fee, be thefe in dedugation

4. By taking accasion of the felfe fame thing, that is put forth and wrefting it other mile indiend on and out of a made it. By bling the fame enample in an other matter.

iii. By making a cleanecontrary example.

E

till. By flanding spauchodie; or bling fencences of the fare.

Farthe first, this manueleman ferue mebes are mood because they laing pleasure. The answere: May Barie riches are ruill. because then being woe. afriday a non grant and no brankard, for 3 fame bim once fober.

Df the fecond, thus Such a one is an honelt man, for, I fam him once give almes to the nome: A sun force: Such a one is D.iii. 2/1

Of the third, thus. Such an honeft man bath once received a great displeature, of his friend and neighbour. Ergo, he may have him deadly for one. May, not to, for the wicked man will force tymes forgive, receiving displeature, and therfore, the good man must much more forgive.

Diche fowerth, thus. Forgive bim, because he is a childe.
Rapi not so, for Salomon bibbeth, that the roobe should not goe from the childe, therefore, it is good to beate him, when he offen beth.

I have transpled thus farre, to difclofe butruthes, and to oven cloked erroups, wherein though femetimes, the cramples bee but ficader, pet in greater matters, the fame beceipt hath cas hen place . Therefore, though to the Englith eare , they may feeme Braunge, pet I hopethep will be better taken, when this is knowne and fully feene , that they give light to greater metters , and that a orike by good other , and perfect reafon, both rule all; and efpieth faultes, which otherwife would birebe of fencesfor, tooke what falle argument is bled, the fame may with eafe bee founde in fome one of thefe beceiptfull corners ofels where in the places of invention, and therefore, map by art cafe. ly becauopoen: efpecially, if the other rules about rehearfed bee mnce well bilireffeb. For the rules are touch flones, to true has tructhe, and to frame matters right. And generally, good beede ought to bee hab, that the matter, and forme of every argument bce true, according to the rules : for, by thefe two pointes, all errourgare efpico . The faulte is in thematter (called in Latine Materia ) when wordes are boubtfull, and map biuerfly bee tas ken , and allo when the pith or lubbaunce of the matter is confounded, and fraungelybled by wordes toyned together, and thinges not orderly placed in all which kinde of arguments, ve multble cither a flat benyall of the propolition, or els ble a di-Rinction , to theme how the argument may bee true, and howit may be falle, according as it is underflaubet. Tale ble a benvall when of two propolitions in the argument, we benigh either the mopolition at large, or the feuerall by thewing the fault to bee in the Fault in the matter.

the definition in the devillon in the causes, or some other place: Asthus.

I hat good cheere in fuch a mans boule.

Ergo he is an boneft man.

Dere the fault is in the Definition, for, if I mould goe about to befine an honelt man, every hobie would laughme to frome if I would thus beffre him . That man, who focuer he bethat mahech mee good cheere at his house, is a very honest man : but I muft rather fap thus . Whatfoeuer be is, that both as he would be some buto, and wongeth no bodie, but liveth ftill buturhely. godly, and continently, the fame is an boneft man, or els not. For bertue is gotten by long practife and by well boing of many good thinges, not by making a good dinner, and therefore the or ther about rehearled befinition, because it is not lawfull, nor as greeing with the rules of a befinition is beterly to be benighed. this reason applied thereunto, that the definition is not lawfull. Potwithfanding, in taking of honest men everyone the weals thieff are confidered, and therefore, thus and fuch like talke is commonly bles. Of what opinion is fuch a man' An honeft man furely, layth an otherston, he will cate his meate, I warrant you, Gofpell prabe is none of thefe ferupulous confeiences , be bath the Byble in ters, taken for his house pemap besurertalke with him of the Sacrament whe good men. you will and he is able to aun were adomnis quare . As though whole Reliction Roode in thefe pointes onely . I afked once a fellowe in Latine if he could doe any thing in the Beriptures. whole learning I was then commaunded to eramine . De aun-Swered me thus . Eriam, pollum fabulari de Sacramento, si placet. That is, pea fir, I can babble of the Sacrament if it pleafe pour. Dea (o I) Dary then you have enough, and I warrant you amaint all men, and fo bad him farewell being welt infructed of his great worthines . Tremember of an other, and that no finall bird, which was better fearned then wife, and pet not fo wel learned in beed, as be thoughthimfelf in his owns opinion) wife, and bled an other more damigerous realon . For whereas it chauncen by occasion of talke, that one in his companie enveighed againft the fame mang friend freaking things nothing tothlome,

SHIFF

and

Rage overthroweth reason.

Carters Sophiltrie.

and other wife then he would glade peare although not areally milling the quilben, in reporting trueth, he tooke the matter web hot and like a freend frake earneftly in his freendes caufe telli. fring for his honeftie, with mott confraunt werdes, and to perfinate him the better be blee this fore reatoni Choicaet to biame (muoth be) to bepraue fuch'a manige Minnacith's for by Good his ther he is a very hone timan, for he is my fretal friend. Two lib than (bouloeff know it, and ther fore, reafeth prapling: will that, other came to part them , for thep fell to reafoning with artis ments , that were neither in Andre, nor in moode, but foode in plaine buffets, which is a laborate what is not mentioned within the command of this booke, and thereote munice cons neither tak it be anoporolerceur one haue alse preees by some weapoit sichis hand, do beard of fuch beceipes, and fo faue himfelfe harmeleffel Some call fuch rough beating Carrees Sophiffrie, when the first reasoneth a matter by buffets, which the tonque Mould prout by arguments. Again for the Deutlidentwhen it is not wel made, to is to be benped in like maner the caufe the web wife and where commonly bles. De what opinionis luch a mant iore, as thus!

and the Course man is either waltfull or couetous. (a), drail Cicero is a manahana amalmunda sisuata sa

Ergo, Cicerois either waffull or conerous. 100 and

This beutlion is not good, for many men offend in neither. bucline moderatly content with their owne, be it never to little, Moreover, which no reue cause is applied, but a falle realbu for ged be may anopte the damace by denying it, as thus.

S Money maketh unthuftes.

Ergo, money is naughe leduc and f. til mag, of rad if Orthus.d request quest (E p) Late

Spire burneth lioules in midad of das, nom ils uning

ZErgenbhat hall we voe mieric duridit ou rann aid of 129 due, of Orthus

Senter brounert whole Cities. 3 31 28,6330 m 03#

Ereo, water is nothing profitable. In afffuch arguments, the true cause is onnitted, and a course

confectionale wied, from neither money, nor the nor per water vol harme harme of themselves, but the many times of nature, which abuse leth them, and the negligence of man, which follerth not conficulties is the very true cause of their cuell boing: and yet in weighties matters, such fond reasons have been bled, as for the reasons of Gods words word, for women to be learned, for Rhetorike to be taught. Gods words of the temporal state at this day, in this our Readness dee fre. Rhetorike.

Téporal laws

A villinction mult be viev, when any worde is boubtfull, and may be taken dinertly. As thus.

Sergo, it is bery good.

Here a vistinction must be vied, for tyme alwell lignifieth an hearbe, as it lignifieth the space, which is authouse, day, or yeare. A freend of myne was called Harrist one not well knowing his name, called him Harrisonne. I benigh the some (q be) not meaning the second person in Trinitie, but the addition of this word.

(Conne.)

A learned man a Phillicion (some knowe whom I meane) has a religion of the later, that was much worne, and bare at the heaft, being then also poore withall, and having a thin purse, litting at a table, a laying his hand upon his breast, sapo thus merely to his freend: Elell (quoth he) for all this hard world, at the world I am thus much world, even in bare Cleluet. The same man afterward, sitting at a table, not having chowe roune, but being troubled, and his coate somewhat arased, which was vessed of the Chiermans, not past two or three daies before, sapo merely: I pray you my masters, bee good to my coate, so I pronule you, within these two or three daies, it hat he sapte a scouring.

A poung man of Cambridge, francing in a Galerie over the Ayong man, water, and looking on his Booke, batting the water on the one of Cambridge. Along and a garden on the other fide, wherin (asit channed then) were divers mathens of the towns, (for it was about Galler, at what tyme mailes gadden abroade; after they had taken their Waker, as they call it ) he being thus befet, one of his fellowes being abroade, and feeing him there, bad him come over to him.

i. De

the answered, I cannot forme. The other demanned why: Aprilic (apie) because I am compatted with fire and water. Peaning the matters to bee fire, and appoundation to lust, burning worse then fire and so all grow Aucthors have vied this worde fire. As Terence. Accede ad ignes have, iam calesces plus facis. Conre to this five, sath Parmeno to Phedria, meaning Thais the Barlot, and poult libe as hot as coales, by and by. Therefore, where such speach is plev, it is alwaies called in Latine, Meraphora. That is to say, a turning from the proper signification to that which is not proper, wherein the old Philosophers have wonderfully excelled, as Diogenes, Socrates, and in our time, Sir Thomas More, a man so his wit, very singular.

Faultin the making of an argument.

it, may bee villolued, when wee thewe that the conclusion, is not well proved by the former propositions, and that the argument, is either not well made, in figure or in mode, or in both: for of true thinges, none other thing can be concluded but trueth, if the wee forme of concluding be observed, and the inst placing or setting of the pates of termes, called in Latine, commis, as pe heard before, be truely kept, as the rules before have taught. Not with standing of falle propositions, and budoubted trueth may well concluded, as thus.

Cuery finne may be luffered in a Common weale.

Ergo every execution bone by a fame, may be luffer red in a Common weale.

The two first propositions are manifestly falle; and pet the conclusion is very true. So that pe may see, after two falle propositions, a true conclusion may followe, and not convery wise, of two true propositions, a false conclusion can be made. For as we say in Latine, Ex very nil nift very sequing; that is to say, of true things, nothing both followed ut trueth. Therefore, when the conclusion seemeth not good, pe may instly suspect the other two propositions, although they seemenever so true, for undoubtedly, the fault is either in the cuil knitting when the argument is not in his mood and figure accordingly) or els in the consounding ofmy of wordes either cuill placed, of not well applied, or els in the poubtfulnelle of fome worde.

> Callryot is an offence. Mo couetoulnelle is rpot.

Ergo, no couetoninelle is any offence.

Thus we fee a falle conclution, made of two bindoubted true Propositions, and pet I land before, of true layings nothing both followe but onelp trueth. But abive, pe muft eramine this argument with the rules , and then pe thall fee, that the fault is in the forme. or maner of making an argument. For it is in no moode in the firtt figure, althought be an argument of the firtt figure.

Sometime the fault is only in the matter, and not in the ma. Fault in the ner of making an argument, whereof there are bivers examples matter of an aboue rebearled. Sometimes the fault is bothinthe matter and in the maner of making an argument, as thus.

The earth is mofitable, and caufeth much plentie.

Kattmen are in the earth.

3

2

3

n

Ľ

20

Ø

Erge, all men are profitable, & caufeth much plentie. Eint,it is in no figure; beeaufe the bubble repeate in the first Proposition, is the lubitatince of the earth, and in the fecond propedicion, is the being in the earth, and to there bee fower termes in the two propolitions ? Aguille, if isin no moode, becaufe the first proposition in the first figure, is not unjuerfal. And this map Inffice, which betherto I have rebearled for the folution of an argument, for atmuch as be that can beuibe, befine, and make his argument in moove and figure, according to the rules before mentioned, and biligently marke boubtfull wordes : thall fone espicife faulter in an cuill argument, forasmuch as it cannot of ther wife be, but that he which knoweth the best . that eafely indee and without bifficultie efptethe worff.

And nowthe rather to belight the Menber, I will ab here certaine wittie quellions and argumers, which can harvip be anop. ded, being very pleasant, a therfore not on worthie to be knowne.

They are calleb trapping arguments, becaufe fewe that aun. Trapping ar-Iwered unto them, can anoybe Dannger, and thus they are named guments. in ftraunge wordes. Zij.

sire araine

Crocodilites.

Cracodilites.
Antistrephon.
Ceratine.
Cacofistaton.
Visi.
Pseudomenos.

Crocodilites, the Serpents guile.

Recoditives, is such a kinve of subtilite, that when we have graunted a thing to our adversarie, being a skep before what he will say: the same curneth to our harms afterward, and causeth an inconvententic cis thereupon to ensue. Aucthours does leigned that Crocodile.

the Crocovile beeing a Montter in Egipt who take a womans childe from her, and fpake with the madberin this wife woman! I will give thee thy childe againe, if thou wilt fay trueth to me, and tell ine affureolp, whether I will gine ther the chito againe or no: She aunfweren, I know afferente ebou wift not gine me mip chilocagaine, and therefore it igreafon I baue my withe aagaine, beganie I have lapo trueth, May land the Contracte : will not give thee the childe agains, because thoumand before to have land trueth. Leaft that if Agine theo the chilve againe. thou thouloeft baue made a les veither per would I baue quien thee thy chile again, if thou had ned laps other wife, because then thou haddelt not lavo trueth. And hereof this aroundent bath his name called Cracodilites, Motwichftanbing , Lucian telleth this sale after an other fort, and maketh Chrisippusto afke an other man, what he would fap, in cale be hould be afficers queftion of the Crocodile as I baue before rehearfeb. danit jud ne il Antistrephon. in sitter file moditie

The rebounding or turning againe of an argument.

Pithagoras and his schooler Enathlus.

A listrephon is nothing els, then courne a mana firing into bis obnie neche againe, and comake that which bee finingeth for his owne purpole, to serve for our purpose, in Latine it may be called Inversio. Aulus Gellius hath a notable erample of Pithagoras, a noble Sophist, and Euathlus Scholer to the same Pithagoras. This Euathlus was a very youg man, and glad to learne Cloquence, and to plead caufes in the Commune place . This pong man therefore, confidering Pithagoras to be a lingular man in this behalfe, and a meete Schoolemafter for his purpole, belired to bee his Scholer, and momifed to give him a great fomme of money for his paines, euen as much as he would alke, and gave him opon a greement halfe in hand before he learned, and couchaunted thereupon, that he fould have the other halfe, even at the first day that be stood at Barre, a by pleabing, got the over hand in judgemet of his adnerlary. After this, when he had been a good while Pithagoras Scholer, and profited bery much in the lawe, and pet not withfranding, came not to the Barre, but fill hifter him of, and tracted the time (of like because he would not pay that relidue of his money ) Pithagoras taketh abuilement, as be himfelfe thought, very fubtlely, a charged him with his promile, having an action of bebt against him, and therefore he called him to the lawe. Where, when he had him before the Audres he beginneth histale in this wife.

and

Dere I have thee now (layth Pithagoras) and learne therfore Pithagoras toolithfellow as theu art, and marke this point for thy learning: reason to his Whether the judgement be given with the or against thee. I that scholer. haue my money enery grote of it. If thou art caft in the lame, I have wonne by vertue of the law: if thou art not call, but getteff the overhand, by indgement of thefe men, pet muft I have it nenertheleffe, becaufe our bargaine was fo mabe, when I first began to ceach thee, Enathlus hearing this, aunswered as pethall Enathlus anbeare. I could eafely auspe this your crooked fubteltie, and bee fwere to his without all baunger, if I would not fland at the Barre my felle, mafter. but act some advocate for me: for by such meanes, you could not charge me with any bebt, collbering I my felf pleabed no caufe. Potwithflanding, Ilike it better a thouland fold, that I mp felf ain here perforally, and fpeake in mine owne cause : leeing that not only. I wil get the overhand of you in this our matter, where by I haibe discharged of bebt, but also even in this argument I will turne pour owne wordes into pour owne necke againe, and fo triumph both waies. And therefore learne you againe, as wife as pe are, and marke this point for your learning, whether the 3.iif. indage.

The Arte of Logike.

suprement be ginen with you, or against you, I that faue my me. nep enery groat of it. For if you be caft in the Law, I have won by pertue of the Lame, and fo I owe you nothing. If you be not caff, but get the ouerhand of me , by the judgement of thefe men: then according to my bargaine, I hall pay you nothing because I baue not gotten the ouerhand in judgement, The Judges fee. ing the matter fo boubtfull, and fo hard to betermine for either partie: fearing to boe amille, left the matter raw without inderment for that tyme , and beferred the fame to an other feafon. Thus pe fee that the young man being the Scholer, gaue his mafer a boane to quame, and bet him with his owne rod, which the mafter bab mabe for bis Scholers taile.

Aristophanes

There is in Arittophanes a wonderfull mette talke, betwirt the father and the fonne, which ferueth wel for this purpole. For where as the fonne had beaten his father , contrary to all order and bonefie : yet notwithkanding, the fonne thought he had as good authoritie to beate his father, if he bib amille, as the father had to beate him, And therefore he fard, wherefore thould my far ther beate me bis father mabe answere, Mary (or be) becaufe I love thee, and would theu flouleeft to wel, Mary therfore quoth pain of thame the fonne will I beace thee to, because I toue thee allo good tas ther, and would then thouldest boe well: with that laye on fire. kes furely, till be made his father graunt p it was as lawfull for the fonne to beate his father, as for the father to beate his fonne.

A good forme

Horned arguments.

Eratine argumentationes , are called horned arguments, the which are fo baungerous to aunfwere buto, for both parts propouned, that it will be hard to escape a foyle. E. nen as when pe fee a Bull, and would catch him by the bornes. ve fee afmuch baunger in the one home, as in the other, and fo you feare to take him on either libe. In like cafe, when thefe bornet acquments are propouned, a man breth can tel what to answere. As we reade in the Bolpel of Mathewe, the prij. Chapter, when the Wharifies bis fend their Difciples (which bis metende holis melle and beare a face of true Religion) to take Chiff in a fnare. And therefore, first they came, giving him a name of authoritie, anb

Pharifies fought to take Christ in a trippe.

and called him mafter, flatteringly, as though be might freake his minde freely to them, because there was none but his Schol lens, and fuch as fought unfeignedly to bee edified in the truethe feconoly, they maile him for his goodnes, that he is true in al his pealings, and pleth no diffimulation : and againe they fap, that not onely he is true, but affor teacheth the way of trueth, and then thus they begin to question with bim, and to feele his mind what he will fap for true in they thought to take him in a trange whether he beld his peace, or fpake and therfore they fapt. Dir map me lamfully pay tribute to Cafar or no's Dr how think you both it fand with Gods worde, that we may pay, or no 't bere Chill mas befet two wates. Fich,it was baungerous for him, to hold his peace: for then he might feeme by fo boing to have refrect to the person of men, to feare, not open the truth in such a weigh tie matter, and to fraine the glorie of God. Of the other part, if he Chauld answere it were a daungerous vece of worke in like maner: for they thought be would either fpeake on Cafars libe , and allome paving of tribute, and fo incurre the hatred of all the pegnle, whereby they might boldly afterward put him to beath : or els they thought be would freake against Cafar, and fo he should commit treafon, and bee apprehendedthereupon as a traytour. Chriftes au But Jefus knowing their naughtie purpole, and plainly feepng fwere. where about they went, disappointed them of their will, that thei could take none aduauntage of him at all. And therefore he faid. because he would publish their falthood, what tempt you me ve hypocrites? Shewe me the copie of the tribute. And they tooke him a penie and he fapo unto them: whole is this Image and fuperferintion ': They fand unto him, Cafars. Then fand he gine therfore buto Cafar the things which are Cafars, and buto God. those things which are Gods. Chaift of not at the first, whe they monouned their question butohim, plainty fay, give buto Cafar the things which are Cafars, but whe be had af ken them, whose corne it mas, and that they by their owne confession, bad graunted it to bee Cafars, wherebythey bare witnesse of themselves. that thei were lubiett to Cafar:he faid forafmuch as pou graunt pour felues, to the bertue of this copne, to be tributaries, pap on Gads

The Arte of Logike.

Gods name to Cafar, the things that partame to Cafar, and but to Ged, thole things that are Gods, id and the control of the co

Cacofistata.

Fuill arguments, that make aswell against one, as with one. Acosstata are such argumets, that being proponed betwene two persons, they serve aswell for the one part, as the other, as thus, you must sorgive him, because he is but a child. Or thus, rie, therfore will I beate him, because he is but a child. Or thus, This man should not bee subged to due, by any temporal sawe, because he is a Priest, yes sparie, therfore should he be adjudged to due, because he is a Priest, and hath offended, which should have given good example to other of well swing. Alas saith one, it is pitte such a mass should be hanged, considering he is a gentleman, And why not gentlemen, alwel as other poore men, if they describe it? Dea, why not they rather then any other, if they more describe it then any other.

Asistata.

Absurde rea-

A Sistana are such arguments, as are impossible to be true, as when a chilo of two yeres old, thoulo be accused of adultrie, as though it were like, that he could offend in such filthinesse, or else thus, if one say, he holdeth his peace, and yet both speake stil.

Vncertaine reasoning.

Tis is nothing els, but when one goeth about to proue a thing, and maketh that which should proue, to bee as uncertaine, as a thing which is proued, as thus. In Purgastorie sinnes are forgiven, by versue of the Passe, Ergo, were must say Passe still. Whereas I thinke there is no godly wise man, but doubteth almuch that Purgatorie is, as he may suffly say, that the Passe savet no man.

P feudomenos.

Alefing.

This is called a lying argument, for whatforure ye shall fay, usuff needes say amisse. Epimenides a man borne in Crete, sayd that the people borne in Crete, were lyers, sayd he true or no. If ye say that he sayd tructh, I may well say that cannot be well sayd: for if the people in Crete be lyers, then lied Epimenines, and so his saying cannot be true, because he was a mathere borne, and one of Crete, and sayd they were lyers. Again, if ye

indge

home that the people there he noe liers, then Frimonices fan trueth, even when he lays, the people of Cress are here because he himself was a man of cress. Our chies high the lite is abus amoy-bed, if ye will say, that where as mention is made of the neovie is in Crese, yet all are not comprehense power the same newber is the propolition universall, but indefinite, that is to lay, not comprehensing all, but certains, as churs. The propole of Cress are liers, trueth it is that manpof them be liers, and vet Episnens des may be excepted, and be a true man of his work not withfran-Ding . As allo be that was marned in his fleepe not to ding cre. One warned bite to any dreames, bid not thinks that dreams vaine, although areames, he jubaed many other to be little elleemed, and mall heeve to be ciuen to them. For by this dreame, be mas marnet not to belene greatly other meanies, and pernocutifications, he was warned urthings eather & cifrige of those the graffs of side of the Dat which a group watche firth fetting forth of this booke, the fame request make I now in correction of the fame. The fire of at months in favourable beine to freprost up meannesse or acthe least confineme none or formy wellinganing out then A hallelinke mufelf fufficiently remarded. But if affence bould breede throughla bour inferned, a no favour gotten, when gentlenelle had been of fered it had been as good (in my mind) to play and lafe nothing. as to take paines, a lofe all . Bucrup trust bring flaied won the honest a godly affected, Thate travailed without feere, boning welly my voings halbe taken without blame. And therfore this obteined, 3 hal belieg al men, for the love of God, to embrace the trueth, a not to med themselves to any opinio, without some Any, or fure foundation of Gods trueth. And where as Bod is the authour of peace a concord, and love them, that on fright full be pon bin in truethe & thell barresp man to Goo, that all wee may Draw affer one line, and leghe one buiforme and found poctrine, to the practe of God, and the comfort of our foules; And because fome heades are very bold to enterfarther then witte can reach, or els haue a monde vainip to quellion, of thinges not needfull: I thought it not a mulle, toiet foorth bere Ariftotics mynne, as ga.f. touching not to be exa fon.

Poret chings touchten things that hould not be brought in quefio. Chere be mined by rea- foure chengs faith fie mbich foulo not be cramined by realon.

And firtt ho man oudit to areae of thele things wherein if as 1. np one put doubt, be beferucth punifomer. As to reason whether there be a God or un. And therfore, Tuflie faith perp well it is a micked an uncooly cultome to bilbute, or talke against Bob. either in earnelf of pet in fport . Againe, it is a fonomelle, co reafon of thole things, which our feces inoge to be true. As to know by realon, whether fire be bot, or no. The which were madneffe to afke, and furely, if any one thould reason with me, I would in. bio him put his finger in it. Thirdlp, it is cuill to reason of those things, which cannot be knowne by man's wit. As to know what Boo the father is in person, what the holle Choff is how they fit and are placed in heaven, or of what making the foule of man is. iii. Fourthly to talke & difpute of thole thinges, which are biboubtentpreue. As in Arithmedique, three a three are fice. In Whitafoulie. The whole is greater then the part. In which matters to moue aup earnell quellion, of to bould buermuch in thinges nothing boubtful were either flarke madnelle or els blake molith. nelle. Oberetole I willy of God that all our realoning mucht be faltened byon fuch mattets, as are necestarie, both for the hearer to learne, and allo good, for the godly realoner to ceach. Willierin though I have botte nothing to well my felfe as my good will was thereunto, pet I truff all bonet bearts wil teftife with me. that I have most earneftly minded the glorie of God, and the fetting forth of his holy name throughout the whole course of this my rube and finule Booke. The which once bone and knowne. Those the gentle Reaver will beare with me in other thinges. and rather helpe me then hate me, when I feeke to belpe all, and > burt none. I afke in remaro, but louing reporte, for incelfaunt labour : the one is caffe for all men to graunt. the other was buffe for me to compatte . Thus I live in bone, pea I bove wel: for tho: rome hove beliolo I crauaile. God be prifet.

Richengheienst annik, 1920 feit guber Ankericanen

211112311423

be a re a month of the control of th

me,

es, and

Douition inge Arall man beerst-	des through know	ladaa of wa
Ccident, anistro y Polis.	S weller	icage of vo
Coldent of the charge charge	Argumenth was a fall	2
Accidents to what vie they	Auguments vilpetieer	alled enthi
ale. mol bil ibigeti	i inclina.	- 1
Accidents devided into substaun-	- Arguments made by a	noune pro
ces. anoninogon odda (3	so per dy miew con ac	Ibidem
Accidets devided into accidets 13	Arguments breefe.	34-35
Accidents being a place. 47.48	Aristophanes.	87
Accidents beeing a false conclu-	Aristotles minde touch	ing the tri to cubrislate of a word and	-or all of any matter.
Doing of any thingnoisA	Arithmetique	was which !
Adioyned wordes.neg ni gno41	Aftronomie
Adulterous womeare no wives .74	Andhoritic of the Col	ivell are as Affections of the minder mio CI	Auchoritie a place of	nuentió de
Alexander and the transfer of the state of t	Acudinas fraincenas	the Chorch
Dicamper and mental games 193	- Waitmes raying About	the Chutch
Ambiguitie	2 A 6 1	35
Anabaptistes, 3 25.72.81	Auguitunes raying dep	ranea by e-
Aunswere made to the matter two	uil pointing.	70
60 propostable of a carrent Wack	co. Charles and Brach	in solici
Apostles had wives. Apr 32 Araying or clothing as binot 13	BAd excules.	77
Araying or clothing ashinoida, 13	Bare two waies taker	1. 70
Arguments how they should bee	Bale two waies taken.	65
22 made of a grant aben.	Bishops maried in old to	me(32.59
Argument what it is Ibidem.	Blind men Gospellers.	31. 172
Arguments of fower kindes. 23	Boyes get boyes in this	time. $8
Arguments in general mult be or-	Breefe arguments.	olars 34
dred by feuen especial rules. 24	The Marie Co.	Zanot
Arguments how they should bee	CAtholique	mo if CI
lettled or placed ent me war 16.	Carters Sophiffrie	A Shorene
Arguments how they are made in	Canles of thinges	17325.66
the first figure are ad ai min 28	Canfe that is not pin for	a canfe 76
Arguments knowne to be in mob-	Ceremonial laws	a cause yo
2. Parent Shirt was no tarrent no		chauncing
1124	na.u.	mauncing

The Table,

Chaincing thinges 47:48	of all thinges.	40
Cirisoftome. 56.75	n	id.
Christes answere being stroken on	Denition is either of a word or	rof
the checke.	a thing.	oid.
Christakerrofthe Jewest 200 69	Deuition ingenerall must be no	ar-
Church doth not erre25 19 4 75	ked by certaine effects fuld	16
Comon weate deuided 3 waies 115	Deutton when it is faultie. The	Ad.
ConcupiscenceEctor 64	Doctors induction in behouf	eof
. Confessions vd sham atmamug 69	endente deutded isheMahen-	A3
. Confutation two waies vseday 63	Dubble propositions 27.	12.
Colequet being neafle coclusio 178	Chiefe denided the seld du Ca	145
-Contrarie Propositions de la 20	· Dubble Persease who is subtle	hôt
. Conherholicore britin a 16:20101	-ulotobealdonbafullworden	25
:Conversion or turning of a pro-	Doubtfulnesse of a worde: noil	64
position needfull paratbalen.	Doing of any thing noit	22
Conversion not made by singuler	Doing in generall either natu	rall
. matit of the Golsabrow 25	Pith on women and and 124	em.
Coniceunes, enalge e sizinotiou 47	Doing or luffing being a place	AAT
Counterfeice chaffitie fondly de-	Dreaming taught one not to	bede leeue dreames eitingida
- Crownediners water taken ngu A8
Cuckowes fong. gaining lin 86	of Nde of things being a place	44
Cultoe nurce vato naughtines, 82	20 Elopes table of a carte of	tack
RAd excuses, C. D. Bare two waies taken biuA Co	offices had wines flaf 32	975
O Bare two waies taken binA	Epimenides Juditolo 10 guiga	168
Definition at solaw own 1447	e Ethilwood water taken?	65
Definition being h place. Ibidem.	· Exaple a kind of argumentario	5.33
Definitió two waies condered. 14	Examples. 117.8.17.23.30	.33
3Definitions ingeneral must be dr	guments of fower kindes. 23	nA.
	TAIR condulations and area
Demades. 77	Falle conclusion what it is	64
Differentia: Differentia: Differentia.	Falle conclusion denided.	bid.
Diogenes Gocke. Oderers 2014	Faulte in the making of an a	rgu-
Diogenes answere to a Sophist. 20	omentie (sai won sie sing	63
Deuition of places is itadi of all	Fault in the matter of an arg.	Ibi.
Deuition teacheth the different
Aa.ii: Chauncing		Faith

Ŕ.

Faith is a worke.	2 Horsepromised to a Lawyer.
Faith defined.	Hyperbole what it is.
Faith dinerfly taken.	a distriction of the state of t
Figures. 26.28.29,3	Eremias.
Figures of thinges dead.
Fourme of thinges living. Ibid	. Induction.
Fourethings through reason mul	Infants. 81
not be tried.	Inuention. 2.36
Framing of an argument.	1
Freedome two waies taken. 25	Iofeph.
Free will.
Friers neuer menuoned in Scrip ture.
From the part to the whole. 73	Justification. 69
	K and a series
GEnus or generall worde.4.7.38	K Nitting of wordes to the sub-
Generall worde two waies de-	flaunce of any thing. 48
Geomet	Kinde.
Geometring of ballid totage
Gospell and the lawe.	King Lud.
Gospell praters taken for honest
balle i en word son colored	Logike. 54
God authour of mariage, 56	Tricionic v margin in activity
Godly are fewe in number. 32	L'Awe of the Gofpel. 16
Good me are hard to come by 69	Lawyers.
	· Letters declaring the reduction or Grammar. hogy to meal soul!	bringing of an argument, from
A and the lattery	the second or third figure to the HAbite. 10.13	first.
Habite two waies deutded. 11	Liberall arts described in meter. 2
Habite of the minde, Ibid.	Likelihoodes.
Hebrue phrases. 69.70	Logike whether it bee or no, what
Heaping reasons. Horned arguments.	it is in substance, what maner Horf kepers better cherished then	what end it is. More fore, or to icholematters, both all and then
due ustates.	Logique two waies deuided. 2
Propried	of Strom Az fig. Logique

"Logique diffreth from Sophist.ibi.	wer waies.
Logique diffreth fro Rhetorique.2	Oratours made absolute by fine e-
Logiques office. Ibidem.	fpeciall points.
Lots daughters.	Order otherwise called Methodus
M	right needfull for every matter.
MAner of speach. 69	. Didt . Smill commission in the Matters aboue reason should	Fourethings the agh realon must not bee searched by course of	PApirius wittie behauour towar-reason. 88	des his mother, and his faith-
Marcus Atrulius Regulus: 33
Mariage of Priestes proued by Lo-	Dartition
gique. 55	Parting of wordes that should bee
Mariage when it should be by Ari- stotles minde. 58	ioyned. 68
	Parts and the whole.
Matter being cause.	Parts integrall. Ibidem.
Methode what it is. 16.39
Moode what it is and how many	Paule rebuking the Corinth. 69
there be in enery figure. 26	Pharifeis fought to trip Christ. 87
Monster. bulgai74	Peter killed Amnias.
Moral Lawe. 15.25	Phisition learned and pleasauntlie
Moyfes Lawe encreaseth sinne, 73	disposed, 84
Musicke. 2	Phrases not knowne have caused
Mistes of words have blinded our	ciroui. 04
bliffe.	Timolopine.
to noicular of Nainte de store L.	Places 24.in number. 37
MAme of a thing. 48	Place what it is. Ibidem.
Naturall pith. 20	Platoes seing of Gods doing. 75
Naturall weakenesse. 10	Politicall lawe.
Nature through God giueth en-	Praying to Saincts. 80
crease.	Pope. 48
Noble divers waies taken. 8	Predicable what it is.
Nowne proper.	Predicaments. 7.8.9
with motors 10 streets	Predicable to what end they are.6
OBservation for things compa-	Priestes. 73
red. besign out employ MI	Proprietie and difference of fon-
Obiectios mad to arguments fo-	Proprietie and difference of fon- drie natures.
and a second second	Proprietie

Proprietie what it is. 4.5	an argument.
Proposition.3.17.18.19.20.21.22	Reduction. 27
Propositions divided according to the matter or nature of the	Relatines declared by a table. 13
thing.	The state of the s Proposition dubble, or the which tandeth of two fentences. 21
Propositions dubble of 3. sorts. 21
Purgatorie. 80
Pithagoras, and his scholer Enath-	Rhetorique, 13
lus. 86
Am languo pa Quanto graff	Rules for deuition. 16
O Valitie what it is. 10.11.12	Rules for making an argumet. 24
Qualitie three we jes deutded.	Truck are a Street Live in the last live
10	Acraments necessarie. 37
Qualities bee instrumentes of na-	Sacraments of Christes body.7
	Sage doubtfully vsed.
Qualities of the le fower, of	Self willed folke.
the transfer in the interest i	Dentences arraited in Qualitie abiding affer from per-	ture.
turbations. Ibidem. Quality hath time properties, 11	Sentence gainfaying.
Qualitic hath time 2 properties. 11	Sennacherib.
Qualitie and the properties.	Similitude of invention. 26 27
Queltions what they are.	Similitude or parable what it is an Queitions how they mould bee v-	Similitude how it should be found fill fed; skipol bongmer on 17	out. Ibide
Questiós made for one thing and	Sleepe what it fignifieth.
diuerfly proued. 79	Sophistrie diffreth from Logi'
K	Species the kind or forting
R Age ouerthroweth reason. 84	Socrates induction.
Reason how it should be found	Sophistes reason to P' out to make an argument. 22 Reasons vnfallible. 31	Substances deuided into cidents.
Rebelles dye wretchedly. 32	Subject or thing
Rebounding or turning againe of	Sin is nothing

an argument T	chedly.
TAble of Substaunce.	Wicked men finne euen when the
Table of qualitie.	o dee luftice. builden one qu'i
Table of Relatives. 13	Wife. onthe no lather ods 57
Table of repugnát propofitiós. 20	Women defirous to knowethin-
Tyme diuerfly taken. 8	ges. 11 10, olddab noutlogoss
Termes or parts to be observed in	Women hardly keepe thinges fe-making an argument. 23094.25	1 crètel. E lo sodub enomico 1078
Teltimonies two waies yied. 49	Wordes spoken Ly imitation. 70
Trapping arguments. 80	Words dubble in meaning thould
Tullies will what it is when men	oc opened.
reason of God. His bank at 86	Words of one name comprehend
Kalerier malkin ven argumer, 24	the nature of many things.
VErtues are made perfect by	Wordesaule was an disputation.
vie. vie.	Ibidem.
Fries given of God only. Ibid.	Worlde what it is so Anifotles minde.
se maketh masteries.
bearightuousnesse vsed in enery	The state of the s
-ankingdome. hand 2 22 103 74	replaced find did for the server
Nowes.	Xenophon. 80
THen conteyning the diver-	Sometick from the Appropriation 11
Grie of tymes 122	VOked wordes.
Where corresending the deferin-	Y Oked wordes. Yong man of Cambridge. 84
h tion of places; word of Ibidem.	Quellous how Znor hould beev-stoleland narts	TEno compared Logike to a fift
eled men make their end wret-	Suchio mide for obsolve and
Socialdicanteen from Lord	digerflygrand 479
Position of the land or forcing	VIS.
Secures multiplion, &	Age guerthroweth reason. 8-
Sophilicare florito In.	"Reafor how it hould befound
fublimer water it.	onttomake margument, ea
Supranges demonstrate	Resions untelling.
- cidents.	region withour region.
onicite feidne	Rebelles due un schedig.
Sinisnochio	Rebounding or turning agains of

C25814 ; 23040 Sragil

REPRODUCED FROM THE COPY IN THE

HENRY E. HUNTINGTON LIBRARY

FOR REFERENCE ONLY. NOT FOR REPRODUCTION